Suffered Terrible Pains From His Kidneys.

Perhaps no other organ works harder than the kidneys to preserve the general health of the body, and most people are troubled with some kind of kidney complaint, but do not suspect it.

There is no way of getting the kidney poisons out of the system except through the kidneys, and no medicine so effective in taking them out as Doan's Kidney Pills.

They help the kidneys to flush off the acid and poisonous impurities which have collected, thus clearing out the kidneys, bladder and urinary passages.

Doan's Kidney Pills are entirely vegetable, and may be safely taken by old and young.

Mr. Donald A. Melrose, Broad Cove Banks, N.S., writes:—"I was troubled with my kidneys for nine months, and suffered with such terrible pains across the small of my back all the time that I could hardly get around. After taking two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills I began to feel better, and by the time I had taken three I was completely cured."

Price 50 cents per box, 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct by The T. Millburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THE WORKS RESERVE

BUSINESS MAGAZINE DISCUSSES DEPRECIATION ACCOUNT.

A Bit of Advice Which the Council Should Accept—To Raffle a Public Department a Serious Matter—A Mayor Getting Light.

In Birch's Magazine of Business, there is an article on "Depreciation Reserve." The Whig copies it under the information of the City Council, which is about to plunder the Water department, even encroaching upon the depreciation reserve because apparently some of its members do not know what it means.

When the Mayor of Fowlerville engaged a new book-keeper for his private business, not for the city it was with the view of making a number of improvements in the office methods as the business conditions would permit. Anything that would economize the labor and at the same time double results was joyfully adopted, and, in the same spirit, anything that would produce a more up-to-date business statistics that could be relied upon was welcomed enthusiastically.

The business consisted of a cotton mill and the cotton mill contained a number of buildings and a considerable amount of machinery. Buildings and machinery are liable to wear-and-tear and depreciation necessitating, at some time or other, expenditures for maintenance, renewals, such expenditures as both wear-and-tear and depreciation may be said to be continually accruing. Although, perhaps, not in evidence.

No the new book-keeper established an annual depreciation reserve, the amount agreed upon to be debited to profit and loss account and credited to depreciation reserve account each year.

Unfortunately, however, the new book-keeper was caught misappropriating moneys from collections and charging them to freight and express account, and he was discharged and the old book-keeper knew nothing of reforms, wonderful economizing systems, of comparative statistics, the consequence being that all the desirable improvements which had been introduced lapsed into "innoxious desuetude," says one, "the depreciation reserve account." This lengthy introduction explains the circumstances which produced the or's official stationery. The explanation following inquiry received on may-story information was obtained by considerable personal effort.

Letter No. 1.

Friend Beach: Appreciating the facility with which you solve business problems I take this opportunity to present my difficulty for your kind consideration.

I am in the cotton mill business and have had on my books for several years a depreciation reserve account which stands credited with $15,250. Every year when the balance sheet of my business is drawn up and I look to see how much profit I have made, I am confronted with this blessed depreciation reserve account which appears to be strangling my income and robbing me of my just earnings. What on earth is this depreciation reserve account? It was opened by a book-keeper who stole from the till.

James McTavish.

Letter No. 2.

Friend Beach: Do we ever find it necessary to make repairs to buildings and machinery or to replace parts which have worn out? My dear sir, we are always paying out good money for repairs, maintenance and renewals. You ought to know that every mill spends most of its profits in that way.

James McTavish.

Answer.

A depreciation reserve should not be treated on books of account as a deserted orphan—neglected and forgotten. It is an annual deduction from profit intended to provide for future repairs, maintenance and renewals in connection with buildings and machinery, and also for new machinery when that becomes necessary. All expenditures in respect of repairs, maintenance and renewals should be debited to this account. With regard to new machinery it should be treated as follows: Debit original cost of old machinery to depreciation reserve account and credit machinery account.

Credit any realized from sale of old machinery to depreciation reserve account and debit to machinery account and credit accounts payable.

The purpose of the depreciation reserve account is to call attention to the fact that it is not wise to dispose of all the profits as shown in the regular balance sheet and that it is wholesome business prudence to anticipate losses which the business must eventually suffer.

OVERTAXED NERVES

A Distress Signal—Enrich the Blood Supply.

When your nervous system is exhausted the trouble makes itself evident in many ways. You feel always agitated and unfit for work. Severe headaches distract you; your back is weak; you sleep badly; your appetite is uncertain; you are nervous and irritable and after any exercise you tremble and perspire excessively. If the trouble is not checked your case goes from bad to worse until you feel that your condition is hopeless and that insanity is threatened.

Your nerves are calling for help. They are starved because they demand from the blood more nourishment than it can supply. New rich blood is the secret of nerve strength and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People cure nervous disorders because they feed the weak, exhausted nerves with rich red blood. The case of Mrs. Emma Hall, of Hamilton, Ont., furnishes proof that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will cure even the most stubborn cases of nerve exhaustion.

Mrs. Hall was left a widow and was forced to work in a mill to maintain herself and her two little children. She bravely faced the battle of life, though she had never had to conform to such conditions before. Notwithstanding the splendid spirit she displayed the work played havoc with her delicate constitution, and some years ago Mrs. Hall noticed signs in herself of a nervous collapse. She consulted a doctor who gave her some medicine and told her she "would be all right in a few days." But relief did not come and it was finally a daily occurrence for her to faint at her work. These fainting spells quickly developed into promoual hysteria and chronic irritability, and Mrs. Hall says that death would have been a relief. She consulted several doctors but got no help, and she felt that she was almost bordering on insanity. In this condition she was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Grasping at even the possibility of help she decided to do so.

