WITH THE MARINERS

THEY ARE VERY BUSY PEOPLE THESE DAYS.

There is still ice in the harbor, but it will soon be all gone—Grain Carriers and Coal Vessels Will Soon be on the Move—Fitting Out of the Different Boats.

These are very busy days with the marine men, as it will not be very long now before the coal vessels and grain carriers are at work again.

Some of the coal schooners are already in shape for navigation, and it is expected that they will be able to make a start in the course of a few days. The harbor is not yet clear of ice, but it will only be a matter of a few days before it is clear. A strong wind from the north is all that is required to break it up, and send it out of the way.

Navigation is now in full swing to Cape Vincent, and the Thousand Island Steamboat company is doing a good business by the early opening of navigation. The company also had a good business all winter, with the stage, but just as soon as the water route is open, the traffic commences to increase. The steamer Pierrepont is making the one trip each day, to the Cape, leaving at 2 p.m. and returning the following day at noon.

This will continue until the regular summer schedule is put into effect, when two trips will be made. The steamer Pierrepont is the veteran ice-breaker, doing good service for many years. The other vessels of the Folsom fleet are being put into shape, and will be ready to go down the river as soon as the tourist traffic is in full swing. The steamer Ottawa, the new vessel, recently added to the fleet, underwent extensive alterations during the winter months, and when the work is completed, will be one of the finest boats on the line.

Of course, it is rather early to make any prediction about the tourist traffic down among the Thousand Islands, but those in a position to know state that the season of 1910 promises to be a banner year.

Marine men are pleased at the early opening of navigation, and are very anxious to get their "sea-legs" on. This year, the opening in the harbor was two weeks earlier than last year.

The steamer Wolfe Islander will make her first trip to Halliday's Point, on Thursday. The vessel is making her regular trips over to the city, and the islanders are once more very happy. They are at all times a happy lot, but when the Wolfe Islander is on the go, they are more than pleased.

The Bay of Quinte line of boats are being put in readiness for the season's work, and the R. & O. vessels are also being put into shape. The steamer North King has undergone extensive repairs, special attention having been paid to the renovating of the cabin. The Caspian has also been overhauled, and the company is prepared to give the public the best possible service.

Every day now, captains, engineers, firemen, deckhands, and the many others who go to make up a vessel's crew, are on the move, and everything is now in readiness for the ushering in of the marine season of 1910.

Had Kick From a Horse. Mr. I. S. Kelley, of Markerville, Alta., says: "We have proved Zam-Buk of great value on the farm. I was kicked by a horse and sustained a nasty wound, which finally turned to an open sore. This caused me considerable pain, but as soon as Zam-Buk was applied, I got relief. In a short time Zam-Buk completely healed the wound."

"My father sustained a bad burn on his leg, which for a long time would not heal. Zam-Buk healed it, and brought on a covering of new, healthy skin all over the wound in a few days."

Zam-Buk is also a sure cure for eczema, ulcers, bad leg, piles, abscesses, cold cracks, cuts, scratches, burns, children's rashes, and all skin disease. Obtainable, druggists and stores, everywhere. 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

The Marsh Burning. The Allen marsh has been burning for some days, as it usually does in the spring, but no damage of any account has been done. The north end of the city was heavy with smoke on Tuesday evening, due to this fire.

In Police Circles. The police had a very quiet day on Tuesday, not even a drunk falling into the net, and as a result there was no session of the police court on Wednesday morning.

NEED POLICE MATRON

TO LOOK AFTER YOUNG GIRLS ON THE STREETS.

There are Too Many of Them About With Young Men at Night—Police Can do Little Good.

A gentleman who has always taken a great interest in the care of the poor, and their children, and who has lately been looking into the question of youngsters, boys and girls, roaming around the streets at night, has come upon some great surprises. For instance, one evening this week he stood at the corner of Brix, and Clergy streets, and in one hour twenty-five girls, fourteen years and under, passed either up or down the street with fellows, some times their own age, but in nearly every case some years older, and the actions of some of them were anything but ladylike.

Some girls likewise have appeared in the police station, and then the parents or guardians are greatly surprised at what they learn.

"All this emphasizes the need of a police matron," said the gentleman. "If we had one she could see these girls, and their parents, and see that without their parents knowing anything about it, give them a few words of friendly advice, tell them where they were wrong, and how to go right, and in many ways help them, where a policeman cannot. If a policeman goes to a newspaper in the police station, on such a case it is impossible for him to explain things and talk to these girls as a matron could."

"Just so long as things go on the way they are," he concluded, "viciousness and disgrace be brought to some mother, simply through her own ignorance and her children to roam the streets at will."

GOSSIP ON NEWSPAPERS. Two Irishmen Talking on the Current Events.

Two Irishmen in New York while eating their luncheon in the shade of the tool house during the noon hour last week, were talking over the current happenings reported in the newspapers.

"Who is them fellers Morgan and Gats," said Tim, "that I see so much about in the pa-pers? Not a day but what I see them doin's something or other."

"Morgan and Gats are rich men," answered Pat, "what collects a lot of money from other people an' use it to buy railroads for themselves with. Ye'll see them some of these days on the streets."

A day or so later as Pat and Tim were going to work two Germans boarded the car from either end and met inside. "Guten morgen!" cried one, extending his hand. "Wie geht's?" said the other.

"By golly," exclaimed Tim, "there's him two fellows now; but hanged if they look to me like they was the rich men they tell me!"

