

CURED OF CONSTIPATION

Mr. Andrews professes Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills. Mr. George Andrews of Halifax, N.S., writes: "For many years I have been troubled with chronic constipation. This ailment never comes off-handed, and I have been a victim to the many illnesses that constipation brings in its train. Medicine after medicine I have taken in order to find relief, but one and all left me in the same hopeless condition. It seemed that nothing would expel from me the one ailment that caused so much trouble, yet at last I read about these Indian Root Pills. That was indeed a lucky day for me, for I was so impressed with the statements made that I determined to give them a fair trial. They have regulated my stomach and bowels. I am cured of constipation, and I claim they have no equal as a medicine. For over half a century Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills have been curing constipation and clogged, inactive kidneys, with all the ailments which result from them. They cleanse the whole system and purify the blood. Sold everywhere at 25c. a box."

GENUINE COAL DIAMONDS

Just as some sorts of wood are better fuel than others so certain varieties of coal burn more slowly and give out more heat than others. Our coal is always "good coal" because it's our stock-in-trade. It's possible to get this highest grade coal elsewhere, but you're sure to get it here. It's the only kind we sell. We charge no more for it. We get it from the mines by using cranes—knowing it when we see it, and insisting on getting it. You won't have to insist to get it. A postal or telephone brings you coal that cannot be surpassed.

MR. DOHERTY, 'THE PURIST'. Ex-Judge Doherty, of Montreal, is being introduced in Ontario by Mr. Borden, not as the Quebec leader of the party—for Mr. Monk has not yet been formally deposed—but as a typical representative of the Quebec people. The ex-judge, too, poses as a purist, as one who is anxious for sweetness in public life. Unfortunately he is not in favour of the house cleaning in his own party which was supposed to have set in some time ago.

Two or three papers, it will be remembered, demanded that certain alleged leaders should go at once, as they were barring the way to Mr. Borden's success. They resemble the little chap in Pinafore who is always going, going, but never goes. The great Foster was one of the men referred to by the critics. He needed fumigation, metaphorically speaking, and should receive it in some registered place.

But Mr. Foster does not realize his unfortunate position and will not sink out of sight for any one. It may be that he will think seriously upon the situation, now that it has transpired that Goldwin Smith regarded him as an "impossible," but what would parliament do without him, and what would he do without parliament? Mr. Doherty would appear to be less personal if he said less about the ideals he desired in political life until at least there is some honest attempt to adopt them in his own party. Then, and only then, will it be in order to reflect upon his opponents.

THE SCHOOL OF PEDAGOGY.

The Board of Education and the Faculty of Education have entered into an agreement with regard to the use of the schools, for observation and practice purposes, and the Superintendent of Education has given it his approval. There are some who do not appreciate the relations between the School of Education and the high and public schools. They associate certain failures of pupils in the examination tests with the work of the school of education, and they have no more right to do this than to connect any failures in the public school classes with the presence and work of the Model school.

The student-graduates visit the schools under a plan which guarantees no overcrowding and inconvenience. They do not affect any class work while they are observing the work of the regular teachers. They see different ones using different methods, and they have ample opportunity to realize which are the most effective. No class can be injured by the proceedings that are similar to the proceedings which are followed in all the educational centres where there are Normal schools and their students are under training.

In the practice teaching there is the possibility of some loss, educationally speaking. The lessons are only taught, after careful preparation, and they are supervised by the regular teacher. The class does not feel generally that the practice lessons are hurtful. The lectures or talks by the heads of the departments are given wholly out of school hours. These impose some tasks upon the teachers which are onerous enough, but there is the reward from the School of Pedagogy in the payment of supplementary salaries, which, added to the scheduled salaries, should secure competent and efficient teachers.

There is a phase of the question which cannot be overlooked—the decided gain the school of education must be to Queen's University. Her students want the favour of continuing and completing their education here, and their presence and the school mean an expenditure in the city annually of about $30,000. Here is a direct advantage to Kingston, and is far outweighs any disadvantage which may be felt.

THE TYRANT IN COURT.

