Likely Duke of Connaught Will Be Successor

OF THE EARL GREY

AS GOVERNOR-GENERAL OF THE DOMINION.

It is likely the appointment will be made and the change effected in the Spring of 1911—Obvious Difficulties That Will Have to be Overcome.

London, June 10.—There now every one is agreed that it is intended that the Duke of Connaught shall be the next governor-general of Canada, in accordance with King Edward's wish. It is not likely an official announcement will be made yet, however, for the Duke of Connaught will open the South African parliament at the end of the year. It is improbable he will go to Canada in midwinter, therefore he will remain in office till the spring of 1911. The Chronicle says there are obvious difficulties in the way of the duke's appointment, but there will be general satisfaction if the king and his ministers do not deem them insuperable.

AN INSANE WOMAN

Swallows a Handful of Sharp Pins and Dies.

South Norwalk, Conn., June 10.—Mrs. Frederic B. Malkin, daughter of Congressman Robert Pearson, is dead here after swallowing a handful of pins. Mrs. Malkin had been acting strangely for the past few days. Not until she was taken with spasms did it become known she had swallowed the pins.

She writhed in agony for six hours and the doctors were unable to relieve her suffering. After her death an autopsy was performed. While there was no doubt the pins caused her death the doctors were anxious to ascertain actual facts and data, as the case is a most unusual one.

HELD AS PRISONER

COACH IN FUNERAL PROCESSION PENNED IN.

And a Heavy Train Smashed Into it, Killing Three Persons and Fatally Injuring a Fourth.

Haverstraw, N.Y., June 10.—Rev. A. Homath, pastor of the New City Methodist Episcopal church, E. V. Seifred, New City; Mrs. Seifred, W. Boebel, Haverstraw, were killed and Mrs. P. Kester was fatally injured as the result of the carriage, in which they were, being run down by a heavy West Shore freight train here, yesterday afternoon. The accident happened at the foot of Graveyard Hill, in full sight of a returning funeral procession, of which the wrecked coach was the first, and of the terrified and helpless watchmen. The watchman was eating his lunch in his cabin, when the electric bell warned him of an approaching train. Mechanically, he pulled the lever that set the crossing gates in motion. Some eye-witnesses say the arms of the gates blocked the coach, after it had crossed the first two tracks and held it prisoner on the rails in the path of the on-running locomotive.

WHAT MAY HAPPEN.

Turkey May Shut Out All Greeks—Making Registration.

Constantinople, June 10.—A registration of all Greeks living in Turkey was begun to-day by the Turkish authorities, preparatory, it is said, to their expulsion. This action by the government is one of a long series of recent moves indicative of the increasing bitterness between Turkey and Greece, which, it is generally believed, will speedily end in war. The Cretan dispute, it is expected, will eventually be the pretext for war. The Greeks insist on having the island and the Turks will not give it up. It is admitted that the island is not worth much and that Turkey's control over it is merely nominal, but the surrender of even this slender claim would be fatal to the Young Turkish government's prestige with its own people.

MOWER TOUCHED WIRE

And the Man Cutting Grass Instantly Killed.

Locust Valley, L. I., June 10.—Patrick Drum, employed on the estate of Levi C. Weir, of this place, met instant death in a peculiar manner. He was mowing the lawn in front of his house when he came to a piece of wire hanging from a pole, but paid no attention to it. As the steel running gear of the mowing machine struck the wire in a spot where the insulation had been worn the man fell lifeless. It was discovered that what he ran over was a charged electric light wire which had been blown down in a storm.

EVERYTHING SETTLED.

Ottawa, Ont., June 10.—All boundary disputes are now settled between Canada and the United States. A tiny bit of an island called "Pope's Potty," and lying in Passamaquoddy Bay, close to the boundary of Maine, is now part of the United States, and on the other hand Canada is granted certain valuable fishing rights.

Remarkable Family.

