BRITISH PUBLIC SERVICE.

In a British government blue book, issued last week, dealing with the undertakings of various English municipalities, there is an interesting statement showing the advantage of public management. It concerns the Bristol docks, originally in the hands of a private company. From the very first says the report the company had financially, a difficult task, and the fact of charging excessive dues to ships using the docks threatened to send the great bulk of maritime traffic to rival ports.

Referring to the Hull, England, telephones, the report says that the municipal exchange has met with public approval, judging from the rapid extension of the undertaking. "The moderate tariffs," it proceeds, "also enable small tradesmen to have a service, which previously was denied them, owing to the prohibitive rates of the National Telephone company."

BUYING ON CREDIT.

The Kemptville Advertiser insists that buying on credit, in most instances, is poor business policy. There are cases where the credit system helps a man to get started, and can be used to good advantage. When, however, a man with money in the bank, buys goods on credit he shows little knowledge of business methods.

The manufacturer who allows you to pay on time values the interest on the money invested in your purchase just as much as you do. He takes good care to charge enough extra for the article to make up his interest. But, in addition, he assumes a certain amount of risk for which he charges interest as well. The risk money varies with the class of people in the district where the firm is doing business, but the total interest which we pay is seldom less than seven per cent. To pay seven per cent, or more to a manufacturer for the use of his money when we have money of our own is a poor business. Yet there are thousands of farmers in Canada who are doing this very thing.

NO HOPE OF REWARD. Speaking at Moose Jaw, the premier of Canada said that the civil service commission had now charge of the inside (or Ottawa) public service, and that gradually its work would be extended "to all parts of the service."

YOUTH SAID TO HAVE TRIED TO END LIFE.

Touching Scene at Grave, When Lover Gives Way to Grief, and, as Reported, Has to be Forcibly Conducted Away by Friends.

Liabon, N.Y., Aug. 10.—The death of Miss Loden Moore, a pretty maiden of eighteen years, the alleged attempt of suicide of her lover, Jarrett Flack, a young business man two years her senior, and the scene the lover made, as is alleged, at her grave, have given a sensation to this little farming community that will live long here in memory.

IN WASHINGTON SOCIETY.

It's Au Fait for Women to Smoke Cigarettes.

Washington, Aug. 10.—In this city where society is tinged with the foreign habits of the diplomatic set, and where cigarette smoking is so common among society women, that it is no longer a matter of much comment, there is a strong feeling that the anti-cigarette crusades have been unfair in directing their criticism at one or two individual women smokers. Among the clergy, none could be found to-day to defend or condone the practice, but there was a general opinion that recent criticism has been unjust in a personal way.

The practice, it was pointed out, was not confined to any special few, but was quite general among fashionable women. As a regular feature of practically every ultra-fashionable dinner party here cigarettes are usually provided for the women. The old-fashioned idea of the women leaving the men at the table to smoke, their cigars has almost entirely disappeared, as now the men have their cigarettes and liquor in one room and the women have theirs in another. When the occasion is informal and the company is intimate, it is not unusual for the women to smoke at the table with the men.

A cigarette case as a feature of the fashionable woman's chateleine is not a sufficient rarity here to attract attention. At a recent amateur theatrical performance, a purse was stolen from a prominent feminine member of the "younger set." The loss was advertised in the papers, and among the contents of the purse was a jewelled cigarette case. The name of the owner was given without any apparent thought of embarrassment. All the fashionable jewelers here carry a large stock of women's cigarette cases. As presents from men, they are quite common.

It is not a rare sight to see the wife of a foreign diplomat smoking completely as she sits on the lawn of her home on a pleasant evening. Some foreign women prominent here, have been known to smoke cigars. Though these facts put the Washington situation in a light different from that in other American cities, the local clergy fail to find any defence for the habit.

Women Write Letters.

Quebec, Aug. 10.—It is learned that scores of letters from women in the United States and Canada to Dr. Crippen have been seized by the authorities. The contents of all the letters have not been divulged, but it is known that many express sympathy for the physician and declare their belief in his innocence. Although Crippen has not made a demand for the mail that has been withheld, he has expressed a desire to see it. Telegrams to the prisoner have also been seized, and the only communications he is allowed to receive are cablegrams from his London attorney, Arthur Newton.
