SUFFERINGS OF THE POOR.

A woman, Mrs. Clark, a sufferer from pneumonia, was found dead in a back outer room of a house on Queen street, Toronto, and a coroner's jury reported that the place was unfit for human habitation and a disgrace to the city. The jury said the owner of the property, deserv'd censure, and also the city, as the medical department should look after the sanitary conditions of the lodging houses. It was quite clear, from the evidence offered in connection with this case, "that many human beings are treated worse than cattle in places of this kind."

One sees rising before his vision a huge task for the civic corporation, and one that it should properly assume. The social conditions of the people are demanding more and more attention. Every year it is clearly evident that the lodging question is of the first consideration. Human life is sacred and must be cared for in our climate, so pitilessly cold at times, the city council should not permit of the use of buildings which do not offer their occupants adequate protection. There are in all the larger cities miserable shacks which are not fit for living purposes, and, though the need is not so pressing in Canada as in England, the time is coming when the municipality will be laden with the responsibility of fully caring for its poor.

APATHY IN CIVIC AFFAIRS.

The idea, that the people have a right to be consulted upon certain occasions and on their own business, is being emphasized in a manner which will not be forgotten by the city fathers. Some of the candidates are expressing a profound respect for public opinion, but it would have seemed more fortunate if this manifestation had occurred a little earlier in the election. The principle is correct, that when the people ask for it, in any considerable number, there should be a referendum, in order that the council may have the benefit of it in passing upon important questions.

At the same time one must reflect upon the apathy which the ratepayers exhibit at times upon public questions. Witness the vote in Winnipeg a few days ago when only 2,000 out of 30,000 electors went to the polls, and by the use of the ballot gave any sign of what they thought of a money-by-law. The council cannot incur large liabilities—cannot contract a debt which represents a mortgage upon the taxable property—without the people's approval, and an astonishingly small number think it worth their while to vote when they are asked to do so.

Note the indifference which attended the civic nominations in Kingston on Monday. The attendance in the city hall was small. It may have been accepted as a foregone conclusion that Mayor Couper would be re-elected by acclamation, but there was the annual review of civic affairs and a good many, wrapped up in the city's welfare, should have taken an hour to listen to it. Then the ward nominations were lifeless enough. Riveau ward had a scene in which the plain gospel was expounded for the edification of those present, but generally, there was an absence of spirit from the wards, and the conclusion follows inevitably that the people, for some reason, are not deeply concerned about those who act for them in the council.

PASSING OF THE YEAR.

The old year dies to-night. It brought its joys and its sorrows, its distresses and its disasters, its enigmas and its enterprises, its hopes and its horrors, its changing moods, from grave to gay, and from the lively to the severe. Each year has its own peculiar history, and that of 1909 will be quoted, because of the events or epochs that culminated within it.

The dying year suggests a period for introspection. As one lingers beside the couch of the friend who is passing away, and contemplates his characteristics, so he halts in the last hours of the passing year to reflect upon its more striking features. This meditation is wholesome for the nation and for the individual.

The date has its lessons to learn from experience, and the world's scroll for 1899 affords ample material for the most serious study. The Canadian people have great cause to be profoundly thankful. Peace has brooded over them during the year. There has been a complete absence of plague and pestilence. Providence has been kind in its dealings, and nature has been lavish in the bestowment of its riches. Hence the old year goes like an old friend, and one can pray for nothing better than a new year which will promise quite as well.

The individual has his lessons to learn in the varied transactions of the last twelve months. If the opportunities were given some things would be undone, some things would be done differently, some things would not be done at all. Wisdom's ways are pleasantness and all her paths are peace. There can be no quarrel with the past year. In true patriarchal fashion it seems to give its benediction, and man faces the New Year with the purpose strong and immitable, to make it the best of all the years, and the richest in its results.

There is only this advantage to be gained in looking back—that one may get an inspiration for better life and service, and let us hope that this inspiration will come to every reader of the Whig to-night. To each the cordial greeting is given, "A Happy New Year," and Many Returns of the Season."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

See the old year out and the new one in to-night, but let the watching and waiting be done with decorum.

Confidence grows every day that the liberals will win in the imperial elections, says Mr. Clark, the Toronto Star's special correspondent.

The labour men are still in the English elections. They are Mickawber-like, waiting for something to turn up in the way of parliamentary indemnities.

Should the tariff reformers win in England, and a tax be placed on Canadian products, what will become of our preference? Will it not have to go?

The Gladstone centennial was observed, the world over, by British literary and public men. Though dead the great tribune yet speaketh through his many admirers.

The London Times has been getting "Hail Columbia," because it insinuated that Western Canada had to be bribed into a loyal support of British institutions. A greater libel could not be put in type.

If the temperance vote on Monday is not a strong one the inference will be that the people are not touchy on the referendum. At present it is understood that they are not pleased with the liquor question.

It may be all right, but it is certainly not apparent why a candidate up-town should decline to run because another one down town broke into election arena. The experience revives the question, "Am I my brother's keeper?"

Prof. Hume, of Toronto University, says every suicide should be investigated so that the causes of self-destruction may be better understood. No man, it is contended, takes his life while sane. What causes his insanity? That is the great question.

The Canadian Courier has passed its third year, and entered upon the fourth with a vigour and a promise that must be very gratifying to its editor and founder. The Courier will, if its improvement continues, become one of Canada's most successful weeklies.

The men who are leading British opinion just now are Asquith, Churchill, Lloyd-George, Balfour and Milner. Balfour has been silent, through indisposition, but he has recovered and has resumed the stump. Chamberlain's manifestos are without much effect.

The Hamilton Herald hugs the hope—we hope it is not a delusion—that as soon as Ontario has matured a technical education policy the technical college which was promised to Hamilton will be established. All right. When Ontario has done something it will be time enough to censure the dominion because it does not begin.

