APPENDICITIS

How To Avoid It and Escape a Surgical Operation, Told By One Who Knows.

A Simple Method That is Always Efficacious—Trial Package Free.

It has only been a few years since it was discovered that a surgical operation would cure appendicitis; in fact, it has been but a short time since the disease was discovered and named.

Whenever there is an inflamed condition of the appendix, caused by impacted faeces in the small cavity opening into the intestine, you then have appendicitis.

The older doctors used to call this inflammation of the bowels, and were puzzled to know the cause.

Even now, with all the knowledge we have of the disease, no medical man can tell you why we should have an appendix, why we find it where it is, or what are its functions, if it has any.

The disease for which the operation is a cure is usually caused by indigestion, and in many cases follows a large and indigestible meal.

Physicians have until recently recommended an operation, but now, as it is known that it is caused by indigestion, or dyspepsia, a cure without an operation is assured.

Where the patient is treated with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, the unhealthy conditions prevailing rapidly disappear, the stomach and intestines are placed back in their normal condition, every organ of the body operates as it should, and the inflammation is reduced and the operation is avoided."

Conscientious physicians, who are looking after the best interests of their patients, will always keep a supply of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets handy in their office, where in cases of sudden attacks of indigestion they can relieve the patient at once.

There is no record of a case of appendicitis where the stomach and bowels were in a healthy condition and properly digested the food from meal to meal.

No better advice can be given to any one who has attacks of indigestion, or who has been threatened with appendicitis, than to tell him to go to the drug store, pay 50 cents, and take home a package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Whenever heartburn, gas in stomach or bowels, heart disease or stomach troubles, sour eructations, acidity or fermentation are present, act at once. Take a dose of the Tablets and get relief as soon as possible.

At all druggists—50 cents.

Send us your name and address today and we will at once send you by mail a sample package free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

CHALMERS CHURCH

THE ANNIVERSARY SERVICES WERE HELD ON SUNDAY.

Rev. J. A. Macdonald, LL.D., Editor of the Toronto Globe, Was the Preacher, and Delivered Two Forceful Sermons—Fine Music Was Rendered by the Choir.

Rev. J. A. Macdonald, LL.D., editor of the Toronto Globe, preached two powerful sermons in connection with Chalmers church anniversary on Sunday. Dr. Macdonald is one of the finest pulpit speakers in Canada, and his discourses, yesterday, delighted two of the largest congregations that have ever been crowded into Chalmers.

At the morning service, Rev. Dr. Macdonald preached on the subject, "The Man And The Crowd," and pointed out how it was necessary for one to get away from the crowd, at times, so as to be prepared for the battles of life. It was necessary that we should get away from the crowd and noise, and go to some quiet place, where we could prepare ourselves to return to the crowd. There never was a time in the history of the world, when it was so hard to get away from the crowd, as at the present day. In going through life, no one was left alone. We had our associates, our boards, our conventions, in fact there were so many opportunities for a crowd. But there was no reason for complaining of these circumstances. And we should play the part of a man. It was not manly for us to shut our eyes to these facts. We must admit the facts, accept the conditions, and set out to train ourselves for life. One thing people needed to be warned of was publicity. We could do very little to change things. To do our duty, we must live with the crowd. But if we must live with the crowd, we must secure an opportunity to be alone at different seasons, so as to have an opportunity of looking into the interior of our own life, and to the things which help to restore us. We must do this so, that we shall be able to get a fresh grip on ourselves. True character was built in society, but it was in being alone, that one secured the clear conviction of truth. In the rush and noise of the street, we might be able to apply the truth and do our duty, but it would only be because beforehand we had solved the problem, to put first things, first.

There was great need for self-regulation. In speaking of a crowd, the speaker did not mean thousands. It was a number of people governed by the one common idea. Perhaps there was a parade on some big day. It would not constitute a crowd, if each man was doing his duty. But let something happen. Let there be a fight or an accident. Then see how the sentiment would soon turn into a common channel. The individual would then be made into a crowd. There was great danger that the crowd would control the individual.

There was danger of the mass. A man would let himself go with the crowd, without forethought or reason. He would act under the impulse. When an individual surrendered to a crowd there was a moral weakening. A person required great self-control. The speaker cited cases where people did damage in times of strikes just because they were unable to control themselves. The same thing applied in politics, when there were people who could grip on to say fifty thousand people, until after the election was over. At so-called revival meetings there were people who allowed themselves to be swept away, and to do things which had no religious value. The individual must get away from the crowd; a grip must be made upon his conscience, his heart must be touched.

