

OF DOUBLE INTEREST IS THIS LETTER

It Reports a Remarkable Cure of Kidney and Bladder Disease From Belleville, Ont.

Also Recalls Mr. D. M. Waters' First Purchase of Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills and Ointment a Quarter of a Century Ago.

When you read this letter you will readily understand why it is of special interest to us, for the druggist who sold the pills in this case gave his first order in 1885.

For twenty-five years Mr. Waters has watched the growth in popularity of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and other medicines and can now point to hundreds of cures in Belleville and vicinity resulting from his recommendation of these well-known medicines.

If you are tired of experimenting why not use a medicine which has proven its unshakable control over diseases of the kidneys and liver? Let this letter convince you or send to us for records of hundreds of other cases.

Mr. Mark Ottery, Bay Side, Ont., writes: "I purchased two boxes of Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills from my druggist, D. M. Waters, Belleville, Ont., and the amount of satisfaction my wife obtained from their use has led me to ask my druggist to send you this letter."

Mrs. Ottery suffered considerably with kidney and bladder trouble, causing great pain at times. The urine was very heavy and of a bad color. After taking a few doses of these pills she felt better and when she had used the two boxes she was entirely well."

The definite, direct and specific action of Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills on the liver, kidneys and bowels enables them to bring about cure in the most complicated cases. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Toronto.

THEY SHOULD TALK LESS.

"British connection," says the Toronto News, "was the corner stone of Sir John Macdonald's policy." So it was, but when the master hand was removed British connection did not cut much of a swath. When some one pointed out that the national policy was not conducive to British connection a member of the party asserted, "So much the worse for British connection." When the Liberal party proposed a preference tariff, in favour of Britain, the conservatives opposed it. What was Britain doing for Canada that it should have so great an advantage? The demand was for a quid pro quo, and when Mr. Fielding reminded the critics of this fact recently they became angry, British connection, forsooth! The less some people talk about it the better.

A HOPEFUL THING.

One of the encouraging things about Canadian public life is that there are so many men in the public service who are not there for their own benefit. The Woodstock Sentinel-Review says there are such men to-day, and there always have been such men. They give their time and their talents to their public duties, managing to live in the meantime, but sacrificing their opportunities for the acquiring of a fortune. These men are to be found on both sides. A conspicuous example is the Hon. Mr. Fielding, who, notwithstanding that he is minister of finance, and is constantly confronted by opportunities that he might turn to his own advantage, is still, comparatively speaking, a poor man. Such men should be encouraged. They are the hope of the country. We may differ from them on points of policy; we may oppose them, even with bitterness, for party purposes; but in the end, when reason asserts itself, we are compelled to admit their worth and their service. When, therefore, the friends of Mr. Fielding, personal and political, undertook to remove all anxiety as to the future, by presenting him with a purse of $120,000, they were rendering a service to the country as well as to Mr. Fielding. The kindly and thoughtful act will meet with cordial approval on both sides of politics, for while Mr. Fielding has naturally many political opponents; it is doubtful if he has any personal enemies.

BACK TO THE LAND.

W. J. White, inspector of Canadian immigration agencies in the United States, makes the prediction that Canada will receive this year 150,000 people from that country. Of these twenty-five per cent. will be native Americans, twenty per cent. returning Canadians, fifteen per cent. natives of the British Islands, and thirty per cent. Germans and Scandinavians. No problem of assimilation presents itself in regard to this addition to our population, remarks the Toronto Star, in a thoughtful editorial. Any problem traces its origin to Northern Europe—roughly speaking to the portion of the European continent lying north of the fiftieth parallel of latitude. By a natural process we are obtaining exactly the sort of population we would have picked. It is an immense gain to Canada, and at first sight appears to be an immense loss to the United States.

But only at first sight. It is better for the United States that these people should move into Canada and become producers of food, than that they should move into American cities and become food-consumers, adding to the cost of living. When the American farmer leaves Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa or Nebraska, his old farm is not deserted, but it is taken up by some other American possessed by the land hunger. "Back to the land" is a cry which has been taken up with vigor by the United States government, by the governments of various states, by the railway companies, by men like James J. Hill. There is a movement towards the Southern States, now recovering from the blight of slave labor, and towards Mexico. Irrigation is converting deserts into fertile tracts. Intensive farming is taking the place of the wasteful, prodigal methods of the old days.

In this way there is a rivalry for settlers and farmers, but it is a healthy rivalry, benefiting the whole North American continent. The American farmer who moves into Canada and raises wheat or cattle helps to make bread and meat plentiful in both countries. The farmer who moves into a Southern State helps to make tropical and semi-tropical foods of all kinds, as well as cotton, most plentiful in both countries. The strain upon the great cities is relieved. The power of trusts, combines and monopolies, is weakened when men get back to the soil, and when new centres of population are formed.

SECRET OF HIS SUCCESS.

