GRAHAME WHITE, AVIATOR.

Rejected the Army to Become a Pioneer in Motoring.

Mr. Grahame White strikes one as a typical flying man. Young (he is only just thirty), tall, and lithe, he looks as hard as nails, and gives the impression of being practically without nerves.

He was originally intended for the army, but his taste lay in the direction of engineering, and he followed his inclination. His love of sport is inherited, his father being a famous yachtsman.

From motoring to aviation was but a natural step. His early experience with motors was, of course, of considerable service to him in his flying experiments, but his connection with aviation is quite recent.

A lucky attempt was made recently by Mr. White to win the prize of $50,000, and at first his success seemed assured.

He was compelled by adverse weather and engine trouble to wait, at Lichfield, with sixty-nine miles still to be traveled, until too late to comply with the conditions under which the prize is offered.

Mr. White started on his great journey soon after five in the morning from Park Royal, his mother and sister being present to wish him good luck.

The machine rose easily and gracefully, the engine worked beautifully, and everything thus early promised well for the daring young aviator's trip.

Flying splendidly, Mr. White soon left the accompanying motor-cars behind. At one point he had attained a speed of sixty miles an hour.

At Rugby he made the first of the two stops he was allowed on the journey, and after having some refreshments left for Crew, which was to be his second halting place.

Fortune, however, was otherwise, for, numbed with cold, and feeling sorely in need of rest, Mr. White descended for a second time at Hadenham, near Lichfield.

While awaiting more favorable conditions his biplane was seized by a boisterous wind and overturned, the frigid damage that was repaired in time for a flight the following week only by the fiercest exertion on the part of his mechanics.

Scottish and Irish Bogs. The recent "bogs" in the county Roscommon recalls the fact that Ireland has still close on 2,300,000 acres of bog-land, varying in depth from nineteen feet to a few inches.

Tea is Ireland's Curse. Some interesting sidelights on the life of the peasantry in Ireland are contained in the reports of the Inspectors of National Schools, which have lately been issued.

Beresford Suit Ends. The curious romance of the late Lord Delaval Beresford, known throughout Mexico as "Lord Beresford," and a colored woman, has just reached a financial conclusion.

A Virginian has patented a trunk in which the tray slides out one end on rollers, giving access to the bottom of the trunk without lifting the tray.

SIR JOHN AND THE HOME.

Mr. Basile Benoit Tells a Characteristic Story of Macdonald.

The Canadian Club of Ottawa has placed the love of Canadian history under a debt of gratitude by preserving in its last published volume the record of a banquet held some months ago at which the guests of honor included eight of the twenty-four survivors of the First Parliament of Canada.

His voice grew tender, said Mr. Benoit, "I have still in the ear the words 'Happy Homes' that he repeated many times with a caressing tone and deep feeling, pressing them, as a father, to come and to found a happy home in the boundless prairies that God had reserved to them."

Waiting For Homesteads. Philosophers will tell you that it is the lust for land, that hunger for a holding of his own that has sent the man of Aryan origin and his ideals of civilization to the four corners of the globe.

Canada and Bigness Synonymous. Canada is synonymous with bigness. It is three times larger than the United States, including Alaska; it would make three Great Britains; it is equal to the combined area of the British Empire and almost the size of all Europe.

Under Deep Conviction. Herbert Booth, son of the Salvation Army General, has just concluded a mission at first Methodist Church, London, Ontario.

Marriage is a Mode. The Melfort Moon (Saskatchewan) describes a wedding that occurred there recently in the following language:

Mrs. Pat's House. One of the most remarkable houses in the world is the London residence of Mrs. Patrick Campbell, the actress, whose recent entrance into vaudeville has aroused so much interest and comment.

An attachment for an alarm clock has been patented by a Missouri man by which the clock turns on and lights a gas jet at the time for which it is set.

Old News-Getting. "Louis 18th dethroned and gone to England! Bonaparte's return to Paris and in quiet possession of France!"

How Canada Got Word of Napoleon's Escape. The headlines quoted appeared over three columns of closely and boldly printed matter in the issue of the "Quebec Mercury" of June 9, 1815.

The volume containing the files of this old Quebec newspaper for the years 1814 and 1815, is filled with what may be called the bones of history. The war with the United States was still raging, and Europe was practically one great battlefield.

BEAVER FLOUR. "BEAVER FLOUR" is the unfailing friend of the housewife. It saves her the trouble of keeping two kinds of flour—one for bread and another for pastry. Being a perfect blend of Manitoba Spring wheat and Ontario Fall wheat, it gives to bread the rich, nutritious properties of the former and the lighter qualities of the latter, making a large white loaf of delicate texture and exquisite flavor.