The speaker continuing pointed out that a board of directors might be a crowd, or a class at the university. They may be able to direct the individual. A shop, a lodge, or a club might also be a crowd.

"What is needed to-day," added Dr. Macdonald, "is men who will think for themselves, and who, if need be, will stand alone. What we need the greatest of all is the man."

In the evening Dr. Macdonald's subject was "The Unseen Element In Life"—that invisible element which is in the background. It is not what a man does that exalts him, the preacher said, but what he would do. A man's vision of the eternal throughout his life is what counts.

At both services the choir rendered splendid music. The soloists were Misses Hazel Massie, Rosevear, Reid and Orser. At the morning service Miss Massie gave a fine rendering of "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth." During the offertory in the evening Mrs. A. R. B. Williamson gave an organ solo.

OUR LITTLE BOY THAT DIED.

To the memory of little Charlie Thomas, aged 5 years, son of Harvey Thomas, Loboro Township, who died February 23rd, 1910.

We are all alone in our chamber now,
And the midnight hour is near.
And the fagot's crack and the clock's dull tick,
Are all the sounds we hear.
And over our souls in their solitude
Sweet feelings of sadness glide,
And our hearts and our eyes are full when we think
Of our little boy that died.

And when we gazed on his innocent face
As still and cold he lay,
And thought what a lovely child he had been
And how soon he must decay;
"Oh, death, thou lovest the beautiful"
In the woe of our spirits we cried,
For sparkled the eyes and the forehead was fair
Of our little boy that died.

We shall miss him when the flowers come
In the garden where he played,
We shall miss him more by the fireside
When the flowers have all decayed.
We shall see his toys and his empty chair,
And the horse he used to ride,
And they will speak with silent speech
Of our little boy that died.

Confiscated Toy Pistols.

On Saturday, Market Clerk McCammon confiscated a number of toy pistols from boys, who were shooting off caps around the streets, and frightening horses. Boys have caused a great deal of trouble in this way, and lads who do not want to lose their tops should take warning, and not create a nuisance with them.

TO LAY CORNER STONE.

The corner stone of the new chemistry building in course of erection at Queen's university will be laid on Wednesday, April 27th, after the convocation ceremonies. For some time the governors of the School of Mining have been endeavoring to secure Sir James Whitney, premier of Ontario, to perform this ceremony. This morning a letter was received from the premier stating that he would probably be able to be present and lay the stone.

Seeking Cheaper Houses.

A citizen in search of a house travelled round the city all day Sunday and found no less than twenty-two houses placarded "To-Let." Working people find it almost impossible to pay the increased rents asked by landlords and are forced to seek cheaper homes wherever they can get them.

Students Played a Joke.

The old joke of tacking a purse down to the sidewalk was pulled off by some students who board on Johnson street, and a number of people who were fooled are now looking for their scalps. The students, after placing the purse, got near the front window of the house and every time a person got fooled they would give them the merry laugh.

Speaks in High Praise

Regarding Rechab Tandy's singing at the grand concert of the "Festival of the Lillies," in Massey Hall, Toronto, on Easter Monday, the Toronto World says: Not the least to be congratulated is Rechab Tandy, a gentleman who is always foremost in support of charitable causes. Mr. Tandy sang Grainer's "Hosanna" and Elgar's "Land of Hope and Glory." His rounded, resonant tones and his sympathetic vocal style disclosed him as a thorough vocalist, possibly not surpassed in concert work in Canada.

House Rents Increased.

Notwithstanding the fact that last year one hundred new dwellings were erected in Kingston, there has been a general increase in rents this spring. Houses that have rented for $13 a month have been raised to $15 a month. There seems to be a small increase all around, and as a result there will be a good many movements this coming May, as a good many of the house occupants cannot pay the increase asked for and must seek cheaper dwellings. It will evidently take another year or two of building to reduce the rents in the city. There seems to be quite a demand for houses, and one wonders why the population does not show a larger increase.

Mrs. Turner Dead.