The average man who read of the New York incident, concerning the white slave traffic, in the criminal court, will sit up and meditate. Mr. Rockefeller, jr., was foreman of the grand jury, and in the pursuit of what seemed to be his duty, conducted an enquiry of a far-reaching character.

Two splendid women were found who volunteered for the work which must be done. Going west, they entered the hall world, and after some months that must have been unspeakably horrible for refined and cultured women, they won the confidence of the dive keepers in the Western States and in Alaska. From these they learned its "closely guarded secrets." Several places were uncovered in New York, and other large American cities in which women were bought and sold as slaves. These women actually purchased five girls to make their evidence complete.

And when Mr. Rockefeller was ready to report to the presiding judge, or consult him with regard to some phase of the work, he was stopped. The judge would not hear him. He had proceeded in some irregular way. He had not confined himself to the matters referred to by the judge in the opening charge, or he had broken away from the routine prescribed by the usual red tape. Just where he had lost his connection he did not realize. He only knew that he had been waived aside and been given to understand that when his mightiness on the bench was inclined he would listen and even then on sufferance.

The question became one, not of what the traffic meant and how it might be checked, but what it was to offend a fussy little judge and how he could be placated. The man on the bench does not figure very high in the estimation of the individual who wants to see morality rather than pride prosper in the land. The judge knew what Mr. Rockefeller was doing. He knew that important discoveries had been made. He was supposed to be concerned about the suppression of crimes. He could have sent for the foreman of the grand jury at that time and consulted with him, putting him right when he was going wrong. He could have done many things to elevate himself in the favour of the people. He advertised himself, however, as a judicial tyrant, and he is welcome to all the glory he can get out of his performance.

A QUESTION OF FAITH.

It is remarkable how thoughtful some people have become with regard to water towers and their safety. In Montreal and Ottawa the building inspectors will make a special examination of all the towers now standing and determine, if they can, whether these are a menace to life and property. The service may seem more easily of accomplishment than the circumstances will permit, for it is not everyone, though skilled as a mathematician, who can figure the problem to his satisfaction.

The Quebec bridge company undertook the construction of a work which was to be one of the world's wonders. It was to be a unique affair, and it challenged attention as beyond the last abutment it projected over the river for hundreds of feet. Men had calculated the strength of each part and proceeded under the unfortunate delusion that all would come out right. Alas! when no one expected it there was a crash and the great structure went down to wreck and ruin. The engineers were not conscious of certain flaws and they realized, too late, just what they meant.

In Montreal the owners of the Herald had resorted to every expedient in order to assure themselves that in erecting the water tower that collapsed they had omitted nothing that guaranteed security. A committee of experts may now, as in the Quebec bridge case, detect the cause of the accident, and with this knowledge men may proceed the more cautiously in erecting water towers hereafter. But the chances are that as soon as the alarm occasioned by this last horror in Montreal passes away, the public's attitude will become one of indifference.

The Chicago theatre fire, in which so many persons lost their lives, startled the world, and everywhere there was a searching examination of the theatres. There would be no more casualties of this kind if prudence and forethought could prevent them. The fire escapes and exits would have to be ample in every case. How many reforms actually occurred? How is it in Kingston? In Quebec the great bridge is being again erected, under the direction of some of the greatest engineers. There is to be no misadventure this time, no point however insignificant, overlooked. Yet there must be faith in men and material. These must be trusted.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Mr. Borden is again reading the signs of the times and predicting the party's success. He ought to have been in palmistry, not politics.

The Jeffries-Johnson party are in quarrelsome mood because the great fight cannot come off on Independence Day. It is surprising that one of them does not propose to knock out the governor of the state.

The prize fight cannot take place in California, and the men who had a melon of $150,000 to cut and divide are sparring for wind. The morality spasm is occasionally severe enough.

Ex-Judge Doherty, whom Mr. Borden is commending to the people of Ontario, is the Quebec member who visited Dr. Edwards' attack upon the French. He is the Borden cure for the popular species of rabies from which some of the conservatives in Ontario are suffering.

