Girl Students Resort to the Duel With Pistols to Decide Who Shall Have a Dashing Lover.

Cracow, March 11.—A duel between two girl students took place the other day, at Prestelitz, a small village close to the Austrian frontier, and continued until one of the combatants was prostrated.

The combatants, who were studying medicine in this city, had fallen in love with a dashing young medical student named Breiter, who made love to both of them in turn, and avoided becoming engaged to either.

The duelling party crossed the frontier at sunrise, and proceeded to a secluded spot in the forest. The principals took up their positions in a very solemn and business-like way.