On Sunday, at noon, Mrs. Sarah A. Turner, wife of G. W. Turner, Alfred street, passed away after a week's illness from bronchitis. The deceased, whose maiden name was Sarah Amelia Lucas, daughter of the late George Lucas, Odessa, was born in Odessa forty-four years ago. After her marriage, about twenty years ago, she moved into the city and has been here since. Besides her husband she leaves one daughter, Miss Emma, one sister, Mrs. R. W. Aylesworth, Odessa, and three brothers, Joseph, George and Dennis, Odessa. The funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. C. A. Sykes, on Wednesday afternoon, from her late residence to Cataraqui cemetery.

THE SPORT REVIEW

THE INTERCOLLEGIATE ANNUAL UNION.

The Track Meet Next Fall to be Held at Queen's—Entertainment for Frontenacs Next Friday Evening.

At the annual meeting on Saturday at Queen's of the Intercollegiate Athletic Union, these officers were elected: President, Prof. McLeod, McGill; vice-president, Mr. Wright, Toronto; secretary, Prof. Matheson, Queen's. Next fall the intercollegiate track meet will be held at Queen's. The union does not look kindly upon students who, for the purpose of qualifying for athletic teams, enter the universities for partial courses, complying with the letter of the law. This tendency will be discouraged. It was also decided not to encourage the champion intercollegiate athletic teams to compete for dominion championships, as these contests interfere with studies too much. The union decided to allow tape to be wound around the vaulting pole so that a better grip may be secured.

On Friday Evening.

The entertainment for the Junior Frontenacs will be held, according to the present plans, in the Grand Opera House on Friday evening next, when the watches and medals will be presented to the new champions.

Sporting Notes.

THE SITUATION OF QUEEN'S

In Regard to Its Relationship to the Church.

Queen's university stands in the same relation to the Presbyterian church as it did last fall. The committee representing the university trustees and the commission of the general assembly, which met in Ottawa last January, agreed upon the proposed changes in the constitution of the university. On April 26th, the general assembly commission will meet again at Queen's and receive the report of its committee, which was appointed for the purpose of getting information on the financial aspect. It is practically certain that the commission will report to the general assembly, in June, recommending that the constitution of the university be changed.

BAD DREAMS CURED

A Winnipeg Man Tells of a Simple Remedy That Cured.

ESCAPE FROM INDIGESTION.

"Though I am an active hard working man, somehow I fell into a condition of poor digestion and disordered stomach," writes Rr. Eb. P. Whitney. "In the morning I had a very unpleasant taste in the mouth. My tongue was whitish and nothing tasted good. An hour or so after eating I experienced pain in my right side, gas to mod in the stomach and caused great distress. Even in warm weather my hands felt clammy, and still worse my system was seldom regular. Brooding and despondency would now and then get hold of me and completely unman me. When unfit for work I tried Dr. Hamilton's Pills. In my case their wonderful curative power was like magic. So mildly did they work upon my system I at first thought they wouldn't benefit. But a few doses proved how much they helped the stomach, how quickly they brace up digestion. Food tasted natural, my appetite improved, my face looked clear and bright, and day by day as I gained in health, so I gained in spirits. To-day I am as sound, healthy, vigorous and well as any man could be. Dr. Hamilton's Pills did it all."

Beware of the dealer that may try to sell you an inferior pill to Dr. Hamilton's which are sure to help and cure. Sold in yellow boxes, 25c. per box.

SYDENHAM STREET CHURCH.

Hamilton Preacher Conducted Anniversary Services.

On Sunday anniversary services were celebrated in Sydenham Street Methodist church, the preacher being Rev. J. V. Smith, D.D., Hamilton. Both morning and evening services were well attended, every seat being occupied. At the morning service, Dr. Smith took as his text, "For whosoever will save his life shall lose it, but whosoever shall lose his life, for My sake and the gospel's shall save it," Mark viii-35. The speaker said the words were Christ's interpretation of life. He referred in this connection, to St. Paul's saying that he died daily. "Self preservation is obligatory to all," said Dr. Smith, "but self-seeking is wrong and suicidal."

He then drew as an illustration, the blacksmith, who, in giving his strength, developed his muscles, where, if he stood with his arms folded, his muscles would not be developed. He had to give or lose his strength to gain muscle, and so we have to give or lose something to gain something, and have to lose our life to gain the greatest gift of all, the life eternal. The speaker said there were many Christians in the world who were unhappy, because they were self-seeking.

