

"IT SEEMED LIKE THROWING MONEY AWAY Until I Tried Gin Pills."

Mr. P. Fitzgerald was completely disheartened. He had suffered so long with his kidneys, and spent so much money on doctors without relief, that he had made up his mind he could not be cured.

Then, he chanced to read about the wonderful cures by Gin Pills, the great Kidney Remedy, and sent for a sample. The pills did him so much good that he immediately bought two full size boxes. And these two boxes of Gin Pills made him feel like another man.

But let Mr. Fitzgerald tell his own story of a really remarkable cure.

Provincial Asylum, Orillia, June 18th.

I have much pleasure in stating that the sample, which you sent me, led me to buy two boxes of Gin Pills from a local druggist. They are the best remedy for Urine Acid Trouble that I have ever tried. I must say that before using Gin Pills, I had undergone a long and expensive course of treatment by eminent specialists of Chicago. They did me no good—it seemed like throwing money away.

I still keep a box of Gin Pills on hand and take one occasionally. I am pleased to recommend them and bear testimony to their efficacy.

P. FITZGERALD.

After reading such a letter at this, you simply can't doubt the value of Gin Pills in cases of Kidney and Bladder Trouble. If you are a sufferer, write the National Drug & Chemical Co., Dept. B, Toronto, for a free sample of Gin Pills and try them at our expense. After you have seen for yourself just what Gin Pills will do, buy the full size box at your dealer's, and remember that Gin Pills are sold with a positive guarantee of a cure or money refunded.

INSPIRE RESPECT THE SENTIMENT OF HUMAN ASSOCIATION

Is Felt on Going Through a Beaver Colony—A Great Dam Built in Eastern Canada.

"I have yet to meet the man who can walk for the first time through a beaver works, as the range of a colony of beavers is called, and not feel something of the sentiment of human association," says a writer in a recent magazine.

"It is a sensation very similar to what we feel when we come out unexpectedly into a woodland clearing after a long day spent in the unbroken solitude.

"I once stood with a learned professor of Columbia College on the bank of a stream in eastern Canada and looked down on a freshly made beaver dam—one of the best in point of construction that I had ever seen. It was indeed a really stupendous affair for a beaver. It was made of mud and small stones, weighted with mud and small stones, it was fifty feet long, six feet high and raised the level of the water by about six inches.

"Seen from the upstream side it presented the appearance of a more or less evenly disposed array of short sticks protruding from a long mound of mud just level with the surface of the restrained water; from below the brushwood supporting the dam proper was plainly visible and the ingenuity of its placing at once apparent.

Paul Kruger's Pistol.

John Harcourt, G.T.R. ticket agent at Port Hope, was a visitor to the big St. Louis Exposition, and while there met a nephew of old Paul Kruger, the late Southern African president, famous by the Boer war. The young fellow's name, too, was Paul Kruger, and Mr. Harcourt spent some time with him. When parting, Kruger promised to send Harcourt his uncle's 12-shot rapid-fire German horse pistol, which weapon came duly a few days ago.

The butt and barrel are detachable and when carried on horseback fit into one another in a close pocket, the barrel being used if needed as merely a pistol, or the butt fastened on the whole being utilized as a carbine. One pull starts 12 shots. The whole weapon is beautifully made and highly polished.

Boys Aero Club Planned.

An aero club is in process of formation at the Broadview Boys' Institute, Toronto. An organization meeting will be held soon. The club will be affiliated with the International Aero Club, which has its headquarters in New York City. The international club has as members a number of wealthy and prominent men, who have set out to encourage boys to form aero clubs and study the science of aviation. When clubs are formed the international supplies descriptive literature, dealing with the scientific side of aerial navigation. Several boys' clubs have already been formed in different American cities.

All boys under 18 years of age are eligible to join the club. Mr. Atkinson, superintendent of the institute, wishes to hear from all boys interested in the scheme.

Thought for Others.

That the late E. H. Harriman, amid his multifarious duties, still found time to be kind, was illustrated just before he sailed for Europe last spring. While in New York with his wife and family, though not considered a very sick man, the services of Miss Beatrice Evans, a Canadian-trained nurse from historic old Niagara-on-the-Lake, were requisitioned. Not only did the check handed her charge made by her profession, but a week later she was again surprised by receiving, with the compliments of the sick financier, a large bouquet of violets and lily of the valley "I wear to church on Easter Sunday."

Coal Along Peace River.

Ten thousand acres of rich bituminous coal have been located on the Peace River, just across the border of British Columbia, by a syndicate which includes several prominent capitalists of Eastern Canada.

