DIED IN JERSEY CITY

THE LATE MRS. MORGAN, FORMERLY OF KINGSTON.

She Was the Mother of the Clergymen, Who Formerly Lived Here—Her First Husband a Scotch Minister.

The death is reported at Jersey City, N.J., on February 28th, of Mrs. Caroline Macdonald Morgan, formerly of Kingston. The deceased lady was born in Scotland on February 8th, 1833, the daughter of Robert Macdonald, of Woodside, Aberdeen. At the time of the disruption in 1843, Robert Macdonald stayed with the auld kirk and was one of the first elders elected therein. His daughter was one of the first Sunday school teachers of the new church which the auld kirk people built at Woodside, Aberdeen. She was married at Woodside, on December 4th, 1850, to Rev. Patrick Clerihew, A.M., of Aberdeen University, and minister of the parish of Fetteresso (manse of Cookney), Banchory, Aberdeen. She bore him four sons—Alexander C., Frank M., George W., and Ernest M. The eldest and youngest were born in Scotland, the second in the United States and the third in Canada. Her husband was called in 1852 to Oswegatchie, N.Y. Afterwards he came to Canada and took up newspaper work in Berlin and Guelph, as he was suffering from throat trouble. He returned to Scotland in 1865 and died in 1868.

In the autumn of 1870, his widow married John Morgan, ex-superintendent of schools, Newcastle-on-Tyne. She returned with her second husband and her sons to Canada that same fall and came to Kingston, living here for eleven years or until 1881. Her son, George W., married the youngest daughter of William Robinson, ex-M.P. P., in 1883. His death occurred in 1897. Since Mrs. Morgan left Canada she resided with her sons, Alexander and Ernest in New York and Jersey City. She is survived by her two sons, five grandchildren and a great-granddaughter. While in Kingston the deceased was a member of St. Andrew's church.

A Pair of Stolen Shoes.

Mrs. R. McGlade, who keeps a boarding-house on Barrie street, was at the police station to-day, complaining that Mary Davis, the girl sentenced to three months for vagrancy, had a pair of shoes belonging to her. Mrs. McGlade said that the girl had been boarding with her and had taken the shoes. The girl acknowledged the shoes she had on belonged to Mrs. McGlade, but she had not stolen them, saying they were loaned to her. The boarding-house-keeper wanted the shoes, but the police would not hand them over until the prisoner's own shoes were brought down. Before the prisoner was removed to jail the boots were brought down and an exchange made.

Special Train for the Theatre.

For the benefit of those wishing to attend the theatre Wednesday evening to see "The Doll's House," the Kingston & Pembroke railway ran a special train over the line after the performance. ### Deep-Seated Cough CURED IN 5 HOURS.

New Home-Made Syrup.
(Cut this out.)
From Boston Press.

Progress in medical compounds never ceases, and now it is stated by a prominent medical man that any deep-seated cough can be cured in five hours by the clock. Opium and morphia have been resorted to in the past, as well as measures. But now it is learned that the system must be treated to rid it of inflammation and congestion. A tonic laxative cough syrup does the work so quickly and thoroughly as to be almost magical. What heretofore has taken weeks to cure can be accomplished in hours. Get this formula filled or mix it at home and always keep it on hand. One-half ounce fluid wild cherry bark, one ounce compound essence cardui and three ounces syrup white pine compound. Shake the bottle and stir twenty drops every half hour for four hours. Then take one-half to one teaspoonful three or four times a day until the system is purified and toned up. Give children less according to age. One filling will usually cure a whole family, as the dose is small.

Madame Nazimova Playful.
Madame Nazimova, the young Russian actress, who appeared here last night in "A Doll's House," is as playful as a kitten. An hour before the play, she was on the stage of the Grand Opera House, romping about with the two children who take parts in the play. She allowed them to roll her all over the floor. Nazimova keeps young and childish by playfulness. At Smith's Falls, yesterday afternoon, she came out of her special car and danced around the station platform. Spying a big dog near at hand, she ran to it and sat down and began to maul the animal.

A Busy Season.

The Thousand Islands Yacht Club is already preparing for a very busy season on this summer, and every indication points to its being the most successful organization has ever known. Such enthusiasm has certainly never been aroused in the club as that which arises from its new one-design power boat class, and letters from all over the country have been received asking permission to purchase one of these craft.

If a married woman is looking for trouble all she has to do is to read extracts to her husband from the letters he wrote during his courtship.

If we ever do publish a dictionary we will define mollycoddle as a man whose every act meets with the approval of his wife's mother.

A woman can generate as much interest in a church social as a man can in a prize fight.

HARD CRACKS GIVEN

THEOLOGICALS AND PHILOSOPHERS BY PROF. J. L. MORRISON.

The Queen's History Professor Says That Many of Them are Nothing More Than Intellectual Scavengers.

