

NERVOUS HEADACHE AND MUSCULAR RHEUMATISM DISAPPEARED WHEN THE NERVES WERE RESTORED BY

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Feeble, wasted, starved nerves often make their condition known by nervous headaches. This is one of the first and most marked symptoms. If you are all subject to rheumatism you have noticed how much worse it gets when the system gets run down.

Both nervous headache and muscular rheumatism disappear when Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is used to rebuild and revitalize the wasted and weakened body.

Mr. James Riley, moulder for the Waterloo Engine Co., 46 Jarvis St., Brantford, Ont., writes: "I suffered for years with muscular rheumatism and as I also had frequent and severe attacks of nervous headache, I concluded that the trouble came from the nerves and began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. As I continued this treatment the rheumatism was gradually driven out of the system, my nerves got stronger and steadier and the headaches disappeared. I consider Dr. Chase's Nerve Food a splendid nerve regulator and health builder."

You cannot possibly make a mistake in using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food when the nervous system gets run down, for by forming new rich blood this great food cure builds up the nerve cells as nothing else can. When you have made up your mind to test this treatment go at it in earnest and keep at it regularly until you feel again the joy of health and vigor.

GENUINE COAL DIAMONDS

Just as some sorts of wood are better fuel than others so certain varieties of coal burn more slowly yet give out more heat than others. Our cry is always "good coal" because it's our stock-in-trade. It's possible to get this highest grade coal elsewhere, but you're SURE to get it here. It's the only kind we sell. We charge no more for it. We get it from the mines by being cranky—knowing it when we see it, and insisting on getting it. YOU won't have to insist to get it.

A postal or telephone brings you coal that cannot be surpassed.

PUTTING IN PROTESTS.
Smith's Falls is moving in the Rideau canal matter, and proposes to send a deputation from its council to Ottawa to protest as vigorously as possible against the appropriation of the said canal, so far as the capital end of it is concerned, by the C.P.R. company.

It is proposed that this deputation be strengthened by the presence of representative men from every council and board of trade at every business centre all along the line. The hearing will be before the railway commission, the tribunal that reflects public sentiment and protects public interests as no other institution has done.

The argument, that the company, if given its way, will spend a million dollars in improvements in Ottawa, may have an influence upon the controllers—it appears to have made them sing exceedingly small—but bribes of that kind will not affect the railway commission and especially its chairman.

This remark may provoke another sneer in Ottawa, since one of the papers has been pleased to remark that Kingston is more disturbed about the canal, and its use at Ottawa, than the capital city. Which may be true, and reflect upon the critic and the influence of his paper rather than upon the efforts of the Kingston people to keep open a necessary channel of communication for general traffic.

INFLUENCE OF THE CHURCH.

The Bishop of Ontario has, in his address to the synod, now in session, discussed a large number of subjects. It may be asked whether the clergy and laity are interested in the matters which came under his lordship's notice, outside of the diocese, and in the course of his travels abroad? There is no doubt of it. Conditions in one part of the world affect conditions in another part, and the church and its institutions are deeply concerned in all that affects the masses and their welfare.

It may be that there will be some who will not accept as final or satisfactory the declarations of Bishop Mills on certain things. His theory of the land question in England, and its relation to poverty and the degeneracy of "flum life," may not be the general theory, but he is expressing the mind of those who have made a study of the subject and speak with equal emphasis. The Asquith government, for revenue purposes, has levied a tax on land which has hitherto either escaped its due share of this burden, and it has amended the land laws so as to make the soil if possible contribute to the support of the people.

Some day there will be further invasions upon the preserves of the landed gentry—some day peasant ownership may displace the landlordism that now prevails—and the social condition of the masses be very much improved. Out of the congestion of cities and towns into the freedom and pure air of the country, with all that this change involves, may produce a new order of things, one making for the happiness, the health, and the contentment of the people. Similarly some day there will be a better understanding between capital and labour, and the church, by judicious guidance, may help to bring this to pass.

The office of the bishop and the priest and Christian layman is to secure, by precept and example, the better experience among the people. It cannot be done by any plan of seclusion or isolation. It is the result of life upon life, not on Sunday or on day, but every day and in every walk and vocation.

PICKING THE PEOPLE.

The immigration department of Canada has adopted every reasonable effort to secure desirable settlers for its unoccupied land. The plan is to get to soil in use, and from the soil to add to the wealth of the country. For this purpose some of the more successful farmers after a few years' residence in the newer provinces, were induced to visit the old land and write their experiences. These were effective.

