LAND IN NO DANGER

GERMANY COULD NOT EFFECT AN INVASION.

If She Attempted It, Says Mr David Lloyd-George, Her Fleet Would be at the Bottom of the German Ocean in a Very Few Hours.

London, Jan. 17.—David Lloyd-George, speaking at Grimsby, said his opponents were so scared that if they heard a railway fog signal they would think the German fleet was in the Humber. "We have 120,000 sailors to Germany's 40,000," he declared, "yet it is said we are going to be invaded and beaten, that three British bluejackets cannot keep off one German. (Laughter.) That is an insult to the bravery of the best sailors in the world. There is not a German who does not know that if the German fleet in a moment of madness ever attempted to take us, that fleet would be at the bottom of the German ocean in a very few hours. (Cheers.) It is sheer lunacy to think otherwise. They say the Germans are building so many warships that they will have twenty Dreadnoughts when Germany has thirteen. In addition, we shall have sixty or seventy other first-class battleships. (Cheers.)"

The only Canadian to take part in Saturday's contest was Sir Gilbert Parker. He was elected in Gravesend, though his majority was greatly reduced. Canadian political orators seemingly produce little effect in England. George Tate Blackstock spoke at Grimsby for Sir G. Doughty, the unionist candidate, and it was there that the liberals scored their greatest victory. The unionist plurality of 2,309 in 1906 was changed to a liberal majority of 322. Mr. Joynton-Hicks, for whom J. S. Willison put in a good word when speaking to a club in Manchester, was also among the fallen.

Sir Henry Norman, the liberal journalist, recently appointed assistant postmaster-general, was defeated at Wolverhampton (South) by a unionist majority. Sir Edward P. Tennant, who lost his seat in Salisbury to G. Locker-Lampson, unionist, is the brother of Mrs. Asquith.

Messrs. A. H. Gill and J. R. Clynes, who visited Toronto last fall as the British delegates to the American Federation of Labor, were both elected, the former in Bolton, the latter in Northeast Manchester. Rev. C. Silvester Horne, one of the liberals elected in Ipswich, is a Congregational minister, pastor of Whitefields Church, Tottenham Court road, London. Richard Jebb, one of the Unionist candidates in the London constituency of East Marylebone, visited the headquarters of his rivals yesterday to protest against the charges made against him. A fight followed, in which Mr. Jebb was thrown into the street. It is believed by many unionists that the liberal majority will be so reduced in the next parliament, as to place the liberals at the mercy of the nationalists. Mr. Balfour, leader of the opposition in the House of Commons, in a speech some days ago, said the great political issues now in question would not be settled by one general election, and perhaps not by two. Clearly the expansion accurately measured the situation.

An estimate made today by a well informed politician, based on Saturday's pollings, gives the liberals and laborites a clear majority of 90 over all parties, which would provide the liberal government with a good working majority. Many of the unionists, however, do not believe the liberals will finish the election with so good a record as this.

Strong Trend Toward Unionism. New York, Jan. 17.—J. N. Ford, in his cable to the New York Tribune, thus sizes up the result: "The results of elections to ninety-one seats in parliament disclose a strong but not overwhelming trend toward unionism. One-ninth of the whole number of seats were closely contested, and with the uncontested seats being included between one seventh and one-eighth of them were filled by unionists. The unionists should have gained twenty contested seats and twenty-five uncontested seats in order to be commanded by the same percentage a majority of twenty-six for the whole house. Their net gain was fifteen, which was handsome, but hardly sufficient to indicate an ultimate majority over the coalition. There was, however, a heavy increase in the unionist polls and a less noticeable addition to the liberal and labor vote. "In some boroughs there was a big shrinkage in the progressive vote. These may be cumulative proofs of the reaction against liberalism, if the unionist gains in seats themselves are not yet decisive and merely justify the expectation of a very large reduction in the liberal majority of the last house."