Prof. J. L. Morrison in an address before the Theological society of Queen's University, Wednesday afternoon, offered an infinite deal of vigorous criticism on Ex-president Eliot, of Harvard University and his terse little volume on "The Christianity of the Future." A book of airy generalities; a volume of eloquent evasions; a flying column into the fields of philosophical speculation; a collection of empty platitudes, cheap Bostonian-ware that will soon find its way to the waste paper basket," said the Scotch professor.

"We have two great classes of people said Prof. Morrison. The lower mass entirely below the religious level; whose bestial surroundings have deprived them of any real religion. Then there is the highly intellectual strata that we find in colleges. The men of the palsied hearts. Let me grant that philosophy and theology have done a great service to religion, but there are many theologians and philosophers who are nothing more than intellectual scavengers who endeavor to clear the roads to the New Jerusalem. Perhaps a somewhat useful business but not one to be proud of. The small philosopher and the logician have hindered the progress of Christianity."

"Evil, sin and suffering make religion," said the speaker. "It is not an omnipresent energy that we are concerned with; it is not God's love but His justice that raises the question of religion. Truly our God is a God of love but proved only through suffering. President Eliot's book, said Prof. Morrison, ignores Christ completely. For the past two thousand years it has been through Christ that men have found all the God they ever knew. I care not how you define His divinity it is only through Him that men have attained to God. He will never be less than that, although we may have a more simplified Christ. I do not believe in prophecy, but the religion of the future, that is of the immediate future, will still be centered around sin and God and still finding Jesus Christ as the great help to the attainment of that religion. The Christian myths, as you call them, may change and become modified but nothing can take their place to express our emotions, there will still be no change in the fundamental facts of our Christianity. If we find our Christ philosophy we seek its universality; our Christianity of the future will still, however, allow our philosophers to play like the toy things that they are."

NOT THE SAME FINGER.

A Good Story Told at Queen's Medical School.

The professor, who afterwards became a senator, was instructing his class on the necessity of using their faculties of observation.

"He laid on the table before him a pot filled with some vile-smelling chemical compound—a thick, brown stuff."

"When I was a student," he went on, "I did not fear to use my sense of taste."

"He dipped his finger deep into the pot, and then stuck the finger in his mouth."

"Taste it, gentlemen. Taste it," he said, smiling grimly.

"The evil pot passed around the class and one after another we dipped our fingers in it and then sucked them clean. The taste of the thick brown compound was horrible. We made wry faces and spluttered. The professor watched us with a grim smile."

"When the pot was finally returned to him his lips parted, and he gave a dry chuckle."

"I must repeat, gentlemen," he said, "that you do not use your faculties of observation. If you had looked more closely at me, you would have observed that the finger I put in my mouth was not the one I dipped into the pot."

THE CITY OF GREAT WEALTH IS A NEWSPAPER GRAFTER.

Printer and Publisher.

Into our hands has come a copy of a letter received last month by the publisher of a daily in a small city from the librarian of one of the leading Canadian public libraries asking that the name of the library be added without charge to the publisher's mailing list. The writer expresses the feeling that this board would not be justified in purchasing the paper "in view of the great number of papers which are sent to us as donations." The letter concludes with a reference to the value to the publisher of the publicity which the fying of his paper in the reading room, would give.

Here assuredly is a real case of flagrant beggary, one of the unfortunate features of which is the fact that it has in the past been encouraged by the acquiescence of a portion at least of the Canadian press, the compliance of other publishers to the request being used as an argument with their moonshilling confreres.

Our public libraries avowedly stand for the education of their patrons and consequently for the furtherance of that spirit of true independence which invariably accompanies education. Surely they, of all public bodies, should emulate in the performance of their functions the independent principles for the development of which they stand.

But if they fail to realize this, then, footsooth, the press must consider it as a part of its educational policy to direct their attention to the inconsistency and manifest unfairness of their policy. And as a first means to this end we would suggest the prompt refusal of such propositions as the one referred to here. If the public library boards wish to secure certain newspapers for their shelves let them pay for them in the regular way. The subscription price means just as much or more to the country publisher as it does to the library boards and with every argument of fairness on his side the publisher is entitled to receive it.

But the letter under discussion makes the inference that the country publisher receives value for his paper in the publicity which the fying of that paper on their shelves gives it. But does he?

The country publisher derives his revenue from two sources—subscriptions and advertising. Publicity of the library shelf character will obviously be of no value whatever in circulation-building. On the contrary, it may lead to the cancellation of a few subscriptions by men who to save a dollar or two would prefer to the city library shelf every week in stead of enjoying in their own homes the paper of the town of their youth or friends. On the other hand, the fying of the paper with the city publisher's library will not bring it before the men who have advertising to give out, for the bulk of the advertising is of a purely local character, and the remainder must be procured through more direct methods of publicity and salesmanship than library shelf fying.

But there is still another side to the question. Public libraries are maintained at the public expense and the patrons have therefore the right to require that the files in connection therewith should contain the leading newspapers. This letter would suggest that the standard required for admission to the file is not so much the literary quality of the newspaper itself as the lack of an independent spirit on the part of the publisher. Such being the case the question broadens into one of public concern.
