Between Good Flour and Flour That's Good Enough

THE DIFFERENCE between good and bad, Madam?

Just as great as between eggs fresh from the "cackle" and others of more ancient vintage.

Just as great as between "all-wool" and "arf and arf."

Might add that good flour and poor flour are divided by a price difference and, incidentally, a baking difference.

Which explains why you would gladly pay just a little more to get FIVE ROSES certainty.

Because it's worth more, and practically all cheap flours are faultful flours.

FIVE ROSES, Madam, is worth the money.

We are convinced that nothing so rich in the dear-to-the-taste flavor of the ripe, red Manitoba spring wheat berry, so entirely different in general merit has ever been offered to discriminating housewives.

A pound goes further—its positive strength and absorption powers would make its use economical at much above the price your grocer asks.

Even if all other millers knew where to get the same plump, sun-ripened, wholesome berries—of course, merely a supposition, you know.

And they had the same facilities for receiving and storing the golden grains, to prevent possible spoiling before reaching the rolls.

And they had mills as perfect as the Kenawin Pure-Food plant to grind this prime grain—

Yet their product would not begin to compare with FIVE ROSES.

Because FIVE ROSES, Madam, is all of these plus the scientific know-how, expert skill and long-continued care which no other flour contains. You must expect to pay for something more than raw material.

This will explain in some measure why many prudent housewives are irresistibly wedded to the FIVE ROSES habit.

They have declared it the only flour really "good enough" for them and the hungry faces around the board.

It is a fact known to connoisseurs of the feminine persuasion that once FIVE ROSES enters a home, that family is forever spoiled for any other flour.

You know how hard to please your own folks are, Madam. They'll all like FIVE ROSES.

AT HOME IN CLOUDS BARONESS STEERS AIRSHIP IN FLIGHT.

First Woman to Ascend Alone in Aeroplane Repeats Her Exciting Feat.

Paris, Nov. 19.—The Baroness de la Roche, who successfully piloted a Voisoin aeroplane for four miles over the champs at Châlons, on October 24th, and is the first woman to fly alone in a heavier-than-air machine, repeated her thrilling feat yesterday.

The baroness is a young and pretty woman, with black hair and sparkling eyes, who lives in a pretty house in the suburb of Neuilly, to which she returned after her flight.

She has been an enthusiastic motorist for years, and bought an aeroplane of her own less than a month ago. She flew, yesterday, with the ease and serenity of a Paulhan, and when she dropped gently to earth, declared that she had not been in the least nervous. After a run of less than a couple of hundred yards uphill the aeroplane rose beautifully into the air, and it was at once seen that the aviatrice, notwithstanding a wind blowing at the rate of from three to four yards a second, had perfect mastery of her machine. Her first turning was negotiat-

BARONESS DE LA ROCHE. First woman who ascended amid air in aeroplane alone and steers machine with ease, though a sudden gust made the machine overturn to rather an acute angle. After turning and getting the wind behind her, she developed tremendous speed. A few seconds later the machine darted toward the earth, as though piloted by an experienced hand. She made another splendid circuit of the ground before coming to earth.

It is infinitely more charming than motoring," she said after the flight. "In midair one loses all those disagreeable shocks and jolts which are felt on the road. The sight of the ground swiftly running away beneath my feet was most exhilarating, but I wanted to travel faster."

Asked if she was nervous at the turning, the lady aviatrice replied: "Not in the least. In fact, I found that the jolliest part of the flight, the part that bothered me when they caught me unawares and the aeroplane tilted over, but I got used to that after the first two corners. Shall I continue? Certainly."

Telling Time By The Palm.

A year or so ago Walter Mason, who lives in the town of Newport, Me., became aware that he possessed the remarkable ability of simply looking at the palm, just as someone else would take out his watch and look at the figures on the dial. Mr. Mason does not know and no one else who has witnessed the unusual proceeding has been able to tell the cause of this. But from the time he discovered his ability to do so he has never been known to make a mistake when telling the time of day by looking at his palm. Considerable doubt was expressed at first at his being able to do what his townspeople considered little short of miraculous. So, obtaining a watch that could be depended upon, he first would look at his palm and tell the time, after which he would consult the watch, and thus far his first statement has not deviated from the watch. Mr. Mason says he sees first a picture of what he tells in his own mind, but so far as explaining the reason for this or being able to teach anyone else his method, he is unable to do so; and by their own observations the people in the town are convinced of the fact that he does indeed possess a strange gift, one hitherto unheard of, but one that can be depended upon, nevertheless.