It might be inferred, however, that these were cleverly enthusiastic, because most unusually successful, and so the English people followed an independent course of verifying current reports. They had three women, from personal observation, give in newspaper articles and pamphlets, their ideas of Canada. Mrs. Humphrey Ward, the author, was one, but her work is regarded as somewhat academic. Miss Binnie-Clark is another. She is one of two sisters who came to Canada under unpromising circumstances and made her mark. There was no aspect of farm life which baffled her. She did what she could herself, and she supervised the rest and made good as a woman farmer.

A third visitor of note was Mrs. George Cran, a woman of practical turn of mind, and one who saw at a glance, as she passed through it, just what the country needed. It is her conclusion, very candidly stated, that the woman who wants town life, and its joys and comforts, had better stay at home. She sees openings only for those who propose to become housewives, who know something about horticulture, poultry raising and market producing. It will not do to avoid occasionally "roughing." It cannot be avoided. For women of the right kind Canada offers a great field of usefulness, and it is becoming more and more attractive to them. Indeed there are schools in England where the women are being trained in outdoor work in order the more surely to qualify them for service in the Canadian North-West.

The point is that the method of education, in connection with the immigration department, is the very best. To be sure, the wrong kind of people will be found among the arrivals, but it is not the fault of the department which has taken so many pains to spread abroad information with regard to the country, and the kind of service which it invites.

POLITICS IN THE COUNCIL.

Mayor Gaynor, of New York, has been in office six months. He was a compromise candidate. Nominated by an independent committee he was accepted by Tammany Hall, and, as soon as elected, commenced a rule that has meant economy and efficiency in the civic administration and death to the machine.

Some of the accomplishments are astonishing. He put an end to the padded pay roll and the saving is $125,000 a month. The end of the awful waste in the several departments represents a saving of $1,000,000 a month. Every useless official was dispensed with, and the working time was extended an hour each day. Everybody works.

The old aqueduct commission, as a political concern, was abolished, and its work transferred to the water department. Result, a saving of $500,000 a year. The condemnation commission, another political organization, passed in its checks, at the mayor's demand, and $1,000,000 has been kept from the spoilsman in half a year.

The tax board, with the mayor as the head of it, was revived, and the result will be an addition of many millions next year and a large increase in revenue. The police grafting scheme, by which vice and intemperance thrived under police supervision, and the politicians made rich, went out of existence, dying painfully, and $1,000,000 remains in the pockets of the people. The liquor men cannot buy the right to dodge the law at any price.

In the water department, with its 4,000 employees, there were various leakages, and they have been stopped. This means a saving, in honest buying and honest contracts, of about $3,000,000 in six months. In the fire department there will be civil service rules in appointments and honesty in giving of contracts, and hundreds of thousands of dollars will be saved. The army of peace or idle men has been disbanded. The head of the department is on the job all the while, and every man under him is busy.

The work of six months. The result of a non-political performance of a public duty. It is a great object lesson, and it can be laid to heart by every city in which the little men who want to handle the patronage are howling for the machine. A non-political administration means an economical and correct administration and one does not understand why anything else should be wanted by the taxpayers. They have to bleed in any case.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The agreement of the board of education with the School of Pedagogy this year should be a perfect document. It has been revised and approved several times.

The papers of Montreal are anxious that the criminal responsibility for the Herald accident should be put upon some one. The thing is to locate this responsibility beyond a doubt.

A police officer in Montreal, who was an active spirit in the last civic election, has been dismissed—as an object lesson. It is one which can be learned by public officials outside of Montreal.

The U. S. court (at Chicago), has upheld the Interstate Commerce Commission in regard to the Pullman car rates. Which means that the monopoly of a prodigiously wealthy corporation is at an end.

Hon. Mr. Hanna, one of the provincial secret for Mr. Borden in his Ontario tour, is content with drawing a pretty picture of what the leader will be in the history of the country, especially when he becomes the premier. This looks like a far distant contingency with conservatism as it is just now.

The Society for the Protection of Animals had better take a recess while the vagrant cats that are killing the chickens and birds about the city are being exterminated. Their destruction was never so great as at present.

There are some people who dently love a gamble at anything. A few of them took a hand in the horse race, yesterday, and are once more pondering upon what a great statesman said about the uncertainties of such things.

Mr. Bourassa is desirous of returning to the commons. He went to the Quebec legislature, to stimulate it with his nationalist ideas, and it would not be reformed. His methods usually are not of the persuasive kind.

