KINGSTON'S TRIBUTE

TO THE MEMORY OF THE LATE KING EDWARD.

A Remarkable Day of Mourning—The Military Ceremonial in the Evening—The Proclamation Read by Lieut.-Col. Hemming, D.O.C. Kingston paid a great tribute to the memory of the late King Edward VII., on Friday. Never before in its history was there such a day of mourning in the Limestone city for a ruler or a statesman.

Thousands of people witnessed the military ceremonies on the cricket field and in Macdonald Park in memory of the dead king. On the occasion of King Edward's birth there was great rejoicing in Kingston. When he wedded Alexandra, the beautiful daughter of the Danish king, in 1863, a great review was held in Macdonald park and LEUT.-COL. HEMMING, D.O.C. Who read the proclamation to the assembled troops.

There last evening the guns of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery thundered a far-rolled salute in honor of the dead sovereign. It was very fitting that the funeral day should be closed by military ceremonial and that after the dead king had been laid in the grave, the new king should be formally proclaimed in his subjects in the old city of Kingston.

After half past five o'clock, the various corps, permanent and volunteer, comprising the Kingston garrison, proceeded independently to the cricket field, where they were drawn up at six o'clock facing the court house, in a line that extended the full length of the large parade grounds. Only the slow muffled beat of drums was heard as the troops went forth. At the head of the line was the Royal Canadian Field Artillery under Lieut.-Col. Burrell. Next were the 14th Regiment, Princess of Wales Rifles, in command of Lieut.-Col. Cunningham; the Canadian and the Canadian Ordnance Corps, under Capt. Bell; Canadian Permanent Army Medical Corps, under Lieut.-Col. Huff; No. 3 Company Canadian Army Service Corps; No. 3 Canadian Field Ambulance, A.M.C., under Major Ross; and the Canadian Ordnance Corps, under Lieut.-Col. Strange. The troops were in command of Lieut.-Col. E. D. Hemming, D.O.C., Military District No. 3. Lieut.-Col. D.D. Young, D.A.A.G., was brigade-major.

Four guns of the R.C.H.A., under command of Major J. S. N. Leslie, were stationed in Macdonald park, west of Marney tower, and at 6.25 o'clock, the first of the sixty-eight minute guns was fired, the troops in the cricket field presenting arms. During the remainder of the firing, the troops were stationed with arms reversed. On the last gun, the order was again given to present arms. There was a south-east wind blowing over the harbor, and the firing could be heard all over the city. During the salute the Horse Artillery band, reinforced by a dozen drummers of the 14th Regiment, played Chopin's Funeral March and "The Dead March in Salem," with great effectiveness. The loud, mournful strains and the rolling of the drums being beautifully in keeping.

The Proclamation. DASHED JEG OF CREAM. In the Face of an Actor at Randolph Hotel. The dashing of a jug of cream in the face of an actor was what the guests at breakfast at the Randolph hotel, on Friday morning, witnessed. Dorothy Arville, the leading lady in "The Girl from Iroquois" company, did the heaving and Henry Paul, another member of the company, received the liquid dose. Whether Henry is the husband of Dorothy is not definitely known, but at any rate he kept his temper, and did not strike back. He just jumped and grasped Dorothy's arms, as she picked up a silver table jug, which she threatened to use on the poor actor's head. When Dorothy cooled down, Henry let her go, and he proceeded to his room to wipe the cream from his face, neck and shoulders. Then he returned to the dining-room and sat down at another table. The other guests thought there was going to be a pitched battle and were rising to throw themselves in between the actor people, but there was no need.

The two participants in the exciting incident were in bad humor when they arrived at the hotel on Thursday afternoon. They were together part of the afternoon, and had wordily battles. At midnight, Paul wanted to get into Miss Arville's room, but was refused admittance. He wanted a couple of books and coaxed the leading lady's negress maid to open the door, but she would not.