Way and Miss Magrath Way at home. Stanley Wagar and wife here. Archibald Telle, late of Queen's college, at home. Henry Richardson is laid up with a sore hand. The council went in by acclamation. Mrs. Albert Spire and son are visiting at Sampson Shield's. John O'Brien and wife, of Collingwood, spent Christmas at home. C. F. Noll and wife spent Christmas with her parents. Mrs. G. Kennedy is visiting friends here. Miss Baxter is at F. Harkness'.

By your own acts make any commendation that may come to you merited.

Harriman's Great Fortune.

Montreal Gazette.

The newest estimate of the wealth of the late Mr. Edward H. Harriman puts it at the time of his death at two hundred million dollars. Mr. Harriman began with nothing and died while still a comparatively young man. In the old days it used to be said that adventures were for the adventurous. Nowadays the prize of courage and daring seems to be riches and an immensity of them.

SPIRIT OF THE PRESS

Kingston's Civic Party.

Stratford Beacon.

Kingston is likely to eschew politics it will be well to move. Politics has proven an injury to the council and to the city during the last few years.

The Drug Habit Increasing.

Toronto Globe.

Hospital and court disclosures show that the drug habit is deplorably on the increase. The unit of every age and race seem to succeed in devising means of ridding the world of their influence.

Amateurs, Indeed.

Kingston Review.

Ten men have been arrested for stealing Cobalt ore. Serves 'em right. Why didn't they adopt the legal way of organizing a company, issuing a lot of stock, and "doing" the public?

Why The Combines Flourish?

Toronto Globe.

When J. W. Curry, K.C., was crown prosecutor in Toronto there was a serious effort made to enforce the law against combines as other laws are enforced. Now the dominion passes to the law and the province neglects to enforce it. That is the penalty for having a provincial government with a warm heart toward combines.

Wealth in Ontario's Crops.

Hamilton Herald.

We talk of "the Golden West," and yet look at the story told by the official crop reports. This grand old province of Ontario has this year beaten out the three prairie provinces in the value of the field crops harvested. Ontario's figures are $290,398,000 and those of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta combined are $192,839,000.

Money in The Railways.

Toronto News.

Government railways pay in New Zealand as they do in Australia. The New Zealand government reports a net profit of £314,711 last year, returning 3.13 per cent. on the capital of £29,000,000 invested in them. The total earnings in 1909 were £2,929,526, and the total expenditure was £2,114,815. Commenting upon the increase in the cost of maintenance the minister of railways states that it is a natural corollary of the demand created by the expanding traffic for engines of greater power, cars and wagons increased carrying capacity, and faster train services. He confidently anticipates that, as a result of the expenditure incurred in connection with betterments during the past few years, a diminution of maintenance expenditure is now within measurable distance. No fewer than ten million passengers were carried on the railways last year. It is proposed to develop settlement within reasonable distances of large centres by the use of additional motor cars such as the Canadian railways might utilize in and out of Toronto.

Made Certain Of It.

A through train on the Rock Island stopped a few moments at the Englewood station one day. A passenger got off to walk around a little. As the train began to move again the passenger jumped aboard, but just then he discovered that he had but one overshoe. Thinking that he had dropped the other somewhere on the platform and as the train was going too fast for him to jump off and recover it, he pulled off the remaining shoe and threw it on the platform, exclaiming, "There—that makes a good pair of overshoes for somebody."

There, to his great astonishment, was his overshoe. A look of intense discomfiture upon his face, but he did not hesitate. Quickly picking up the lone article, he hurried to the platform, threw the shoe as far as he could back toward the other one and shouted, "By jiminy, there is a pair of overshoes for somebody!"

After The Sugar Thieves.

Montreal Gazette.

The United States government is asking $5,000 from congress to enable it to prosecute those responsible for the sugar-weight frauds that have been attracting so much attention. From what has been declared it would seem that a system of cheating the revenue has been carried on for years, the total involved running up to millions of dollars. It is possible, also, that concern in the bad business, and that some big election funds were made bigger by contributions from the direct beneficiaries. This thing of government of the people by the people for the people as it has developed in America is at times rather rough on the people.

Taking No Chances.

New York Press.

Cornelius V. Collins, the brilliant criminologist and superintendent of New York's state prisons, narrated at a dinner in Troy some reminiscences of his interesting work.

"A clever criminal of gluttonous proclivities," he said, "once couched a complaint in rather neat terms. My inspector, entering this man's cell one day, found it very hot and stuffy. 'Why have you got your ventilator closed?' he asked.

"The burly and gluttonous prisoner answered plaintively.

"Well, inspector, yer honor, the last time I had the ventilator open a wasp flew in, you see, and carried off my dinner while my back was turned."

The Auxiliary Met.

Woodburn, Dec. 27.—The Woodburn Auxiliary of the Women's Missionary Society, held its December meeting at the home of Mrs. C. Thompson, on Friday evening. Mrs. (Rev.) J. H. McConnell presided and the programme, consisting of readings, etc., was interesting and instructive. At the close Mrs. Thompson served coffee, sandwiches and cake, which added much to the social side of the evening. The auxiliary has now sixteen members and eleven associate helpers. The January meeting will be held at the parsonage.

At Plum Hollow.

Plum Hollow, Dec. 30.—Mr. and Mrs. C. Wiltse are guests at J. Wiltse's. Mr. and Mrs. J. Reid, of Smith's Falls, have returned home. The Misses M. and L. Wing, Lyndhurst, are holidaying at W. Gifford's. The Christmas tree and concert passed off successfully, the door receipts being over $37. H. Kilborn, Gleanoche, has returned home for the winter.
