WOMEN ORGANIZING

TAKE A HAND IN THE JANUARY ELECTIONS.

An Excuse to Tête Some Aldermen Over the Difficulties Before Them—Must Divorce Politics and Whiskey.

D. G. Laidlaw, president of the Social and Moral Reform League, was quite disgusted with the action of the city council on the liquor license reduction question. "The people won't stand for being bunched out of a referendum much longer," he said, when asked what he thought of the arguments advanced against a referendum on what the league asked.

"Were you not encouraged by the declaration of Aids, Carson, Chown and Givens, that they favored a small reduction?" he was asked.

"I certainly was not," Mr. Laidlaw replied. "Why didn't they tell us that before, when we waited upon them? That's just an excuse to tide them over the difficulties before them. If they were in favor of a reduction of three licenses, why didn't they vote for Ald. Craig's resolution to submit that question to the people?"

"I tell you," declared Mr. Laidlaw, "politics and whiskey are too closely identified in this city, and until they are divorced the council members will be in fear to do the right thing.

"I want to say that the temperance women of the city are going to take a hand in the January elections, and any man who voted against a referendum on Monday evening, will receive opposition. There is a very large women's vote in Kingston, and the women hold the balance of power. The workers among them are now organizing for the election, and every woman who has a vote will be asked to cast it for men who will put the liquor license reduction to the people. The Social and Moral Reform League meets this evening, to consider what action it will now take."

CLOSE OF SESSION.

Business Before Grand Officers C. M. B. A. Was Concluded.

At Monday's session of the grand officers of the C.M.B.A., the committee on revision of the constitution, was continued to complete its work. The board took up the consideration of the investing of a portion of the surplus funds. A large number of proposals were considered, and it was finally decided to invest about $10,000 in selected securities. A number of communications and appeals were dealt with, and the meeting then adjourned.
