GANANOQUE IS EAGER

FOR RIFLE MATCHES WITH DISTRICT TEAMS.

First Schooner to Reach Gananoque This Season Was the Horace Taber —Manufacturing Places to Plant Flowers.

Gananoque, April 14.—At the annual meeting of the Gananoque Rifle Association the following officers were elected: Captain, J. B. Robinson; secretary, P. B. Whiteley; treasurer, W. J. Belfie. It was decided to enter a team in the "Over-Seas" Daily Mail" competition. Contests are also to be arranged with the neighboring rifle clubs. Gananoque range is equipped with telephone and everything which goes to make a range what it should be. Secretaries of clubs can arrange a match any time by writing to P. B. Whiteley, Gananoque. A rifle league has been suggested.

The schooner Horace Taber (Capt. Frank Barnhart and Mate Amos Green) holds the distinction of being the first vessel to arrive at this port for the season of 1910, laden with a cargo of coal. She pulled into Gananoque river yesterday morning.

A team of horses attached to a waggon and driven by a man named McDonald, a resident of Mallorytown, ran away in the west ward on Tuesday evening. The team brought up against the residence of S. Dorey, Victoria avenue. The horses were considerably gashed, but the driver was uninjured.

George Bowsley has purchased the handsome residence on Arthur street, lately owned and occupied by O. V. Keating, who recently removed to Winnipeg.

Mrs. Dexter Keyes, Victoria avenue, seriously ill for some time past, is reported as having taken a turn for the better.

Following a suggestion made at the nomination meeting in December last, by Rev. J. T. Pitcher, that the factories ought to beautify their grounds with flower plots and shrubs, the Parmenter & Bullock Co. have made arrangements to place themselves on record as the first to follow this advice and it is expected the other manufacturers will fall in line.

Jacob Pullaw, Osborne street, was in Kingston for a short time this week undergoing surgical treatment."

David Bain, Pine street, confined to his home for several weeks, seriously ill, has so far recovered as to resume his duties. Miss Flossie Hubbard, King street west, has succeeded Miss Mabel Lloyd on the local postal staff. Mr. and Mrs. George W. Scott and son, Ralph, Arthur street, spending the past few days in Sunbury, have returned to town.

Rev. and Mrs. Dalton Flatt, of Verona, spending part of their honeymoon with Mr. and Mrs. Grant, Wellington street, left, yesterday, for a short visit with Smith Falls relatives. Mrs. C. E. Britton, King street, spending a short time in Brockville, the guest of her daughter, Mrs. (Rev.) H. H. Bedford-Jones, at St. Peter's rectory, has returned to town.

John Henceforth is Really Joe Martin.

Vancouver, April 14.—In Robert Barr's novel, "The Measure of the Rule," published a few years ago, the redoubtable politician, Joe Martin, formerly of Winnipeg and Vancouver, now of London, figures under the name of John Henceforth. Robert Barr was a student at the Toronto Normal School over thirty years ago, and this novel, "The Measure of the Rule," is largely autobiographical dealing with his life and adventures while attending this institution. The characters in the book are all drawn from life; they include the teaching staff and some of the students. In many cases the names are but slightly changed; Dr. E. A. Blakely, formerly of Winnipeg, appears in the book under his own name.

Among the characters are J. L. Hughes as John Brent, and Joe Martin as John Henceforth. Martin began life as a school teacher, and was a fellow student with Barr at the normal school. What Barr has to say about Martin is very interesting. Chapter XIV is mostly given up to him.

"John Henceforth," writes Mr. Barr "is a difficult man to estimate accurately. His face, nose and eyes had something hawk-like about them, but his manners were those of the gentle dove. So quiet and unobtrusive was he that, although I have lived in the same house with him, saw him every day at meals, heard him in the class, I had no suspicion of his quality until my attention was drawn to him by another.

"In a controversy John Henceforth could silence any opponent except Dr. Darnell, who never knew when he was beaten, but Henceforth knew it as did all the rest of us, and when that moment came John Henceforth would sit back in his seat and smile, saying nothing further.

"A friendless man, I take him to be lacking some one ingredient in his nature which would have made him a hero of the world, for his clear-sighted, coldly selfish view of life entitled him to a place he has never attained, or at least never held for more than a day or two at a time.

"I am handicapped in writing of him, because not once have I been privileged to hear an unbiased opinion of him, although I have met those who knew him both in Europe and America, but whenever his name was mentioned—whether they belonged to his party or the opposition—such rancour was aroused that I usually got nothing but lurid profanity. He is a man to be ignored, and I can imagine his quiet incisive voice from the body of a public meeting being the precursor of a riot. Something in his tone rouses virulent antagonism in the human race."

"Kando," Russian silver polish. Regular 25c. box; 2 for 25c. at Gibson's Red Cross drug store. It works like magic.

It is expected that one hundred thousand British will emigrate to Canada this year, representing twenty-five million dollars in cash.

CHECK TO BUSINESS WOMAN.

Had to Give Money to Wronged Neighbor.

Russia's indomitable business woman, Mme. Stoessel, has been ordered by the Moscow civil courts to hand over 120 rubles to Mme. Roudsky, widow of a Russian officer.

The case, begun in 1906, proved to turn on the prowess of Gen. Stoessel's wife as queen of Port Arthur's provision trust during the siege.

She already had withstood attacks of beleaguered civilians, who complained to the government that after she worked a corner in fowls she got her husband as commandant of the fortress to fix the selling price of eggs in the Port Arthur market.

Mme. Roudsky informed the court that at the outbreak of the war she owned a cow and two calves. When the siege began she left Port Arthur and handed over her dairy business to her husband, who died soon afterward.

Mme. Stoessel thereupon appropriated the cow and the plaintiff estimated she sold 1,000 rubles' worth of its milk before selling the animal for 120 rubles.

Mme. Stoessel admitted selling the cow, but declared she had given all the milk to the wounded, and, moreover, the cow was injured when found.

Danger in Water Too.

A short time ago in a town in the south of Ireland a lecture was given on the evils of intemperance. "Yes," said the lecturer, "alcohol has ruined our country and has slain its thousands, but when has bright, clear cold water caused the death of anyone?"

From the back of the hall a gruff voice answered: "When the man couldn't swim."

When rheumatism gets hold with a man he is apt to forget his other troubles.