The Belleville city council has refused the high school accommodation that is demanded. Does the department threaten to withdraw the annual grant? Or is any old thing good enough for high school purposes in Belleville?

Good Abe Lincoln used to counsel against the danger of swapping horses while crossing the stream. Some men in Kingston, who were financially interested in yesterday's event, are today protesting that it is dangerous to change drivers while contesting a race.

La Patrie says the architects and builders should know what certain structures which they erect will stand. To be sure. But building nowadays calls for technical knowledge that is only acquired in the technical schools. The artisan of the future who is equal to any service will be in a special class.

The Montreal Herald is again on its feet, and its issue, of Wednesday, bears all the old ear marks of the publication. In the midst of their intense sorrow it is worthy of commendation and congratulation that the staffs have shown such spirit and enterprise. The awful catastrophe has awakened universal sympathy. Out of it all may the Herald grow more and more tender and helpful; may all journalists realize the brotherliness of mankind and may sunshine and sweetness be their mission to all homes.

Minneapolis is praising the forethought of those who drew the franchise of the company supplying the city with gas, granted forty years ago, which contained the condition that the municipality might buy the plant at an appraised valuation in 1910. The city did not desire to exercise this right, but it threatened to do so unless the company materially reduced the price of gas. The outcome of the negotiation that followed is that the price to private consumers has been reduced to 85c, and to the city, for street lighting and other public purposes, to 65c. Nor is this all. It is provided that the price shall be subject to regulation every five years, and the city is given a new option for the purchase of the plant at the end of twenty years.

Slinn company, limited, and the G. W. Shouldis, limited. Capt. Baldwin fell, with his aeroplane, seventy-five feet while he was practising on Wednesday at Mineola L.I., but though his machine was badly smashed, he was not injured. Baldwin had just started and was making a turn, when he either lost control of his engine or shut off the power too soon.

It is stated that John Kay & Co. and the W. A. Murray company, Toronto, are to amalgamate, form a new company with a capital of about $3,000,000, and erect new premises on Yonge street that will cost at least $1,000,000, both moving to the new store, W. Parker Murray, it is understood, it to be head of the new company.

Melba's Exquisite Voice.

The Star, May 31st.
Covent Garden was crowded in every corner, last night, when Mme. Melba made her appearance after an absence of two years. Her position is indeed unique, and it is the more remarkable when we reflect that she is by some years the senior member of the company, and that last season was the only one she has missed since her debut. Her voice is still as pure and fresh as ever it was. She sang the part of Mimi in "La Boheme," which is a favorite with her, and by the time the third act was reached she had thrown off all signs of anxiety, and sang as beautifully as ever, and with the exquisite finish which has made her famous. She was more impulsive in her acting than her wont and made the scene very touching. At the fall of the curtain there were endless recalls, and finally she came before the curtain many times alone.

A Word of Warning.

Montreal Witness.
Other dangers threaten hundreds of our citizens every day in the picture shows and theatres, many of which are nothing but fire-traps, and are made worse by overcrowding. Occasionally, the authorities make a pretence of ameliorating these conditions, but nothing that can be called thorough is accomplished, and the most of them continue to be bad at their best, and radical measures are necessary to render them safe. Such as have to wait for another fire, the fire-traps, the least before we make our places of entertainment reasonably safe? Can many of our other buildings be called safe, and are the building by-laws reasonably enforced?

Wants a Bigger Life.

Montreal Gazette.
Mr. Bourassa is reported to be thinking of going back to Ottawa and seeking a seat in parliament at the next election. The report sounds like one that may well be true. A strong swimmer may enjoy himself in narrow waters. He must at times, though, long for the buffeting and the triumph that can only be had where the tide runs swift and deep.

Hotel Courtesy.

One hotel in New York extends an unusual courtesy—if it be a courtesy—to its guests. Over the desk where most of the business of the hotel is done hangs a sign which says: "The clerk now on duty is Mr. Smith," or Mr. Jones, as the case may be. Whether the sign is intended to save the feelings of guests or clerks isn't quite plain. It saves the clerks from being addressed as "Hey, you," and the guests from having to say, "Oh, Mr. Eh-h—"

Newsboy Gets $1,000.

"Jimmy" McKissick, a poor newsboy of Pittsburg, received $1,000 today in exchange for an old silver watch. The time piece belonged to B. F. Derholt, a wealthy distiller. He lost it yesterday afternoon and the newsboy found it. As the old watch was a family heirloom, Derholt declared he would give $1,000 for its return. He kept his word. The watch has a trivial value intrinsically.