Watertown, N.Y., June 10.—Fredrick Lawrence, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Lawrence of 930 West Main street has four living grandmothers. The husband's mother is Mrs. F. E. Lawson, New York, and her mother, Mrs. P. J. Griffin, Yonkers, and grandmother of the mother of the baby, Mrs. J. M. Smith of this city is grandmother of the baby on the mother's side, and Mrs. Abner Wilcox of this city, the great-grandmother of the baby.

Double Love Tragedy.

Chicago, June 10.—Unrequited love is believed to have prompted Frank L. Campbell to slay Miss Lena Hansen and kill himself at a lonely spot in the south-western part of the city. Miss Hansen was shot twice while on her way home after dark. Both bullets pierced her heart. Campbell with a photograph of the dead woman in his pocket was found early to-day shot to death about 500 feet from where Miss Hansen met death. Campbell was married and a father.

Deserters Returns Home

Comes to His Family Rich After Twenty Five Years Away.

San Antonio, Texas, June 10.—Charles E. Carter turned up in San Antonio the other day, after a mysterious absence of twenty-five years, and, hunting up an old friend "Jack" McCarthy, made inquiries concerning Mrs. Carter and three children whom he deserted at the time of his disappearance. McCarthy's reply was that Mrs. Carter and two of the children were living in Toronto, Canada, and the other, a child, was married to a wealthy mining man named Horace McMillen, and was living in Chicago. The deserted wife of Carter coming to believe herself a widow, had remarried several years ago, her second husband being T. T. Graves, a retired business man of Toronto. Graves died a year or two ago.

Carter left for Chicago to hunt up his married daughter, with the intention of then proceeding to Toronto in the hope of making proper amends to his wife and the other two children for his long absence.

While Carter showed bank deposit certificates and other documentary evidence that he is a wealthy man. He is said to have estimated his wealth at more than $1,000,000. Most of it is mining investments in Alaska and the far North-West.

The story that he told McCarthy and other old-time friends is a strange one. He was in the employ of a railroad company out of night a quarter of a century ago. He says he was out with a few boon companions on Christmas eve of that fateful day when he decided to quit the crowd and go home.

SUES EX-OFFICERS.

Charges It Has Been Defrauded of $2,000,000.

Chicago, June 10.—Charging that it has been defrauded of about $2,000,000 on repair work in four years, the Illinois Central Railroad company has filed suit in the circuit court for an accounting against four of its former officers. The bill, which alleges conspiracy to defraud, names the following men:

Orlando S. Kieth, former superintendent of transportation.

Joseph E. Baker, former assistant superintendent of machinery.

William Benbow, former superintendent of machinery.

John M. Taylor, former general storekeeper.

The bill against the four former department heads alleges that the men entered into a conspiracy in June, 1906, and that, from that date until April 1910, the railroad company was defrauded out of nearly $2,000,000. The defendants are alleged to have presented to the corporation that the company's repair work could be done more cheaply by independent concerns than at the railroad's own shops. When contracts were given to certain independent concerns, the bill charges, the railroad company began paying a long series of large over-charges, from which certain superintendents are declared to have obtained thousands of dollars.

TO ISSUE DECREE.

Madrid, June 10.—The Spanish government announces an impending decree abolishing the article of the constitution which forbids non-Catholic worshiping publicly in Spain. Late Goldwin Smith Lent Cash For Homes

HE HAD RELIGION

WANTED TO SHOW THAT HE WAS NOT WITHOUT IT.

Went to Hear Ingersoll—Speaks as a Learner, Not as a Teacher—Wanted Simply to Know the Truth.

New York, June 10.—The Sun says: "I heard Ingersoll," wrote Goldwin Smith in a personal letter to the editor of this newspaper. "He was extremely clever, but he did little good, and has left little trace."