The noise became so great that the night clerk had to go upstairs and threaten to put the actor-man on the street if he did not go to his little bed. The breakfast table incident was the sequel. Paul sat down at the same table as Miss Arville, and the two spoke a few moments. Then something warm was evidently said, and then the cream came out of the jug. The Randolph hotel is where the leading theatrical people all stay, and it is only a few months ago since Nellie Daly of the "Kitty Grey" company, became warmed up and threw her outside window sash into the street, and next morning threatened to pull the wool off "Hank" O'Brien, the day clerk.

FRIGHTENED BY THE COMET. Kingston Lady Would Not Buy Any More Milk Tickets. The earth took a sweep through the comet's tail. According to records it has been doing this trick at stated periods for over four thousand years. However, a great many people have been worrying over it and many have been frightened by the comet. A story is now going the rounds about a lady living in Kingston, who had great fears about the comet, and it is claimed to be true in every respect. The good lady has been taking milk for years from a certain well-known milkman. It so happened that her supply of milk tickets gave out on Wednesday night—the night on which great things were expected to happen, and when the milkman asked her if she wished for more tickets she was surprised to hear her say that she would not require any more tickets. She told him that the comet was due to strike the earth that night and that there would be no need of her buying more tickets. "However," she added, "I will leave the money out for you and in the morning, if all is well, you can leave the milk for me as usual."

The milkman called the next morning, left the milk and has been calling every morning since, but as the lady has refused to take a stock of tickets believing that there is yet something to happen. She puts out the pitcher every morning with the three cents for her pint of milk.

The Woman's Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A. in Session. The annual meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A. was held on May 19th, Mrs. Wright, president, occupying the chair. After devotional exercises and singing the treasurer, Mrs. Meek, gave a report of the year's finances, which showed the auxiliary had raised $366.24 and had expended $338.94 leaving a balance of $27.25 in bank. Mrs. O. Chown, secretary, in her report, said the average attendance at the meetings had been 21; members enrolled 203, an increase of two over last year. With sorrow the organization recorded the removal by death of two members, Mrs. S. J. Kilpatrick and Mrs. G. Armstrong. It also missed the counsel of an esteemed president, Mrs. McCallum, laid aside for many months by illness. Refreshments for a number of large banquets, receptions and small teas were prepared and served by the auxiliary.

The membership fees, proceeds of banquets, etc. ten and nine, and Easter thank-offering were the sources of revenue. The money thus raised was used in paying the salary of the boys' secretary, Mr. Manhard, who did such excellent work; in considerable refurbishing to the building and in adding dishes, table-linen and cutlery to the kitchen supplied. Much of the success of the year's work was due to the energetic and unceasing efforts of the retiring president, Mrs. Wright. It was hoped she would retain her interest in the work. Mrs. Wright said a few words thanking the ladies for the efficient and ready service rendered her in the performance of her duties. Mrs. Harrison, convener of the nominating committee, then took the chair and named the following officers for 1916-1917: Hon. presidents—Mrs. McCallum and Mrs. Linton. President—Mrs. Oliver Chown. First vice-president—Mrs. John Wright. Second vice-president—Mrs. William Linton. Recording secretary—Mrs. Frederick Clark. Corresponding secretary—Mrs. William Gill. Treasurer—Mrs. I. G. Bogart. Convener of social committee—Mrs. R. H. Toye. Convener of membership committee—Mrs. J. Wright. Convener of buying committee—Mrs. G. Cliff. Convener of flower committee—Mrs. E. P. Jenkins. Convener of devotional committee—Mrs. T. F. Harrison. Convener of property committee—Mrs. B. Meek.

It was decided to hold a sale and tea in October and the following committees were appointed to look after it: Work table, Mrs. Bogart, Mrs. Warwick, Mrs. Wright and Mrs. Linton; home-made table, Mrs. Toye, Mrs. Cliff and Mrs. Macdonald. To Identify One Another. A neat little button, with a ribbon, has been turned out by the Veterans' Association of 1866 and 1870, and the Kingston members of the association are receiving them. The regular meeting of the Trades and Labor Council was held on Thursday evening. In the absence of the president, George Lewis, who was unable to be present, Joseph Sova occupied the chair.
