PROF. JORDAN'S VIEW

OF THE SITUATION AT QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY.

What the General Assembly Should Do—Prof. Gordon Regards the Changes as a Painful Necessity.

Kingston, April 30.—(To the Editor)—On Wednesday last you published an anonymous interview with a member of the assembly's commission, who is styled an "oppositionist." On, at least one of the statements made therein I crave leave to make a brief comment. It might be pointed out that the sharp contrast presented in the words "church control or separation" scarcely does full justice to the situation as there has been no direct church control for many years, and we do not believe that the so-called "separation" will make such a real difference as that phrase implies; that, however, is not the point just now. The gentleman whose opinions are reported in your columns makes two statements in regard to the future. To one of them I wish to call attention, as I agree with the prediction contained in it but can not accept the reason given for it as adequate. The reason given is: "The fact of the general assembly meeting this year being held at Halifax will bring in favor of constitutional changes, because there will not be so many Ontario men in attendance. This seems scarcely a sufficient reason as the attendance of ministers from Ontario is likely to be very large. Some other reasons may be noted:

(1) Halifax is a cool place, with healthful sea breezes and we are hopeful of judicial and judicious consideration of the great question. A matter of fact, with individual exceptions, the atmosphere has been growing cooler since the Winnipeg assembly, and probably the forthcoming discussion will be marked by more light and less heat. (2) Ten years ago this movement was initiated by Principal Grant at Halifax and the majority of those attending the assembly sitting there is likely to remember the fact and be of opinion that this discussion ought to be brought to a final settlement. (3) At Halifax there is an object lesson in the form of a university, Dalhousie, which maintains close Presbyterian connection without direct church control. (4) It is, we think, beginning to dawn on the minds of a large number of members of assembly that a vote on this matter carries a grave responsibility. If the church rejects the request of the governing bodies of the university and of its own committees and commissions, it must face the serious position of assuming formal control and providing adequate support, a burden that we know to be impossible for the church to carry under present circumstances.

I write as one who in this matter is responsible only for his own opinions, as also as one who personally regrets the need of any change; that there should be any change at all in the relation of the Theological Faculty to the university is a matter that I regard, as one of its members, not with pleasure but with a painful necessity. Yours truly, W. G. JORDAN.

NO SETTLEMENT YET.

How Will Carpenters' Strike Be Settled?

At Labor Hall, this afternoon, it was stated that there was no settlement in the carpenters' strike.

"How are chances for a settlement?" the Whig asked one of the prominent members of the union.

"There is no sign of any settlement just at the present," was the reply, "but there is only one way for a settlement, and that is by the contractors paying the $3." He added that the strikers were sure to stand out for the amount asked for.

"Is there any chance of any further trouble?" he was asked.

"There may be a general strike if the contractors should put non-union men at work. If they should do so, then all the other building trades would go out in sympathy."

However, it is not thought that the one strike will lead to a general tie-up of all the building trades.

Arabian Coffee.

The Arabian coffee maker, having prepared his fire of charcoal and placed near it a huge pot containing water, takes a few handfuls of green coffee berries, carefully cuts off all imperfect berries and for an substance and then places the best of the berries in an iron ladle held over the fire.

The berries are permitted to roast until they begin to smoke and are then while still uncharred, placed in a small mortar and carefully brayed with a pestle closely fitting the cup of the mortar.

The berries are not, however, reduced to dust.

While this process has been going on a small pot has been half filled with tepid water from the large pot and placed over the fire.

When the water in the small pot has begun to boil the broken coffee berries are thrown in, and the boiling is permitted to go on for a short time, the decoction being stirred with a spoon when it shows signs of boiling over.

The coffee is then served in small cups without cream or sugar.

Wouldn't Stand the Licking.

A boy who had been going to one of the public schools in Buffalo left school to go to work for a small manufacturer.

The boy was dull and his stupidity annoyed the manufacturer greatly. After two weeks of trial the manufacturer discharged the boy at the end of the week on Saturday night.

"You're discharged," the manufacturer said. "Go and get your pay, and let that be the last of you. You're discharged."

On Monday morning the manufacturer was much surprised to see the boy in his former place at work.

"Here!" he shouted. "What are you doing in this shop? I discharged you Saturday night."

"Yes," said the boy, "and don't you do it again. When I told my mother she licked me."

The price of coal took another jump this morning, from $6.75 to $7 a ton. The increase is due, the sellers say, to the increased cost of handling and bringing over from the American ports.

Made First Arrest.

Police Constable James Downey made his first arrest on Sunday night when, in company with Constable McCrory, he cabbed two horses on Sydenham street. The animals were wandering along, apparently looking for a place to lay their heads and the kind-hearted policeman took them over to the Windsor hotel.

A Barfield Squabble.

Quite a scrap was pulled off in Barfield a few days ago, the aftermath of a fight between some youngsters. The lad had a scrap, which developed into something bigger, when the parents got into it. Then one of them went to a lawyer and had a letter sent to his neighbor notifying him to keep the peace. This angered the accused and when next the two men met they had a good scrap. A police court case may result.

Measuring Depth by Sound.

A new Norwegian apparatus for the use of ships consists of an electrical device whereby a sound wave is sent to the sea bottom, in relatively shallow water, and upon being reflected back to the vessel is received by another part of the same apparatus. An automatic record is made of the time elapsed between the departure and the return.

Thus, the velocity of sound in water being known, the depth is at once ascertained. The apparatus is designed to make a continuous record, and it is asserted that it may be so constructed as to give an alarm when the water shallows to a certain depth.

Broke Chinaman's Windows.

The police are looking for two men who broke the three large windows in the Princess street Chinese restaurant early this morning. The men, who had a bicycle, came to the place about 12.30 o'clock, to get something to eat. The place was closed for the night and in darkness, and the proprietor told them they could get nothing as the fire was out. They then became quite abusive, saying if the Chinaman did not open up and get them something to eat they would break in. He then offered to give them a meal, but they refused to enter, and went away. About an hour afterwards they returned and threw stones through the three large front windows. The police hope to find the culprits to-day.

James Estord, Barriefield, will appear before Col. Hunter, at the courthouse, on Tuesday afternoon, charged with assaulting and doing actual bodily harm to a neighbor named Wormington.

The Up and Downs of Chance.

Oswego Times. In 1896 Abraham White, of New York, won fame and much money when as a boy with a capital of forty-four cents he made a successful bid for $1,500,000 of a government issue. The profits from this deal set him up in business and he made millions. Then he began to go down the toboggan. One night recently he was arrested on the charge of grand larceny, the alleged offence being the swindling of Isaac Zane, a pensioned employee of the Manhattan Electric company, out of $600, the savings of a lifetime.

Customs Import Duties.

The local customs imports during the month of April amounted to the sum of $16,610.77.

Oberlin was the first co-educational college in this country. In the early days they had a rule that in case there were but one man and one woman in a room, at least one chair should be between them. One evening an instructor passing one of the small sitting rooms was horrified at beholding a young man and a young woman occupying the same chair.

"Sir," he demanded of the man student, "what is the meaning of this outrageous behavior?" "Do you not know the rules of the college?"

"Why—or—don't they say that if a man and a girl sit alone in a room that they shall have one chair between them?"
