OMPULSORY MILITARY SERVICE AGAIN TO THE FORE.

test Election in testain May Decide

Question-So Long as Liberals Rule it Will Not Come to Pass. London, July 30 .- The agitation for compulsory military service in England, which started for the second time in the House of Lords ten days ago, has been pushed so energetically that there is no doubt that it will be Tickets good to return within 50 paign, which will probably be early in Roberts tried to start a "compulsory military service" boom with his speech in the House of Lords, pointing to the danger of an invasion of orner Johnson and Ontario Streets.

Scription campaign was started in the conservative newspapers, but England didn't take to the idea of conscription and the militarists, fearful of injuring their chances in the last election,

> Since then a quiet caimpaign of edu-cation has been in progress until the conscription party decided it was safe to get out into the open again. It seized the occasion when the administration recently admitted that it could get only 275,000 men to join the terri-torials, or English militia, out of the 350,000 which it would like to bring

The minute this admission was made the Earl of Portsmouth arose in the House of Lords to say that the ment is never going to provide an "adequate force for home defence, in view of the opinion prevalent, among experts that the landing of a large hostile force is practicable." Other hostile force is practicable." ARNPRIOR BOYS WRECKED. Overwhelmed by Storm and Had Nar-

Araprior, Ont., July 30.-Herb Mc-Cormick and Albert Barnes, two Araprior boys, went for a sail in Mr. | Bert Barnes' yacht. When they were in the middle of the lake a storm came up, the hoat became uncontrollable and the engines ceased to stir.
The craft, which was a tight one, was known on to the rocks at Killroy's Bay, on the Quebec side of the lake. Mr. David Graham, who is camping there, assisted the boys to land and rowed the youths home, towing the yacht behind. That the boys escaped without harm is a miracle.