Small sections of coal have been found at intervals along the Peace River, well up towards the mountains but nothing of the extent and the quality of this area.

Federation Good.

The decision to federate all the Canadian clubs in a central organization is a good one, and will enable the general organization to take united action on any important questions, in a manner that will carry a great deal of weight, as being representative of the best class of public opinion.—Citizen, Ottawa.

The Missing Jam.

Sir William Hartley, who combines the manufacture of jam with much philanthropic and religious work, tells a rollicking story of a letter he once received from a Welsh customer. "Dear Sir," it ran, "why in the name of goodness gracious don't you send the jam I ordered last week? I have already got Mr. Jones' custom through you. Why don't you send the jam, man? Either you, you send a nuisance whatever! Send the jam at once, quick—Yours truly, John Davies." Then followed a postscript: "Dear Sir,—Since writing the above letter I have found the jam under the counter."

Capitalizing a Voice.

Floating a young lady's voice as a limited liability company sounds somewhat Gilbertian, yet it has actually been done in Australia. A syndicate with a capital of £1,000 in £1 shares has been formed to send a young lady with a remarkable voice to be trained by Mme. Marchesi in Paris. She has entered into an engagement to give on her return a series of concerts in the principal Australian cities under the direction of the syndicate, whose members hope and expect in this way to get their capital back plus a substantial dividend.

LORD SELKIRK'S COLONISTS. They Made Up the Only Utopia Britain Has Ever Had.

"Britain's one Utopia—Selkirkia"—is the theme of Dr. George Bryce's spirited new book, "The Romantic Settlement of Lord Selkirk's Colonists." He has connected the writing of the story with the proposed centenary in 1912. Everyone who reads his history must have a livelier impression of the founding and settlement of Winnipeg. Dr. Bryce's style is particularly graphic, and he has been at pains to make his history attractive to the average reader. Whenever possible he sets down the recollections of an eye-witness of an event connected with the history of the Selkirk settlement. At the present time he says no one is living who saw Lord Selkirk, but he has conversed with men who remembered him very well and from their description he gives a convincing picture of the Scottish settler who could not see his countrymen sent away from their native land without founding a new home for them where they would be as happy as they had been in Scotland, and more prosperous. "He was tall in stature, thin and refined in appearance. He had a benign face, his manner was easy and polite. To the Indians he was specially interesting. They caught the idea that being a man of title he was in some way closely connected with their Great Father the King. Because of his generosity to them in making a treaty, they called him the Silver Chief. He was the source of their treaty money."

The writer's powers of description are well-known. There is as well in the book a great deal of vivid Celtic imagination. The Assiniboine is likened to the Tiber and the sufferings of the band of Selkirk settlers, who were dispossessed by the North-West fur traders, are said to be of all comparison greater than those endured either by the Acadians or the U. E. Loyalists. When the historian writes of a buffalo hunt, or the gathering of the fur traders in spring, the scene is as real as the Red River plague, the floods on the Red River, and the long journey of the settlers from Hudson Bay to Winnipeg, he carries his readers along with him as only a writer of imagination and apt phraseology can.

He claims for the Selkirk settlement that it held the West for Canada and that no other American colony had such a continuous distressing struggle for existence as these Scottish settlers. It is a heroic story of suffering, conflict and rivalry, of slow adaptation to circumstances which no one had yet learned to conquer, and it is a story which everyone should know.

The Birch Canoe.

"I am dying," sighed the Birch Tree, "my life is nearly done, and of what use have I been to the world? Here have I stood for years, warmed by the sun, bathed in the rain, buffeted by the winds of heaven. What good has it all been—now I am dying?"

Through the woods strode a young Indian chief, alert and swift of foot, capable and keen-eyed; his gaze wandered from tree to tree as if in search of something, but anon he shook his head; as he came out of the forest he espied the old Birch Tree close to the water's edge. A glint of light came into his face, and he cried, "Of the bark of this tree will I make a boat for my True Love."

He cut the tree down and stripped off the beautiful brown and white bark and skillfully shaped it into a little craft the like of which no man had ever seen before. A paddle he fashioned out of a bit of the wood of the tree; when the tiny boat floated like a lily upon the water, he clasped his hands for joy.

Then he paddled across the lake to where his True Love dwelt. "See," said he, "other chiefs take squaws to carry burdens, but I have made a boat to carry you." And he lifted her in and they went back together to the root of the old Birch Tree and there they pitched their tent, that every day the spirit of the old tree might see itself in its beautiful new life upon the water.

An Indian Proverb.

