COLLEGE ON WHEELS.

State College of Massachusetts extends instruction. The State College of Massachusetts is to extend its instruction by an expedition over the trolley lines. There will be a section of the college on wheels, carrying its instruction throughout the country before the spring activity begins. This is a result of co-operation between the railway and the Springfield board of trade. The farmers show great interest in this public-spirited venture. The railway company will furnish three cars without expense to the college. The board of trade will do the advertising and assist in other ways. It is prompted by enlightened selfishness. The more the country districts prosper, the better it is for the cities to whose markets they contribute and for the transportation lines. Perhaps there is a link in this enterprise for further agreeable activity by the department of agriculture.

CURED AT SEVENTY-FOUR

Little Digesters are a Great Help to Mr. John F. Becker. The weight of years very often brings with it a still heavier burden, that of indigestion or some form of stomach trouble. Then "Little Digesters" come to the rescue—if you give them a chance, as did Mr. Becker. Here is his letter telling what they did for him: "New Dundee, Nov. 10, 1909. TO THE COLEMAN MEDICINE CO. Dear Sirs:— I was for a long time troubled with bloating after meals, and my tongue was always coated. Seeing that "Little Digesters" advertised I bought a box, and they took all that trouble away, but I thought one box would not be enough, so I sent you for more. They are a great help to my body. Yours truly, JOHN F. BECKER. Excuse my writing with pencil, being an old man of 74." "Little Digesters" aid the feeble stomach to digest the food perfectly. This means that you can enjoy every meal, and get the strength out of what you eat, if you take a "Little Digesters" afterwards. 25c. at your druggists or by mail from Coleman Medicine Co., Toronto. 36

HOUSE SET ON FIRE

BLAZE AT THE HOME OF PERCY B. CHOWN.

Person Who Broke Into House Spread Cool Oil on Dining Room Floor—Revolver and Box of Cartridges Stolen—Police Searching for the Marauder.

A most dastardly trick was perpetrated, on Saturday night, at the home of Percy B. Chown, at 36 Frontenac street, when some person, as yet unknown, broke into the house, and after spreading cool oil over the dining room, set fire to the house and then decamped. Luckily, the house was not burned down, but there was considerable damage. The person who entered the house stole a revolver and a box of cartridges, which were in an upstairs room. When Mr. and Mrs. Chown arrived at their home, shortly after ten o'clock, having been out during the evening, they found the place full of smoke, and the blaze burning itself out in the floor. The fire was very easily extinguished and no call was sent to the firemen. The police are working on the case.

The house was entered some time between eight and ten o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Chown went out about seven o'clock, and it was eight o'clock when a young lady, employed as a servant, went out. At this time, everything was all right. The person who committed the act had evidently been watching the place, so as to be able to get into the house, as soon as all the people had gone. The person was also determined to gain an entrance, as this was shown by the trouble that was taken. By climbing up on to the summer kitchen, the bath room window was reached. Then the storm window on this room was taken off, and then it was a very easy matter to raise the inside window, and get into the house. Once inside, the person made a thorough search of the house, as almost everything gave evidence of having been overhauled. However, it was shown that the marauder was not in search of money, as in one of the bureau drawers, which had been pulled open, there were a couple of purses with money, and these had been examined and thrown to one side.

The cool oil was secured in the shed and the contents of the can, which was almost a gallon, were poured out on to the floor, and the can thrown out into the shed again. The hardwood floor and the carpet saved the house from being destroyed. Owing to the fact that it was a hardwood floor the fire burnt itself out, and the carpet served to smother the blaze. Mr. Chown stated to the Whig to-day that he did not know just what his loss would amount to, as the smoke had come all through the house, but the damage would be considerable. The surprise of Mr. and Mrs. Chown upon arriving home to find the house in such a state can well be imagined. The furniture in the room was not burned, but suffered from the heat and smoke.

Mr. Chown has been somewhat unfortunate, as it will be remembered that two years ago his house was entered by thieves, who made away with several articles. This time the thieves secured an entrance to the house by way of one of the cellar windows. The person who visited the house on Saturday night attempted to get into the place by this same window but was stopped, as Mr. Chown had taken warning from the other theft and taken precautions to have it well barred. An investigation showed that the thief had been made to pry open this window. Asked if he thought the house had been set on fire by some person who, perhaps, had some spite against him, Mr. Chown said that he did not think that this was the case. He was more inclined to believe that two might have been engaged on the job.

Several rumors have been going the rounds about the affair. One was to the effect that a man, supposed to be under the influence of liquor, had called at one of the houses near Mr. Chown's and had asked where he lived, and if he was home.

However, this story could not be verified. The police are following up all the clues that can be obtained, and every citizen who had heard of the affair to-day expressed the hope that the guilty party would be run down. Within the past week there have been three or four fires of a mysterious nature, and some are inclined to believe that a firebug is at work.

The Hamilton Spectator remarks that he's a mean sort of man who refuses to plant a tree just because he will not be here to enjoy it when it has reached maturity.

Spray Helmet for Firemen. Firemen frequently find it necessary to play the hose on their fellow-firemen to protect them from the intense heat of the conflagration which they are fighting. Borrowing from this idea, an inventor has devised a helmet formed with a spray nozzle which is connected to a small hose line. The water sprays out from the nozzle in all directions, causing a miniature cascade around the body of the fireman, enabling him to attack at close quarters fires that would be unendurable under ordinary conditions.

Prince Rudolf Leichtenstein, first lord chamberlain to the imperial court, who died several months ago, left a mysterious legacy to the Vienna Academy of Science in the form of a sealed case of documents. They were understood to be of great historic interest, but the seals are not to be broken for fifty years. For many years the prince was intimately connected with the court and the family of the Hapsburgs.

New York, March 28.—Lieut. Sir Ernest H. Shackleton, the Antarctic explorer, is here; Lady Shackleton also.

The explorer declared he firmly believed that he would have discovered the south pole last year if he had carried fifty pounds more food. He said also that he believed Capt. Scott, who is soon to start with an expedition, will have little difficulty in finding the south pole. At any rate, Sir Ernest said, he would himself make no effort in that direction while Capt. Scott was in the Antarctic. This resolution will not keep him from making a trip to the Antarctic regions for scientific research.
