INFANTILE PARALYSIS.

There are several cases at present in City.

There are four or five cases of infantile paralysis at present in the city, but the disease is of a light form, and those ill will likely recover.

So far this summer there have been two deaths of children from this disease. Happily, there is little of it in Kingston.

Infantile paralysis, or cerebro spinal disease, has to be reported to the sanitarian, in a contagious nature, board of health. Dr. Williamson was asked concerning the disease, and stated that section 8 of the quarantine regulations of the provincial board of health required that the patient must be isolated. Discharges from the nose, throat and mouth must be received in a cloth and burned at once. After death or recovery disinfection must take place.

L. H. Timmins Says the Whitney Government Gave a Charter to a Political Friend.

Montreal Herald.

What he described as the first real important scandal in which the Whitney government has been involved was told by L. H. Timmins, a Toronto mining man, who arrived in Montreal yesterday afternoon.

It had arisen from the rejection by the government of Ontario on the application of the minister of mines, on the application of the Timmins-McMartin syndicate for a charter for the construction of a railway from the Timiskaming and Northern Ontario railway at mileage 222 to the Porcupine gold field, and the granting of an exclusive charter to T. A. Shillington, the local member, and several associates, for the construction of a much inferior line to that proposed by the Timmins people.

Mr. Timmins is indignant as he is disappointed at what he calls the inexplicable action of Minister Cochran in persuading the government to grant a charter to one of its supporters in the legislature, who, it is claimed, has compromised his position as a member of the provincial government by using his influence to get the government to sanction a charter for a syndicate in which he is peculiarly interested.

The story is that the Ontario legislature authorized the extension of the Ontario government road to the Porcupine with power to exercise its discretion as to whether it should actually build it or not.

The cabinet, after due consideration came to the conclusion that it was not advisable to build a government line into the Porcupine country. The Timmins-McMartin syndicate, with which C. A. Foster is associated, came forward with a proposition to build a standard gauge road forty miles in length to the Porcupine, and forming a junction with the government road at mileage 222. They are pioneer miners on the Porcupine field and owners of the biggest mine, which has already a plant there crushing and stamping a daily average of three hundred tons, and is now building a power plant at the Metagami river that will generate an electric current that will enable the syndicate to trouble its present output.

The Late Mrs. Regan.

The burial office for Mrs. John Regan, who died, on Friday evening, at her home, O'Kill street, was held on Monday morning, at St. George's cathedral, at ten o'clock, by Canon Starr. Mrs. Regan, who was a second wife of the late John Regan, which is always merry and lovable, came to this country when a girl, and had the trying experience which befel so many immigrants of that day, of going through the ship fever.

HE WAS THE MAN

Father Point, Que., July 31.—Dr. Hawley H. Crippen and Ethel Clare Le Neve, his stenographer, who fled from London after the disappearance of Belle Elmore, the doctor's wife, were arrested here, to-day, aboard the Canadian-Pacific liner Montrose, at the command of Inspector Dew, of Scotland Yard.

The identification of the fugitives by the English detective marked the culmination of one of the most sensational flights in recent criminal annals.

The scene enacted off this little steamer this morning was dramatic. Inspector Dew had spent a sleepless night at the Marconi operator's side communicating through the fog with the Montrose.

At 4:30 a.m. the approaching ship's whistle was heard. It awakened the villagers and the newspaper men, who dressed hastily and waited in a drizzling rain for the liner's arrival.

London, Aug. 1.—Hope of the conviction of Dr. H. H. Crippen, on the charge of murdering his wife, was greatly strengthened, to-day, by a report that Scotland Yard detectives had secured evidence that the mutilated and lime-stein body found in the cellar of the doctor's home was that of his wife.

Quebec, Aug. 1.—Dr. Crippen appeared at ten o'clock this morning before Police Magistrate Panet for identification.

Plant That Feeds Death.

In South America there is a plant, a species of mimosa, which resorts to death feigning, evidently for the purpose of preventing grass eating animals from eating it.

HE WAS THE MAN

The father ended the interview by saying: "The law knows no sympathy; it is just and has to be administered."

The question of all questions with the mother seems to be as to whether her daughter is married. The estimated cost of apprehending Crippen is $25,000.

When I look back twelve years to the days of Ethel's early childhood the sadness of her position becomes intensified. From her earliest childhood she displayed a fondness for pretty things, and I am afraid this love for nice things gave her just a trace of selfishness.

Quebec, Aug. 1.—The steamer Montrose of the C.P.R. line, arrived in port from London about 12:30 o'clock this morning. In spite of the late hour there was a large crowd at the landing at the commissioner's wharf anxiously waiting for the arrival of Dr. Crippen and Miss LeNeve.

London, July 31.—When visited in their flat in Northwest London to-day, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lence were found in a state of suspense. When informed of the arrest of their daughter, the father said: "My mind is greatly relieved. I should have been bitterly disappointed if this had turned out to be another man's nest. I've been fearing what this case would do to my daughter at the end. It would have been a dreadful thing if Crippen had escaped trial and judgment. I think my daughter will be charged with being an accessory after the fact. We are hoping to have her home. I am angry at her for having deceived us, but I cannot think she went away knowing the horrible thing which Crippen was charged with or suspected of."