Deputation to Ottawa. The following Kingston deputation went to Ottawa to-day to oppose the extension of time to the Kingston, Smith's Falls and Ottawa Railway company—Ald. Carson, Elliott and Givens representing the city council, and Dr. Ryan, C. A. Macpherson, J. M. Farrell and Charles Livingston representing the Board of Trade. There will be deputations from towns and villages along the line to be followed by this railway. The city of Ottawa will also be strongly represented. The municipalities want the government to force the present company to build the road at once, or give way to some other company that will.

Bitter Boycott in Germany. Berlin, March 30.—This city is threatened with a bitter boycott on the same lines as the recent meat boycott in America. His shoulder was badly injured and when examined by a doctor it was found that the collar bone was broken.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE

Two Fine Plays Billed For To-day and To-morrow.

"What a wonderful lesson is being taught by that still more wonderful play at the Savoy," wrote the critic for Club Life, during the first week of "The Servant in the House," in New York city. "Daring, indeed, is Mr. Kennedy, but how true to life it all is. 'God isn't watching—let us die as little and grab as much as we can,' just seems to fit the average man whether he be clergyman or business man. And looking over the well-fed audiences that fill the Savoy I fancy it must have gone straight as an arrow to at least one-half of the men there. It was, however, a bit rough on the bishop to be so exposed, and before one of the 'people' too. It is as perfect a performance as one can ever hope to see a play that requires intelligent people to appreciate." "The Servant in the House" will appear at the Grand Opera House to-night.

"Story of the Merry Widow." "The Merry Widow," the phenomenally successful Viennese opera, which Henry W. Savage will offer for a second time in Kingston, at the Grand Opera House, Thursday, March 31st, deals with the love of two impetuous, high-spirited and utterly unreasoning lovers, Sonia, the widow, and Prince Danilo, an attaché at the Marsavian embassy in Paris. Their youthful anger, jealousy, pique and stubbornness, and the undercurrent of real affection which flows beneath their delightfully foolish quarrels furnish both composer and librettist with the theme on which they have builded a structure of alluring melody and delicate narrative. The scenes of the opera are laid in Paris, where the prince is serving his country as an under-secretary of her embassy. He is spending his nights in dissipation, amid a whirl of artificial gaiety at Maxim's and other Bohemian cafes, trying to forget the girl whom he once loved in Marsovia, and who married a wealthy old man to spite him. The wealthy old man has died leaving her the richest woman in Marsovia and she comes to Paris to be near the man she really loves. She meets the prince in the first act at a splendid ball which is being given at the embassy. The attitude of each plainly shows that they still love each other with an ardent passion, but neither will confess it. Indeed in a rash moment the prince tells her that he will never so long as she lives say "I love you." She accepts the challenge and the entire action of the opera centres around her efforts to make him say by word of mouth what she knows he "thinketh in his heart."

Through its three acts they quarrel and banter and mock each other, each too stubbornly proud to give in and at consumed with real passion for the other. Not until the final moment does Danilo throw his promises to the winds that blow.

See that Your Flour is Sound and Dry

Then, Madam, the cookbook says: "Sift Your Flour". Do YOU know the story the Sifter tells? To beware of flour that's soft and sticky, coming out of the sack with difficulty; flour that's lumpy, musty, woolly, soft; flour that sifts quite sluggishly. To guard against the stuff you can press into a ball near solid, falling into several pieces when broken, not into that fine granular dust which FIVE ROSES is. Because, Mistress Housewife, all this means "stinky" quality plus Excessive Moisture.

Very nasty thing is excess moisture, Madam. Expensive too, you know. Since the bread-yielding and water-absorbing properties decline, and YOU are robbed of many loaves per barrel, many rolls, and pies and goodies. And you pay for water instead of good flour. Since Strength and Thirstiness go together, don't you see?

But when your flour is driest—and FIVE ROSES is driest of all—just see what happens. It's granular, free, heavy; nothing remains in your sifter—no waste. Bright, particularly glistening in appearance. FIVE ROSES being lively, even, and free, each particle absorbs a maximum amount of water, etc. Safer, easier to work, you see; fermenting uniformly, working soundly in the dough. And when the dough is done, it's wonderfully light and silky.

Of course, Madam, flour (like all good foodstuffs) must contain some moisture. But there's Minimum and Maximum, you know. And when the moisture danger mark is crossed, say 13%, then look out for molds and bacteria, for bad odors, musty, unwholesome, un-sound flour that won't keep, and bad tempers. Yet FIVE ROSES, Madam, has a clean bill of health. Ground from the plump, well-filled Red Fife kernels, sun-dried on the sun-dried western prairies. Made from soundest wheat in the best way, packed right, fully dried, stored right in well-ventilated airtight warehouses, shipped right. And it's guaranteed Unbleached. FIVE ROSES is such a nice flour to use. Marlam. Why don't YOU use FIVE ROSES?

The Shoe Question

No one wants to throw away money on shoes, even if it's only 50c or $1. You can waste money on Shoes as quickly as on anything, perhaps quicker, for what looks like leather is often "a horse of quite another color". Apart from wasting money, are you tired?—Look to your Shoes. Have you a cold?—Look to your Shoes. Are you a little less well dressed than a person of your means should be?—Look to your Shoes. This Shoe Store buys liberally and has such an intimate knowledge of what every manufacturer in the United States and Canada can do and is doing in the way of making Footwear, that we always have the best, at the lowest price, consistent with the quality. But (with a capital B) the bed rock foundation on which our business is built is quality. Make this your Shoe store. You can't do better. Don't think you can do as well.