The other side of the story was a man, who, not self-seeking, devoted himself, for Christ's sake. Florence Nightingale made a name for herself, because she went outside her own sphere to aid people who were suffering. Many Christians were quite satisfied with happy homes, magnificent churches, and grand singing, but unless they got out and helped their brethren these things did not avail them very much. "Selfishness," said the speaker, "is the greatest wrong in the world. The priest and the Levite were custodians of the grandest creed in existence, but they failed when they passed the wounded man on the roadside and left him for the Samaritan to care for him, and bring him safely home."

In the evening, Dr. Smith chose as his topic, "The supremacy of the best," delivering a strong, interesting discourse. The music at both services was greatly enjoyed. In the morning the anthem, "Ye Shall Dwell In The Land," with Miss Gertrude Laidley and Harvey Angrove taking the solo parts, and Mrs. Small rendered "Nearer My God To Thee" in fine voice. At the evening service the soloists were Mrs. James Small, Miss Gertrude Laidley, Mrs. J. Angrove, William Eva, Noble Armstrong and Harold Angrove.

AUTO WITHOUT LIGHTS.

Drivers Should Not Run So In The City.

Last season many complaints were received about automobiles being driven too fast in the city, and this season, also, have reports been made. On Saturday evening, about eight o'clock, a large car was driven about eight miles an hour down Brock street, without the sign of an oil or gas light either front or rear. Of course the horn was tooted at every corner, but still a person could not distinguish the machine ten feet away in the dark.

Because there have been very few police court cases over the automobile craze in the past, does not guarantee the future, and the police are likely to make a few examples early in the season and stop the evil before summer. There are many of the local drivers who are good careful people, but there are some who are not.

It is also quite probable, this season that every one who drives an automobile must have a license, and must also wear a badge on the coat-sleeve, or where it can be seen. The police have a right to stop any car on any street and demand the license of the person driving the car, whether it be owner, guest or chauffeur. In some cases it would be a good thing if an examination were conducted before the license was issued, but such things would be impossible now that the number of autos in the city is increasing so rapidly. All owners should join together in obeying all the rules and by-laws governing the operating of the car.

DARING SNEAK THIEF

Steals Parcels From Covers of Post Boxes.

A daring piece of sneak thieving was witnessed on Saturday afternoon, about two o'clock at the corner of Market and King streets. Some one had put three small parcels done up in brown paper, on the top of the letter box, putting stones on them to keep them up. Presently a youngster came along, and seeing the boxes walked over close and as he passed by took a good look at them, also looking down and along the streets. Seeing a good opportunity he turned quickly and calmly lifting the three parrels, put them under his arm and walked off across the market, as unconcerned as could be.

AN INDUSTRIOUS MAID.

Lady Found That She Was Perfect Treasure.

Chicago Record-Herald.

"The new maid is a perfect treasure," said Mrs. Gaddington, with undisguised enthusiasm. "She goes right ahead and does things without waiting to be told. It's such a relief to have a girl with intelligence—one who can be depended on to do her work, no matter whether I am here to direct her or not. What do you suppose she did to-day?"

"Took all the clothes out of the closet and aired them I'll bet," replied Mr. Gaddington, becoming suddenly pessimistic.

"No, she will probably get around to it at some morrow or next day. Without waiting to receive even a hint that your den needed cleaning, she went in there and gave it a thorough going over. You'll not recognize the place when you look into it. She must have burned nearly a waggon load of papers and pamphlets and magazines that you've had piled around in the corners, and your books have all been—"

"Why, William, what's the matter?"

"Nothing, nothing!" replied William Gaddington, making a supreme effort to control his feelings. "Where is the—the—I mean—where is she now?"

"What in the world has happened? Have things gone wrong at the office to-day?"

"No, no! I merely want to know where this paragon you have been speaking of is now."

"You'd never guess. Really, she's a wonder. I slipped down into the cellar a few minutes ago to see what she was up to, and what do you think? She's down there humming away to herself as happy as you please and brushing the dust from the wine bottles."

AT THE GRAND.

"The Girl Question" Was Presented on Saturday.