After taking three boxes she actually found some improvement, and from that time on this improvement was steady and increasing daily until after a few months she felt the cure was complete. She says:—"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done what doctors failed to do and what I myself thought was impossible. They have freed me from the terrible trouble I suffered and my old joy in life has been renewed." When Mrs. Hall began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills she weighed only one hundred pounds while under her renewed health her weight has increased to one hundred and thirty pounds.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can be had from any dealer in medicines or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Lord Dufferin's Antique.

The Sketch. On Lord Dufferin's estate, near Belfast, there once stood a historic ruin, a castle which had been a stronghold of the O'Neils. One day Lord Dufferin visited it with his steward, Dan Muligan, and drew a line with his stick round it, telling Muligan that he was to build a protecting wall on this line. And then he went to India leaving the care to the preservation of the great historic building. When he returned to Ireland he hastened to visit the castle. It was gone. He rubbed his eyes and looked again. Yes, gone it certainly was, leaving not a trace behind it. He sent for Dan and inquired: "Where's the castle?" "The castle, my lord? That old thing? Sure, I pulled it down to build the wall."

Plain Talk Desirable.

Philadelphia Post. Miss Jane Adams, the head of Hull House, at a luncheon at the Chicago Civic Club, remarked: "We women still have much to fight for. Our battle will be long and difficult. Well, let us frankly admit it. There is nothing to be gained by such rose-colored phrases as William White employed. William White's brother had killed a man in a cold blood. 'Well, William, how about your brother?' a visitor to the town asked him one day after the trial. 'Well,' said William, 'they've put him in jail for a month. That's rather light' sentence for a cold-blooded murderer," said the gentleman. "Yes, sir," William admitted, "but at the month's end they're going to hang him."

The thermometer at the police station registered 65 degrees at three o'clock, on Tuesday afternoon. Overcoats have been discarded by the majority of citizens. Cooler weather is predicted. "Forbear" makes the best kind of a home motto.

A MODERN VENUS.

Hazel Cox, Who Plays the Part in "A Skylark."

New York, March 29.—Professor William Lyon Phelps of Yale, recently remarked before a class of grad- uate students: "If you could take the twenty best formed and best looking women you can find to-day and stand them up beside a Grecian woman of old, the former would look like caricatures."

In refutation of this statement Hazel M. Cox, who was selected by Henry B. Harris as the most perfect woman he could find to play the part of Venus in his production, "A Skylark," has this to say in reference to Professor Phelps:

"I don't think people measure beauty by the old Grecian standards any more, but if they did I wouldn't be afraid to have my measurements compared with theirs." Miss Cox is twenty-three years old, and a decided blonde, hails from Baton Rouge, La. Here are her measurements which, when compared with those of the Venus de Milo, will show that the actress had nothing whatever on some of the women of to-day:

Height ..... 5 feet 8 1/2 inches

Weight ..... 154 pounds

Neck ..... 13 1/2 inches

Bust ..... 39 1/2 inches

Waist ..... 24 inches

Hips ..... 41 inches

Thighs ..... 24 1/2 inches

Calf ..... 15 inches

Ankle ..... 8 inches

Wrist ..... 6 inches

Canada's Supply of Food.

Canadian Gazette. The Hon. Sydney Fisher, Canada's Minister of Agriculture, told the McGill boys the other day that when the census of next year comes to be taken, instead of the 5,000,000 of the 1901 census, Canada would probably be found to possess at least 7,500,000 inhabitants. More than that, Canada will, in the course of the next generation, "be doubling and trebling her population, which will mean that the United States will be sending her best blood to Canada, as we sent ours into the United States in her earlier days." And in the future time Canadian farmers will, Mr. Fisher believes, find in the United States a market of enormous value. "Canada provides the old country with her grain at present, and it will not be far in the future when Canada is the granary of the Empire. In a short time the United States will cease to export wheat, and will, perhaps in fifteen years, turn to Canada for the quantity of wheat in the same measure as she does now for the quality of wheat." There are many suitors for Canada's food products, and it should be the aim of British and Canadian statesmanship to stimulate Canadian production in the interests of British consumers and keep Canadian eyes turned eastward to the source of Canadian capital. In increased cultivation is the true safeguard of cheap food.

Liquor Licenses in B.C.

Orange Sentinel. The legislature of the province of British Columbia has passed a new license law. It is based on the principle of high license and the strictest regulation and control directly by the law department of the crown. One of the judges of the appellate court has expressed the opinion that the act goes farther toward the legitimate aims of prohibition than the Scott act. For instance, no brewery or wholesale liquor house is permitted to direct the purchasing power of any retail house. Moreover, the number of licenses is regulated upon a basis which enforced in Canada would wipe out several hundred licenses. Where there is an adult white population within a radius of one mile of 1,000 persons, a maximum of three hotels may be established. Seven guest rooms must be attached to the smallest country hotel, and every house have separate accommodation for the licensee's family. No man can hold a license who has been convicted of a criminal offense. No one may sell liquor to a child. No woman may be served with drink, none given to dipomanics or persons of drunken habits.

The Betting Evil.

Toronto Star. An alarming feature of the situation is that betting on Canadian tracks is increasing yearly, to say nothing of the betting on results from outside tracks, which follows the formation of the habit. Mr. Raney calculates that over twenty-two million dollars was bet last year in connection with six tracks in Canada. What the total would be if augmented by Canadian bets on American tracks is beyond conjecture. This money was staked in many cases by boys and men who could ill afford to lose it. Sometimes it was other people's money.