Again, in sending one of the last of the remarkable series of personal letters to the Sun in which he discussed during a period of several years the greatest problems that concern the human mind, the destiny of man, the changing standards of religious faith, the immortality of the soul, Goldwin Smith said of the particular article:

"I believe nothing will be found—in it impious by any man who does not hold—as no man of science, I suppose, do, and even Gladstone did not—by the inspiration and infallibility of Genesis. My special object, in fact, was rather to show before I went out of the world that I was not without religion."

"I feel that my state is still doubtful, and I do not wish to go out of the world as a reputed enemy of religion. This leads me to address to you one more letter—not a very long one, and to feel that its appearance as early as it would be convenient to you is on my own account to be desired."

This last letter was written after the accident to Mr. Smith. There is surely no impropriety now in our publishing these private explanations of his attitude toward the subjects he was discussing and the audience he was addressing.

They show the urgency of Goldwin Smith's desire to be understood by no man as regards the character of his quest.

This is the last paragraph of the article referred to in the foregoing passage urging prompt publication:

"Morality, by which man must live if he is a social being and society is to hold together, may well be taken to be the rock of his life, and thus, in fact, identified with pure and rational religion. If the author of man's nature is God, morality is the worship of God. Nor does this seem to exclude a truly religious frame of mind or even fraternity in spirit unions. Credo Quia impossibile est is surely, when scrutinized, not an expression of rational piety, of piety likely to present a firm foundation for character, or, perhaps, to be very acceptable to the God of Truth. If this seems presumptuous, let me say once more that I speak as a learner, not as a teacher, and that a man in extreme old age has little time left in which to learn."

"No purpose but truth," is the only phrase that describes justly the animus of the departed intellect, so honest, so crystal clear, so reverent, so discerning, so gentle and humane.

The estate of the late Goldwin Smith is said to amount to approximately $1,000,000. It is understood that generous provision is made in the will for the old servants of the Grange, some of whom have served for over thirty years.

The eldest of these is the butler, William Chin, who has lived in the house for fifty-two years.

Although not generally known, Goldwin Smith lived generously and gave still more generously. He shaped out a policy of investing his money in the way of helping people in moderate circumstances to buy homes of their own. As a matter of principle, he many times lent people up to within $50 of the purchase price of the homes they were buying at extremely low rates of interest, and it is a matter of interest to know that he never lost a dollar through this generous philanthropy.

The body will lie in state in the drawing room at the Grange this afternoon, when the general public will be permitted to see the remains. All details for the funeral on Saturday have been completed. The service at Convocation Hall will be conducted by Revs. R. J. Moore and Harris Walden. A brief address will also be given by Prof. Falconer, of Toronto University.

Massey Estate Makes Proposition—Generous Offer.

Toronto, June 10.—Stating that the Massey estate purported spending $100,000 or more in the establishment of a clubhouse and athletic grounds for their employees and wished to remove temptation to indulge in intoxicating liquor, Thomas Findlay, assistant manager of the Massey-Harris company appeared before the board of license commissioners, with a proposition for the removal of the Palace hotel, King and Strachan streets, immediately in front of the Massey-Harris plant, to some other locality. Mr. Findlay said they had no fault to find with the conduct of the hotel, but if a plan could be devised for its removal from that district they were prepared to compensate the license holder to the extent of $5,000, and also buy the property at its assessed value.

There was already an application before the board for a transfer of the license from Mrs. Mary White to Mrs. Leonard, proprietor of the Princess hotel. The transfer was granted with the assurance that the commissioners would do all possible to facilitate the matter as requested by the Massey estate.

Quality Circulation

Yesterday we spoke of the QUANTITY of our Circulation. We showed this in plain figures, and backed it up by a sworn affidavit.

Today we want to impress the value of QUALITY in the Whig's circulation. The reputation and standing of a newspaper like the Whig greatly enhances the value of its advertising columns. By honest value, fair dealing and loyalty to city and country, the Whig has built up a splendid circulation. No catch-penny schemes, no cheap premiums, no come-on-in-the-water's-fine offers have helped to boost this circulation. It has grown steadily, surely and solely on the merits of the publication. This is the service that means something to an advertiser.