"The Girl Question," a musical comedy, in three acts, was the offering at the Grand, Saturday matinee and night. There was a very large audience in the afternoon, but the evening was not quite so large. The piece has a number of pleasing selections, and the principals were all good in their parts. The leading figure in the play is Willie Dunlay, who played the part of Con Ryan, the head waiter. The amount of slang that he gets rid of in the third act would do credit to a New York newsboy. He was good in the role. Carrie Leonard, as Elsie Davis, and Lillian Logan, as "Joe" Forster, carried out their parts well. The dancing of Messrs. Fox and Evans was a special feature.

MET AT THE RANDOLPH

Gathering of the Life Underwriters' Association.

On Friday evening there was a gathering of the Life Underwriters' Association, at the Randolph hotel, which was a most enjoyable affair. It was for the members of the association in Kingston and this district, and there was a very large attendance.

S. Roughton, the president, occupied the chair, and the reports presented showed the association to be in a most prosperous condition.

After the business portion of the meeting was concluded the members spent a fine social time together. This is one of a series of such events which it is intended to hold so as to bring the members together so that they may become acquainted with each other.

Has Earned the Penalty.

Ottawa Journal.

Already effort is being made to induce the government to commute the death sentence of Robert Henderson to imprisonment for life. It is to be hoped the minister of justice will not be moved by these appeals. Henderson clubbed the life out of a harmless old lady who had taken him in out of the cold and fed him on the best, at her own table. So long as the death penalty is in force there can be no case in which it has been more fairly earned than by the murderer of Miss Macpherson.

HATS MEASURE 7 1-2 FEET.

Mammoth London Hats 2 1-2 Yards in Circumference.

Women's hats are larger than ever. One West End, London, milliner was exhibiting in her show rooms the other day only two types. The mammoth hat was one, and the other was the turban in various shapes, among them the Spanish toreador, the Nabob, and the Sultana, all closely fitting, very fasinatingly made in straw, with feather and flower trimmings.

In the opinion of the designers of these hats, however, there is no hope for the turban against the all-conquering hat of gigantic dimensions. The milliner placed upon a mannequin's head a hat composed of black Chantilly lace, draped over a light wire frame, with nodding black plumes reared on high and a bow of, windmill sails of black tulle at the back. It measured two yards and a half in circumference and had a high crown.

One chance remains for the turban. It may be worn in the new and very brilliant shades, such as couleur de rose and the dazzling blue called nourice. Few women would be daring enough to put on a blazing blue hat over two yards' circumference. A delicate shell pink shot with dull gold and trimmed with a couple of great rosebuds is as bright a color as the milliners so far recommend with the mammoth hat. Not only are the brims of the large hats immense, but the crowns of the majority are ascending to an alarming height.

QUEBEC CONSCIENCE MONEY.

Two Lots of It Handed to the City Treasurer.

Quebec, April 4.—The city treasurer, C. J. LeFrance, was a very surprised man when Monsignor Faguy, pastor of Notre Dame de Quebec, handed him a cheque for $7,850, which had been given him to turn over to the city as conscience money. The day previous the sum of $60 was received by the treasurer from the Jesuit Fathers on the same principle.

IS THINNESS EMBARRASSING?

Undoubtedly It Is to Many a Maiden and Youth—While Even Those Well Along in Years Prefer Well Rounded Figures.

Prescription Increases Weight.

A scrawny, gangling youth or maiden is almost invariably slighted, overlooked or ridiculed in any social gathering. There is something about a plump or well proportioned figure which attracts not only friendship, but love and adulation as well.

Pebble with a proper amount of flesh are favored in all walks of life, while the thin are unblessed, unwelcome and frequently miserable for life. The difference lies in the power of the digestive functions and the ability of the blood and nerves to absorb and distribute over the body the nutrition extracted from the food eaten.

The thin person is abnormal and lacks the power to absorb and retain the flesh and fat elements which the gastric juices in the stomach and intestines should extract or separate from all kinds of food and drink.

A recent accidental discovery has proven that tincture cadomene when blended with certain other drugs, will add from one to three pounds of flesh per week during treatment, while the general health and strength also improves wonderfully.

Get in a half pint bottle three ounces of essence of pepsin and three ounces of syrup of rhubarb; then add one ounce compound essence cardiol; shake and let stand two hours; then add one ounce tincture cadomene compound (not cardamom). Shake well and take a teaspoonful before and after meals, drinking plenty of water between meals and keep smiling.