The Woman's National Daily sees a valuable lesson in the life of Mark Twain, though one he did not seek to teach. It is that "every man and woman is, in very truth, the architect, designer and builder of his own or her own individual career, and that no obstacle is too great to be overcome, and no eminence too great to be attained." The same truth has been expressed in one of the books published by Orison Sweet Marden, of Success. This book is called "Architects of Fate," and in it Mr. Marden has brought together the experiences of many men, and all for the purpose of showing that persistent effort on the part of the individual has had its reward.

If the men who are prominent in the commercial or industrial world be consulted it will be found that each one of them devoted a certain amount of time each day to the study of books that widened his horizon and amplified his individual qualification. Whatever Mark Twain did involved the best that was in him, and all the while he was "observant and collected mentally the material which contributed towards his books and stories."

Happiest of all was the character which he developed. His opportunities for usefulness increased with his age, likewise his courage and intellectual strength. These became conspicuous when his resources went in an unfortunate business venture, and when an old man he practically began life over again.

The man's exterior was cheerful, but deep down in the heart he carried many a disappointment. Added to these were the bereavements that came with the death of wife and children, until only one remained to offer the affection which he craved.

He left an inheritance of great value, but the larger assets are represented by manuscripts which reflect his passing thoughts. His was the philosophy of contentment and good cheer and the world may want to wait a long time for the appearance of his equal.

The new bishop of London asserts that "all men who love God should work together in the things on which they agree," and not look for occasions of discord. This is a good working creed.

Laid Corner Stone

NEW CHEMISTRY BUILDING AT QUEEN'S.

Sir James Whitney Laid Stone and Named Building Gordon Hall—Ceremonies Were Witnessed by a Very Large Gathering Wednesday Afternoon.

The new chemistry building, at Queen's university, will be known as Gordon Hall. This was the name designated to it on Wednesday afternoon, by Sir James Whitney, premier of Ontario, who was given the honor of laying the corner stone.

The ceremony took place, immediately after convocation, and was witnessed by a very large number of people, the crowd in attendance at the proceedings in Grant Hall, journeyed to the new building, in course of construction, en masse, and this crowd was augmented by many more, who were unable to attend the conferring of the degrees.

A platform was erected for Sir James Whitney, his party, and the delegation from the university, and a large flag floated over the building, in honor of the occasion.

Prof. Goodwin, dean of the faculty of practical science, opened the proceedings, referring to the new building and of the deposits to be made in the corner stone.

The big stone, among other documents will contain a scroll with the names of the governor-general of Canada, Earl Grey, Sir James Whitney, Chancellor Fleming, Mayor Cooper, members of the faculties, professors of the school of mining, list of graduates of this year, the name of the contractor and architect, Michael Sullivan and J. W. Powers, also, a pass list, a copy of Queen's Quarterly and Journal, Kingston Whig and Standard, and a set of ten-tercentary stamps.

In the absence of Hon. Wm. Hart, chairman of the board of governors, Donald McIntyre, the vice-chairman, delivered an address, presenting the fact that the stone was laid, Mr. McIntyre took occasion to refer to the fact that the trowel was made of silver, taken from the Cobalt and maple wood from the Canadian forest. He also referred to the generosity of the provincial government, in granting money for the erection of the new building.

Primer Whitney afterwards proceeded to lay the corner stone, with the assistance of the contractor Michael Sullivan, and architect J. W. Powers.

"I declare this stone to be truly laid," said the premier. "It was requested by the board of governors to select a name by which the building shall be known in the future. I might say, that it required very little thought, to come to a conclusion. In my selection, I believe that I have honored myself. I now declare that this building shall be known as 'Gordon Hall.'"

Principal Gordon acknowledged the honor in having his name attached to the building. He felt very grateful for this, and at the same time, he felt deeply grateful to Premier Whitney for connecting his name to it. The building would not only be beautiful in itself, but would be one which would minister to the present and succeeding generation.

"I trust that the building may long remain connected with the name of the man who has laid the foundation stone," said Principal Gordon, in closing.

The remarks of Principal Gordon brought the proceedings to a close.

The corner stone of the new building bears the following inscription: "The corner stone of this building, erected with money granted by the province of Ontario was laid by Sir James Whitney, prime minister, 27th April, A.D. 1910."

Everyone Thought She Was Going Into Consumption.

Gained Ten Pounds in Two Weeks by the Use of Burdock Blood Bitters.

Mrs. Fred. Riggs, Kingston, Ont., writes: "I was completely run down, my blood was out of order, and I used to get so weak I would be compelled to stay in bed for weeks at a time. I could not eat, was pale and thin; every one thought I was going into consumption. I tried everything and different doctors until a friend advised me to use Burdock Blood Bitters. I did not have one bottle used when my appetite began to improve. I used six bottles. I gained ten pounds in two weeks. When I began to take it I only weighed ninety-three pounds. It just seemed to pull me from the grave as I never expected to be strong again. I will tell every sufferer of your wonderful medicine."

The blood reaches every portion of the body to distribute nutrition and remove effete matter and waste products. Clearly then, any influence, good or bad, affecting the blood, must necessarily affect the entire system for good or evil as the case may be.

Get pure blood and keep it pure by removing every trace of impure morbid matter from the system by using Burdock Blood Bitters. It exerts a curative influence unapproached by any other remedy.