Trees That Explode.
All lightning blasted trees, explode as overcharged boilers do. The flame of the lightning does not burn them up, nor does the electric flash split them like an axe. They simply explode, overcharged, as may be a boiler with steam. The lightning is conducted into the damp interstices of the trunk and into the hollows under stone turns, the moisture in these cramped spaces into steam. This steam in its immediate explosion blows the tree upward.

CAUSE AND CURE. Modern Methods Dispose of Neuralgia.

Neuralgia means simply "nerve pain," and there may be a great variation in the character and intensity of the pain and any nerve in the body may be affected. There are a number of causes of neuralgia, but the most common is a general run-down condition of the system. The discovery of this fact from reliable statistics led to the new treatment for neuralgia which consists in building up the general health by the tonic treatment and so disposing of the cause of the trouble.

Persons reduced by acute sickness, or by severe mental or physical strain, or by loss of sleep are frequently victims of neuralgia and it is common in the case of those suffering from anaemia or bloodlessness.

This brings us to the actual cause of neuralgia, which is nerve starvation. The blood which in normal health carries the nerve all their nourishment, is unable to perform this duty satisfactorily when it is weak or impure. Build up the blood and the neuralgic pain will disappear as the nerves become better nourished.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a blood-making remedy, and for this reason cure even the most obstinate cases of neuralgia. Every dose of this medicine makes new, rich blood, which feeds the starved veins and drives out the sharp, darting stabbing pains of neuralgia. Mrs. John Albert, Little River, N.S., writes: "A few years ago I was a great sufferer from neuralgia in my head and face. At times the attacks were simply excruciating, and I would be forced to remain in bed. I tried doctors' medicines, but did not receive any benefit until I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I am happy to say that the benefit I received from these was wonderful. I may also add that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured my daughter of anaemia and indigestion, at a time when she was despairing of her getting better. I can highly recommend these pills to anyone suffering from these troubles."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any dealer in medicines or they will be sent by mail at 50c. a box of six boxes for $2.50 by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Nothing Was The Matter.
"A newsboy I knew," said a yachtman, "took to the sea. He became cabin boy on a tramp collier. He was a good boy, but—"

"Once, when our white squadron was at Newport, this collier steamed in her slow way shoreward with her engine upside down, the signal of distress—distress of the direst. Instantly a pretty sight was to be seen. Every warship in the fleet lowered a life-boat, and all of these beautiful, snowy boats, manned by jacksies in spotless white duck, raced for the grimy old collier at breakneck speed—the collier stood on the bridge. He waved his hat, and the crews pulled all the faster. As they drew close they heard the man's cries: "Come on! Pull! Get down to it!" he roared, dancing about wildly.

"What's the matter, captain?" the first officer to reach the collier asked, breathlessly.

"Why, nothing's the matter," the captain answered in a surprised voice. "Then why's your ensign upside down?"

"The captain looked aloft, then frowned.

"It's that boy Hank again," said he. "And here I thought it was a regatta."

A Cannibal Bishop.
The Queen of Denmark once paid a visit to the Danish colony of Iceland, where the good old bishop courted everything that was worth seeing. The queen paid many compliments to her host, and having learned that he was a family man graciously inquired how many children he had.

It happens that the Danish word for children is almost identical in sound with the Iceland word for sheep, and the worthy bishop promptly answered: "Two hundred." "Two hundred children!" cried the queen. "How can you possibly maintain such a number?"

"Easily enough, please your majesty," replied the prelate with cheerful smile. "In the summer I turn them out upon the hill to grass and when the winter comes I kill and eat them."

No Liniment Like "Nervoline"
Fifty Years' Use Proves it the Strongest, Safest, Best. 1,000,000 Bottles Sold Annually

The unexampled success of "Nervoline" is due to the fact that it is five times stronger, three times more penetrating, more pain-relieving than any other liniment.

One million bottles used every year—think what this means! Surely stronger proof is not possible that Nervoline is a trusty liniment, a household remedy upon which mothers can depend in case of accidents or sudden sickness. Scarcely an ache or pain that Nervoline won't cure—among the hundreds of ailments for which it is guaranteed are the following:

Headache Neuralgia
Sciatica Rheumatism
Lumbago Chest Colds

If you have a tried Nervoline do so now—your neighbors are almost sure to know of its manifold merits and uses.

Refuse any substitute for Nervoline. Sold the world over in large 25c. bottles, five for $1. all dealers.

DOINGS IN STAGELAND COST FROHMAN JUST HALF AS MUCH

To Produce a Play in London As in New York—The Profits Were Greater As Expenses Are Less.

Last Saturday night Bradford saw the demise of "A Broken Idol" company.

Marie Tempest will begin her American tour in "L'Enfer" on December 8th.

Richard Carle has finished his new musical play, and is to call it "Pro and Con."