To-day's Polling. London, Jan. 17.—Polling is taking place in 104 constituencies to-day, of which thirty-one are London constituencies and seventy-three provincial boroughs. The unionists in the house hold thirty-six of the 104, the liberals fifty-two and laborites sixteen. Among those up for re-election to-day are Hon. A. J. Balfour, the opposition leader, John Burns, president of the local government board, Hon. Augustine Birrell, postmaster-general, Philip Snowden, one of the labor leaders, Admiral Lord Charles Bessford, and A. Romer Law, the Canadian. John W. Redmond and six other Irish nationalists, were returned, unopposed, to-day.

Suffragette Voted. London, Jan. 17.—The suffragettes are all envying a woman who actually voted, Saturday at Morpeth. Her name was mistakenly inserted in the register and when she demanded the right to vote the election officials were unable to refuse her.

A New Sign of Prosperity. Lord Rothschild, while on the stump in England, invented a new barometer of prosperity. In an address at Liverpool, speaking of the improved business conditions in the United States, he declared that "when the diamond trade is brisk there is no unemployed labor in America." Henceforward, then, we may disregard steel and wheat and cotton, railway activity and such like when we wish to know how we stand or are likely to stand in the immediate future as regards general prosperity. The comparative returns of the De Beers company will tell us all we need to know, or if we find our neighbors' stock of jewelry increasing, it will give us a hint that things are universally looking up. That will save the busy statistician looks of calculating anxieties. As a rule, a brisk diamond trade is only an evidence that the rich are richer, and says little as to the condition of the people, though, of course, when the wages are high the wage-earner buys a few watches or gets something nice for his wife.

See Kingstonians Rise. Canadian Courier. When "Cap" Nicholson gets out to Vancouver, among the railway and shipping men, there will be more fun and not a bit less hustle. "Cap" will tell splendidly among those good fellows on the coast who manage the transportation business, and he was a wise director of the choice of the first manager of the Grand Trunk Pacific steamships in the Orient. "Cap" looks and talks like an American, but he was born at Belleville and is Canadian through and through. While he was rising from cabin boy to captain on the old Magnet, young Nicholson was busy with books—he would be a dentist, or a doctor or lawyer and he actually qualified himself for a profession. But his business associates coaxed him back and the spirit of steamboat claimed him for her own. When Harry Gildersleeve went to Collingwood to reorganize the Northern Navigation company, he sent "Cap" to Sarnia to be traffic manager. Between them they did wonders, which for enterprising Canadians is no new thing.

The Mob and Murder. National Woman's Daily. Here's something to think about? The grand jury that has been investigating (?) the lynching of two men—one white and one black man—at Cairo, Ill., reports no indictments and says that the lynchers "only meted out punishment to the two murderers and, while lynchings are contrary to the laws of Illinois, we believe no innocent man met his death at the hands of the mob." Thus we learn that if John Smith shoots and kills and kills another human being, he is a murderer, but that if he takes the precaution of organizing a mob before he does his killing, he "only metes out punishment." If that is not anarchy, what is it?

Don't Be A Knocker. St. John Sun. We have had enough of knocking. Quit it! Cut it out! The next time you want to find fault stop for a minute and see if there isn't a good word you can say instead. At least don't criticize until you are absolutely sure that you can suggest at the same time a definite remedy and are ready to do something yourself to apply that remedy. It will cost you an effort the first time, but the next time it will come easier, and before you realize it you will have the "knocking" habit. And that's what this town wants, more than that it wants anything else in this wide and wealthy world.

Vesuvius Busy in 1911. Rome, Jan. 17.—Dr. Schering, assistant at the Vesuvius observatory, predicts another eruption in 1911. He says he has extracted volcanic stones from the crater, which show that the volcanic activity of the eruption of 1906 continues. It is now limited to the interior, but is bound to extend to the exterior, when an eruption will result. Italian volcanologists discredit Dr. Schering's theory.

Her father had refused her hand in marriage, unless the boy could earn a thousand dollars in a week. Young Jack undertook to take his place and after one of the fiercest battles ever seen in the ring succeeded in putting his adversary out, and winning the thousand dollars and the girl. It is a great play, and the fight is worth the whole price of admission. It is at the Bijou to-day and Tuesday. There are also two other pictures, "Saved by Hypnotism" and "McNab Couldn't Get Arrested." Blanche Whittier sings.
