

Do You Have Headache

TAKE ONE OF THESE LITTLE TABLETS AND THE PAIN IS GONE.

"My first experience with Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills was a sample package handed me. They relieved the pain so promptly that I have never been without them since. I have given them to many friends when they had headache and they never failed to relieve them. I have suffered with neuralgia in my head, and the first one I took relieved me. They have cured me of neuralgia. I would not be without them."

A MEDIUM IN DISTRESS.
Eusepia Paladino, the Italian "sunder worker," is distressed because a committee of Columbia College have represented her as a distinguished fraud. Her ghostly rappings and cabinet mysteries can be explained. They are all tricks, tricks, and only tricks. She complains that those who sign an article for the press, stamping her as a numbug, were so nice and polite that she can hardly believe they would do her harm. She wants a scientific test, one that will either demonstrate that she possesses some physical force as yet unknown, or that her's is a manifestation of unnatural power. She gives the whole case away, however, by saying that while in a trance, those who are co-operating with her are looking for tricks and she becomes the subject of their will for the time being. If there is anything unworthy it is the result of their interference with phenomena, and not an evidence against her and of her power "as a medium. Madame Paladino's name is simply one more to the long list of people who have played upon the credulity of the people, and to her advantage. She will now rank with the Fays and all like her whose spell has been broken.

TWO DAYS OF REST.
Dr. Moore, the secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, reports that 100,000 persons who formerly laboured seven days in the week now enjoy their Sabbath and are immensely benefited thereby. There is no doubt that men are the better of a brief respite from exhausting labour. Health and life itself are assured by it. Dr. Moore is right when he says that there is a misunderstanding with regard to the Sabbath. It is not a day of gloom—it should not be—and the sooner we get rid of that idea the sooner will the rest day become what it was designed to be.

By the way the Curtis Publishing company, of Philadelphia—the printers of the Saturday Evening Post and the Ladies' Home Journal—have tried an experiment of their own, and with complete satisfaction. The employees, hundreds of them, have, during the past year, been required to work an usual forty-eight hours in the week, but they have been at service only five days. The office is closed on each Friday evening, and does not open until Monday morning, and then labour is resumed with zest. The effect of the longer rest is visible in two ways—in the increased zeal of the employees, in their regular occupations, and in their desire, during the extra day, to engage in many acts for which they formerly pleaded they had not the time.

Anything is a blessing which lifts from men a sense of drudgery, or removes the feeling that they are little, if any, better than the machines they operate. No man can be at ease whose spirit is crushed out of him by the grind of every-day labour. The Curtis company finds its experiment a huge success, and it is commended to others as a cure for the commercialism that is degrading and destroying life.

AN INCREASE OF CRIME.
To what is the increase of crime in Canada due? The papers chronicle from week to week the incidents that startle and excite, and one is depressed as he contemplates the murders that are being reported. Note the record of one week in Ontario:

Floyd Dresser, of Leamington, shot his wife and then suicided. They lived happily together. At least there was no suspicion that they had wearied of each other, or that there was occasion for the maddest of all acts. A crying child aroused a relative and neighbor, and when the door was forced the double crime was discovered. The circumstances which attended it can never be cleared up. It is inferred that the man was temporarily insane, and in merciful spirit one drops the curtain upon the unhappy event.

At Hamilton Thomas Finton has been committed for trial later. He is charged with the murder of his father. The evidence in this instance is not clear. The elder man was found dead, and an attempt will be made to show that his end was met accidentally. Some things, suspicious in the extreme, have to be accounted for, and pending the clearing of them up the young man will live under a cloud. Perhaps he may be released on bail.

In Toronto Pasquali, an Italian, convicted of stabbing another Italian, Fabio, foully, in a street row, was sentenced to be hanged on June 30th. He professed to have been at the quarrel, but to have been so frightened and confused that he did not know what happened.

Lastly, and most shocking, was the conviction of Archibald McLaughlin for the murder of his wife and two children. The trial took place at Whitby, and no one who read the evidence could question the sentence of death which Judge Teeszel pronounced.

Now, this is the exhibit of one week. Life is not, in Canada, as sacred as it used to be. The command, "Thou shalt not kill," is not regarded with the same awe as formerly. Why? What is getting into the people? The devil, some one will answer, but it is not a comprehensive term. Crime is the result of some change in public sentiment, and the cause is worth one's serious consideration.

EDITORIAL NOTES.
Conscription is the policy of the conservatives in England. It may help the party, and it may not. The king of England is not likely to repeat the tricks of the Emperor of Germany in army matters.