There is a commotion because Premier Laurier passes through Manitoba, on his western tour, when the local sections are in progress. So much the better. Sir Wilfrid will be able to let a little light into the broad, dry question which is, as usual, Borden's best card.

ALL WORKING HARD

AT THE MILITARY CAMP AT BARRIEFIELD.

The Lines are Models of Cleanliness—The Tattoo Will Likely Take Place Next Wednesday Evening.

Camp was a busy place, on Thursday afternoon, and it was hot, too, as Old Sol was not at all stingy with his rays. The regiments were all out for drill, drilling in half company, company and sections, and a great improvement was noticed over the day previous in many quarters. Just about five o'clock, the regiments all formed up for the march past before Col. Hughes, and after walking around once, went around again, and did it in fine order. General French will have a good looking body of men go by him on Saturday morning, when he comes to inspect camp.

The ranges are in use from early morning and the efficiency pay is going to suffer this year as there are some fine shots in the regiments, and all are getting a chance. Every one has to shoot, from all brigades and all ranks, and a certain number of points have to be scored or some of the pay is docked. A thing about camp that many have noticed this year is that it is kept exceptionally clean, in all parts. Every bit of refuse is burned, in the incinerators stationed around the camp.

The army medical corps has so far had no serious cases to attend to, a few being in hospital with minor ailments, and this year fortunately there has been no accident of any account. Of course a few have fallen off their horses, not many of course, because this year only the officers are mounted, but one or two have managed to have the road come up and meet them half way, and it is also rumored that a few others, who have attended some of the commandant's long rides, are eating off a mangle-plate.

The army service corps boys can feel proud of themselves as not one complaint has been made about anything made or handed out by the corps. The bread is fine, the best in years, and everything else accordingly. Captain A. Bell has a fine corps.

The signalling is always most interesting for visitors to the camp, who always crowd around and watch the boys with the flags go through their stunts.

An "At Home" will be held at camp on Monday night, and it is altogether likely that the tattoo will be held on Wednesday night next. J. A. Kneale, District provincial officer in charge of the Y.M.C.A. tent, is greatly pleased with the way things are going. He has an able corps of assistants, Percy Gifford, Trenton, looking after the athletic end, and R. Summers, Hamilton, taking care of the musical end. Services are held in the tent every evening, and are exceptionally well attended. On Sunday service will also be held, the chaplains of the different regiments in camp taking charge in turn.

The boys are anxiously awaiting the day for the sports, when they can all show what is in them. A fine long programme will be arranged embracing all the boys' sports, and besides the $100 donated by the city council, more prizes will likely be put up by the officers themselves and so need be given by each regiment. There will also be some exciting baseball games before camp closes, nearly every regiment having a nine out, every team practicing faithfully every day. For duty to-day the 6th brigade; next for duty the 7th brigade.

The medical officer to-day, for the 6th and 7th brigades, was Captain M. Currie, 16th regiment, with Lieut. Wilson, 47th regiment, next for duty. The medical officer for the 5th brigade was Major J. P. Maloney, 69th regiment, with Captain B. G. Connolly, next for duty.

The men received the pleasant news on Thursday, that owing to an accident there would be no straw hats available for the men this year.

The orders of Thursday contained the information that Bandmaster Roemick, (W.D.) 45th regiment, was detailed as divisional bandmaster during camp.

Sergeant-Major Instructor James R. McGowan (W.O.) will inspect the signallers in camp on the 20th and 21st inst. General Sir John French and his staff will arrive in the city at midnight, to-night, and on Saturday morning will inspect Barriefield camp. Col. Sam Hughes, camp commandant, has mapped out extensive field manoeuvres, which will prove very interesting to all. The three brigades are supposed to have arrived in Kingston from the west, and driven a supposed enemy from the city, over to Barriefield Heights, where it is making a last stand. The attacking forces will move from the lower commons up over the heights in pursuit of the enemy and drive it away down the Gananoque road. Every detail has been carefully arranged, and will be carefully carried out.

General French will remain at camp all morning, leaving for the east on the one o'clock train. The field day at camp will be on Tuesday, when a fine programme of sports will be carried out, and on Wednesday evening there will be the tattoo, weather permitting.