A veteran hunter who has spent many years among the Indian tribes in the far Canadian West, speaks interestingly of some wise sayings current among the dusky dwellers in the woodland. One of their proverbs is particularly valuable, because it corrects an ungenerous and too-often quoted proverb among civilized white people. When cruel gossip has caused a lot of talk about some person, we have heard the speech, "He is a snake without fire." This has been the crutch on which many untrue statements have gone on their blighting way.—An ill-report against an innocent person has frequently been kept alive by this proverb.

Now the Indians, who keep a keen eye on the forest and possess much knowledge about the elements that town dwellers never acquire, say, in their own terse manner, "Little fire, big smoke," and then apply this in their dealings with one another. It is a physical fact that slow burning green or wet wood produces volumes of dense smoke, while dry wood burning with a large blaze emits very little smoke. Would not the Indian use of this fact in making a proverb be a wiser and kinder one for us to adopt?

Daring Naturalists.

Among naturalists who have risked their lives to secure a photograph of a charging wild beast are Mr. Ernest Preble and Mr. Ernest Thompson Seton, who recently journeyed to the Great Slave Lake. The party sighted a musk ox, a big, shaggy brute, with wicked red eyes. "Now," said Mr. Preble to Mr. Seton, "if you'll touch the button, I'll do the rest. He stepped forward, rifle in hand, and Mr. Seton followed with the camera. The moment the musk ox saw them, down he came. The plucky men waited till he was within fifty yards. Then the camera began to click. At twenty yards Mr. Preble's rifle spoke. The fierce brute crashed dead at Mr. Seton's very feet.

Buy Soap Already Aged

It lasts longer and does more work. Most makers say it is too expensive, but we find Wise housewives buy soap in quantities—it makes the best soap—so we use it. and store it on their pantry shelves until it is hard and firm. Then we mix it with borax, which softens hard water, whitens clothes without injury and makes them sweet and clean.

But we put Taylor's Borax Soap through an ageing process equal to standing six months in your pantry, so you can use it as soon as you get it. It is a compact, white soap that lathers freely in any kind of water, and the ageing makes it last twice as long as any other soap in Canada. It destroys all odors, kills every germ, and leaves things wholesome and pure. Try it for woollens and flannels. It won't shrink them—it is a wonderful soap for every household use.

IF SICK--WHY PAY

Unless Health First Returns. Here is what should and can be done! Now you would not willingly pay for food that was worthless—would you? Then why pay for medicine until that medicine first proves to you its actual worth?

From that time you know what Dr. Shoop's Restorative can do for the sick. I say to all "don't pay unless health first returns." And I back my Restorative with a signed and sealed 30 day "no health, no pay" contract.

I positively pledge to the sick everywhere that "Dr. Shoop's Restorative is absolutely free if it fails." Let others do the same—or else pass their prescriptions by. If you need more strength, more vitality, more vigor or more vim, use my Restorative a few days and note the immediate improvement.

When the stomach, heart or kidneys go wrong, then test Dr. Shoop's Restorative. I do not do the stomach nor stimulate the heart or kidneys, but I restore them to their normal condition. I do not do the stomach nor stimulate the heart or kidneys, but I restore them to their normal condition. I do not do the stomach nor stimulate the heart or kidneys, but I restore them to their normal condition.

These books will open up new and helpful ideas to those who are not well. They tell how the stomach, heart, and kidneys are "made" or "power" nerves. They tell how the Restorative was especially made to reach and revitalize these weak points in the body. All these facts are worth your simple request. So write now while you have it fresh in mind, for tomorrow news comes. Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Bala, Ont.

Had Weak Back. Would Often Lie in Bed for Days Scarcely Able to Turn Herself.

Weak back comes from the kidneys, and when the kidneys are out of order the whole system becomes deranged. Those who have never been troubled with kidney trouble do not know of the suffering and misery which those afflicted undergo. Doan's Kidney Pills are a specific for all kidney troubles.

They begin by helping the kidneys to flush out all the acid and poisonous impurities which have collected, thus clearing out the kidneys, bladder and all the urinary passages and carrying away the uric acid, the chief cause of rheumatism, from the blood. Mrs. Arch. Schure, Black Point, N.B., writes:—"For years I was troubled with weak back. Oftentimes I have lain in bed for days, being scarcely able to turn myself, and I have also been a great sufferer while trying to perform my household duties. I had doctors attending me without avail and tried liniments and plasters, but nothing seemed to do me any good. I was about to give up in despair when my husband induced me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and after using two boxes I am now well and able to do my work. I am a positive Doan's Kidney Pills are all that you claim for them, and I would advise all kidney sufferers to give them a fair trial."

Price, 50 cents per box, or 2 for $1.25, at all dealers or The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont. In ordering specify "Doan's."