The Toronto News is persuaded that the Laurier government is "hostile to every movement for closer connection between Canada and the Mother Country." Therefore, it should be replaced with a Borden combination as soon as possible. Is any sane man likely to be influenced by that ballroom?

Hundreds of young women are studying in England for the engineering profession, and spend their vacations in railway and bridge building. What is more—they pass the examinations with more success and a higher percentage of marks. They mean business, and if they surpass some men the reason is apparent.

The mayor of New York closed up a theatre in New York because it persisted in putting on an indecent play. It is the man who does things that the people love. There's no doubt of that. The few may kick, the trouble-makers and the offenders, but the masses applaud the Roosevelt or the Gaylor when he makes the fur fly.

The giving of a book contract to Eaton, so that he might advertise his business through the schools, has inspired Simpson to spread himself in the same way. If the local ministers were only willing, Eaton and Simpson would undertake to run some of the departments of government, and they would do it more economically.

Darrow, the Chicago lawyer, who recommends anti-marriage between the whites and blacks as a solution of the race question, is a demagogue of the first water. He attacked Brooker Washington, the coloured teacher and leader of his people, because he has dared to educate the people to become valuable in the industrial world.

An action has been taken in Toronto to prevent the municipality from interfering with a private company in supplying light and power to the people. The right of the municipality to indulge in the ownership of certain things is challenged. The outcome of this suit will be watched with interest. It cannot be that so many cities and towns have been doing illegal things.

BORDERED PARASOLS ARE THE LAST FRENCH NOTE.
Some of the new bordered parasols are extremely attractive, and the prices for the real French sunshades with lace or silk borders are by no means trifling. The parasol illustrated is of pink and white checked silk with a border of chantilly lace. Above this deep lace border is a lattice pattern made of very narrow lace insertion, and below the wide lace border three tiny lace ruffles are added.

The new truck for the T.R.R. coach, to replace the one broken in a run of several weeks ago has arrived and is in commission. The B. of Q. coach, which has been supplying here will be retained for Victoria Day service, when it will be needed for the crowds, who will doubtless celebrate with Kingston, on that day.

Edison as a Prophet.

In the June issue of Popular Electricity, an interesting article appears on "The Tomorrows of Electricity and Invention," in which the writer, Thomas A. Edison, predicts that we shall easily have $50,000,000,000 of money in the electrical system in 1925, and five times as many persons will be employed in electricity as now. He also considers that there is absolutely no reason why horses should be allowed within the limits of the city, as between the gasoline and electric car no room is left for them. As to other matters, he believes a family could live the year around without using anything but good package food, and declares that what is needed is to carry this a step further and have stores run on the automatic plan, so as to reduce the cost of distribution. He finds that homes and rents cost too much, and prints in a word for the making of cement houses in the mould, as such houses can be erected complete with plumbing and heating apparatus for $1,200, each of which would cost $5,000 in cut stone.

Counting Their Chickens.
Winnipeg Free Press.

The Roulin government is rushing the elections because a canvass of the province made by its agents indicates a victory by a comfortable margin, if the contest comes under present circumstances.

The House of Lords is believed to have thrown out the budget on the advice of the unionist leaders, who had been advised by their agents that a tariff reform majority of one hundred was assured in the event of early elections. The elections were held and there was a majority of one hundred all right—for the other side.

One of Sir John MacDonald's sayings was that the two most uncertain things in life are elections and horse races. Mr. Roulin may have occasion to revise his confidential reports after the next election.

The Speaker's Outfit.
M. A. P. London.

It is among the things not generally known that on appointment to the chair a new speaker of the House of Commons receives an allowance of £1000 for outfit.

The ordinance is generously construed so as to become operative on re-election. In this respect Mr. Lowther is fortunate beyond some of his predecessors. Appointed to the chair in the closing months of the last session of what is known as the Khaki parliament, he was re-elected when the liberals came in with a rush.

The privilege does not extend to the Woolpack. For contra, phrase runs, for the lord of the manor has nearly double the speaker's allowance. It reaches the curiously precise sum of 4,183 13s.

Political Fence Repairing.
Ottawa Journal.

Mr. Borden evidently is as fully awake to the chance, slender as it is, that a general election may be sprung soon, as is Sir Wilfred Laurier, and hence while Sir Wilfred is repairing his western fences this summer, Mr. Borden will devote his time to strengthening his already excellently looked after Ontario palings. After all, they do not lose many points, these Canadian politicians.