The spring of 1910 will have at least one novelty. Nat Goodwin in London in a musical comedy, "C. M. S. McLenan and Ivan Caryll will provide the attraction.

Harry Lauder and Albert Chevalier were up against each other at Chicago last week, the former at Morris' American Music Hall and the latter at the Majestic.

Rival productions of "Aida" opened Philadelphia's season of grand opera. Eight thousand people witnessed either the Hammerstein or the Metropolitan performances.

Paul Caseneuve has returned to Montreal from a trip to Paris, during which he engaged new talent for one of the French theatres which he has been identified with for some years.

Henry B. Harris announces rehearsal for Harriet Ford and Caroline King Duer's new play, "Jacqueline," in which he will star Grace Eliastown. It will be seen in New York before the holidays.

Conan Doyle's new play, "The Fires of Fate," which proved a big hit in London, is to be introduced to America next month. The production calls for seventy singers to appear as Arabs and Dervishes.

Eva Davenport, after a brief period of retirement as the result of the death of her husband, will return to the stage when "The King of Canonia" comes into existence a few weeks hence.

Sir Arthur Wing Pinero, the English dramatist, will come to America, it is said, in time for the first dress rehearsal of his play, "Mid-Channel," with which Ethel Barrymore opens her season in January.

Emily Stevens, who plays the principal woman's part with George Arliss in "Septimus," is a member of the famous Madden family, and a cousin of Mrs. Fiske. She is the daughter of Mrs. Fiske's youngest aunt, Emma Madden.

Mabel Taliaferro's change in name not having met, apparently, with popular approval, the nom de theatre "Nell" has been dropped, and hereafter that little player will again be Mabel Taliaferro in public, and Mrs. Frederic Thompson in private life.

William Faversham has engaged Stephen Phillips, author of Herod, to write a Biblical play based on the story of Judith and Holofernes. Next summer Mr. Faversham, Mrs. Faversham (Julie Opp) and Mr. Phillips will visit the Holy Land for material for this play.

Grace Van Studdiford, the comic opera star, has secured a divorce (granted in St. Louis, Mo., last Monday), from her husband, Charles Van Studdiford, a member of the old St. Louis family. The grounds were non-support and desertion. Her husband did not defend the suit.

Maxine Elliott was born at Rockland, Me., in 1873, and is the daughter of Thomas Dermot. She was educated at a convent and married George A. McDermott, from whom she was divorced in 1896. Two years later she married Nathaniel G. Goodwin, from whom she was divorced about a year ago.

Early Schubert openings will be: "The Watcher," by Cora Maynard; "The Head of the Firm," from the Danish; "The King of Canonia," an English musical play; "The City," an American musical play; "The City," a new musical in a musical play, Marie Dressler in "Tillie's Nightmare," and a new farce from the German.

Although Brandon Tynan, the author-actor, is given the credit of having written "The Passion Flower" for Nazimova, it is said on good authority that she is responsible for much of the story. Mr. Tynan, according to report, has made an excellent tailor, Madame Nazimova selected the pattern, and together she and Mr. Tynan doing the weaving. Likewise Nazimova largely designated the model and cut, Mr. Tynan removing the basing threads of Russian words and over-prodigious metaphors. Mr. Tynan is pleased. Nazimova is pleased. So are the buyers.

It costs Charles Frohman just half as much to produce "Arsene Lupin" in London as it did in New York. Yet the box office takings, though for a smaller number of seats at The Duke of York's than at the Lyceum are in the end greater, because it costs more to run a theatre and a theatrical company in America than it does in London. The difference in the cost of labor, actors' salaries, theatre rent, lumber, unmounted scenery, stiffs, furniture and properties, which are only some of the items that have to be taken into account, are all in favor of the English production. And in England there is the further advantage that an orchestra stall seat fetches $2.50, as against only $2. for a similar seat in a New York theatre.

A Cod Liver Oil Fiend.
"When I was anemic," said a pale man, "I took cod liver oil. I had a careless habit of leaving the oil uncorked, and it began to disappear so fast that I was forced to stop. Some one was drinking it. There was a cod liver oil fiend in the house. I decided to trap the thief," he went on, gazing thoughtfully at his large white feet, "and one night I purposely drank two cups of black coffee so as to keep awake. Gentlemen, you will hardly believe what happened. The thief was a rat—a big, sleek, fat rat. The oil, I guess, had agreed with him. As I watched him from the bed he leaped silently on to the bureau, dipped his tail in the bottle, lifted it out and licked it clean, and then dipped and licked it again and again till a good two inches of the oil was gone."

They Were Snady.
Bang—So you have succeeded in tracing back my ancestors? What is your fee? Genealogist—Twenty guineas for keeping quiet about them.