WANTED HIM BACK.

Clara Says She Will Soon Marry Again.

Paris, June 17.—Mme. Riccardi, formerly Princess de Chimay, and later Mme. Rigo, who was born Ward and christened Clara, in Canada, in an interview with a representative of the Matin said that, although her latest husband has disappeared, she has no ill-feeling against him. She had written him letters, begging him to return to her, but she had received no answer. She added that she would marry again. The interviewer remarks that Mme. Riccardi's famous golden hair has been dyed black.

Clean and Dirty Dirt.

Do you know how to distinguish between clean and dirty dirt? There is such a thing as clean dirt—dirt that won't hurt you, even though you have it about you in larger quantities than your natural inclination would prompt.

"Such things as mud and soil, coal dust and ashes, paint or varnish, are almost as harmless as the clothes we wear," says Dr. R. G. Eccles in an article on "Dirty Hands," appearing in a scientific journal. Dirt is really dirt according to this authority only when it is unhygienic, that is, when it contains the germs of disease. As a horrible example of the havoc which can be wrought by unclean hands, which handle food and cooking utensils, the article in question relates the case of "Typhoid Mary," whose career as a cook was traced from family to family, where she had left behind her a trail of disease and death. Rather a gross waste, to be sure, and one not calculated to add to the peace of mind of the poor housewife who finds it beyond the limits of human possibility to be ever at the elbow of her cook to witness personally that she has cleaned her hands before putting them into the bread dough or handling vegetables. It seems that the cook in question, because of certain slovenly personal habits, was a typhoid carrier, for in home after home where she worked the disease broke out, in many cases, resulting in death.

"How many Typhoid Marys" there happen to be among the servants of those who read this article," writes the scientist, "it would be impossible to guess, but this much can be said, that a careful watch of their habits by the mistress of the house, will soon tell whether they wash their polluted hands in the dish water or the wash basin." And this is not a pretty thought, perhaps, but one which it behooves every housekeeper who has the welfare of her family at heart to give some attention to.

Busy Building.

Cashendall, June 15.—A great number of our young men have gone to camp at Petawawa. R. Henderson, carpenter, is getting along rapidly in the construction of John Hyland's new house. Rev. Mr. McAndrew and wife have taken up house keeping in the rectory. The many friends of Thomas Connell regret to hear of his serious illness; under Dr. Gardner's care we all hope for his recovery soon. Rev. Mr. McConnell is attending conference at Brockville. James Gordon has gone to Toronto on a business trip. Recent visitors: Mrs. P. Shortland and little daughter, Front Road, at A. Martin's; Mrs. Carley and family, St. Paul, at A. Germain's; Mr. and Mrs. W. Curtis, Wilketohme, at J. Hyland's; Miss Wilkinson, Napanee, at Mrs. Ward's; Miss M. Whitney, Portmouth, at W. Hyland's; Miss Shannon, Sumner, at Mrs. J. Gordon's; Mr. and Mrs. C. Thompson, Wilketohme, at Mrs. W. Hyland's, sr.

Some Paper Surpluses.

Toronto Star. Of seventy-one municipally owned waterworks plants, reporting their year's operations, twenty-three have a deficit, but the total of these deficits is less than $52,000, as compared with a gross surplus of $369,000 piled up by the others. Forty-eight municipal electric light plants report a surplus. The deficits of the thirteen others reporting aggregate less than $7,500. Of half a dozen civic gas plants, two report deficits totalling a little over $1,200. The other four have a surplus of $31,000. Privately owned plants, with all their record of inferior service, could hardly make a better showing.

Latest in Aviation.

Toronto World. The latest is a biplane flight by Lieut. J. W. Dunne, who passed over Sheppey, England, without making any effort to maintain its equilibrium, this being automatically effected. Man's dominion over the air may therefore truly be said to have come. The modern aviator starts for his distant goal and reaches it with the same certainty reached by the navigators of an ocean greyhound. This is an epoch making fact, and the first great contribution of the twentieth century to the onward march of man's supremacy over the forces of nature.
