The Situation in England.

All that Mr. Asquith can do is to make the propriety of their appeal to the people against the people's house the principal question for the people to decide, and about the questions involved in the budget, which is the subject of the referendum. But would he be altogether wise in doing so?

Hunting for Children.

Ottawa Journal. While the cities of the old world are teeming with homeless and parentless children, over one hundred thousand applications from prosperous Canadian farmers in the past eight years for children to adopt had to be refused on account of the scarcity of unprovided children in Canada. It is a real pity that these children home and parentless children could not be brought to one another's knowledge. Could not the government arrange for an extra thousand or so of properly vouchered children, to be sent across yearly from Britain to the good homes that are willing to receive them?

Meanness To A Blind Man.

A man with dark glasses over his eyes touched the conductor on the shoulder as the car neared Euclid avenue and East Fifty-Fifth street. A Great Industry.

The product of the canning and jam factories of Ontario, in fruit alone, may be safely placed at $3,580,000 a year. Tender fruits disposed of in the raw state will account for at least one and one-half millions more. The apple output of the province—counting that consumed on the farm, the portion sold in the raw, and the evaporated product—is worth not less than $7,000,000. Here is a total output of $11,000,000 a year aside from three to three and one-half millions representing the vegetable pack of the factories engaged in fruit canning.

Postoffice Extension.

It is stated on authority that the work of building an extension to the Kingston post office will start next spring. The plans are now being prepared. The government has placed twenty-five thousand dollars in the estimates for the work. The work will not be sufficient but another vote will likely be made in the supplementary estimates next spring. The local post office has been in need of this extension for some years.

Intestinal Indigestion

A Form of Dyspepsia Usually Resulting from the Inability to Digest Starchy Foods.

There are a great many persons who are victims of what is known as intestinal indigestion, a disease which is due to the fact that the starchy foods are either partially digested or not digested at all, and the result of this trouble may be either an obstinate constipation or a persistent diarrhoea. This inability to digest starch is called "amylicous dyspepsia," a disease which is much in evidence. Americans are notoriously poor digesters of starch, and as starchy foods, such as potatoes, rice, bread, etc., are digested entirely in the small intestine, and not in the stomach proper, as is generally supposed, it can be readily seen how intestinal indigestion will usually produce diarrhoea.

In the small intestine the pancreatic juice acts upon the starches and ordinarily, in a state of health, possesses the power of converting them into grape sugar and dextrine. Starch must be so transformed before it can be of use to the animal being. Remaining as unchanged starch it either passes through the alimentary canal, and proves a useless burden to the system, because it remains indigestible, or it causes intestinal indigestion, the food products becoming acid through putrefaction, which often sets up a catarrhal inflammation of the intestine, resulting in diarrhoea.

In a complaint of this character many persons use paregoric, Squibb's, bismuth and tannin, and cathartics, all of these remedies being powerfully astringent, and they stop the trouble suddenly, "locking up" the morbid secretions, throwing the toxic intestinal poison back on the system, and often causing death through auto-intoxication.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain among other powerful digestives, a substance called "diastase," which thoroughly digests every particle of starchy foods in the small intestine, and prevents the possibility of intestinal indigestion, no matter how excessive may be the amount of food eaten. These tablets also contain "calcium carbonate," which is a mild though effective sub-astringent, and which relieves and cures the diarrhoea by easy stages. It does not act with such suddenness as would cause poisoning of the system, but on the contrary, by its antiseptic properties, all toxic, intestinal germs and poisons always present in intestinal indigestion and diarrhoea, are destroyed.

Not only are the starches digested by the use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, but through the action of other ingredients they contain albuminous foods like meat and eggs are also digested. Thus they cure indigestion of any kind. Buy a package from your druggist to-day for 50c, and send us your name and address for free sample package. Address F. A.
