Two Minute Talks About

PANDORA RANGE

for Coal or Wood

HAVE you seen the Perfect Spring Door on the warming closet? It is the newest Pandora feature.

The ordinary door, when opened, is inside the warming closet and takes up valuable space.

But the Perfect Spring Door, when opened, is entirely outside of the warming closet. By being outside it adds two inches to the height of the space inside the closet. That extra space provides room for fourteen more dinner or dessert plates. The door cannot drop down and smash the dishes because the spring holds the door up out of the way until you desire to close it.

The Perfect Spring Door is a convenience worth having. There are more than a score of other conveniences on the Pandora. Our Pandora booklet tells about them. Send for a copy.

NOTES ON PLAYS, PLATEAUS AND PLAYHOUSES.

Forty Dollars a Seat Charged for a Play in Paris—Old Lily Langtry Longs for the Footlights Again and Will Return.

Henry W. Savage will bring "Com & Co." to Nazimova's Thirty-ninth Street Theatre, New York, on September 19th to replace "Miss Patsey," in which Miss Gertrude Quinlan was introduced as a star.

Fuller Melish has been engaged by Messrs. Lieber & Co. to play the role of Sir Oliver Holt in "The Dawn of Tomorrow," with Miss Gertrude Elliott, the role which she originated with Miss Eleanor Robinson.

From Rome comes the news that Gabriel D'Annunzio, the poet and playwright, will visit America early in 1911 and deliver a series of lectures. New York managers have long been anxious to present D'Annunzio here, but he has refused all offers.

Messrs. A. H. Woods, Harry H. Frazee and George W. Lederer, obtained from Judge Holt, in the United States Circuit Court, a temporary order restraining Miss Adele Ritchie from singing the song "Every Little Movement," which, it is said, is from "Madame Sherry."

Lady de Bathe, known to the theatre-going public of Europe and America as Lily Langtry, has emerged from private life and announces her intention of returning to the stage. She will make her reappearance at a London theatre where she will play the leading role in a modern melodrama. Whether Lady de Bathe will visit America has not been stated.

The company to support Mme. Nazimova in her forthcoming production of Schnitzler's "The Fairy Tale," is complete. In addition to the distinguished Russian stars, the cast for this play will include Brandon Tynan, Elsie Esmond, Mrs. Jacques Martin, Gertrude Berkeley, Margaret Lindsay, Alice Wickes, Edward R. Mawson, Orlando Daly, William Hovnan, La Race Dunbar, Thomas Russell, Master George Tobin and Evelyn Tobin.

Next season's programme at the Gaiety Lyrique, Paris, has just been announced. In addition to operas presented last year, four novelties will be sung. They are Mamey's "Don Quijote," Adolphe's "Elsie," Le Borne's "Les Girondins," and De Saucy's "Paysons et Soldats." "Don Quijote" was heard at Monte Carlo last winter, with Chaliapine in the title role. At the Gaiety-Lyrique the chief parts will be sung by Mlle. Lucie Arbell and Messrs. Fugere and Marcoux. The season will open October 1st.

The payment of forty dollars a seat to witness the performance of a play would seem high even to the American Croesens, but it appears that the price did not deter Paris folk for attending "Follies de Melisande," when a special presentation of the Master-linck drama was given August 29th in the ancient Convent of St. Mandeville, now the home of Masterlinck and his wife, Mme. Georgette LeBlanc.

The scenes were laid in the various parts of the Convent, and the principal role was taken by Mme. LeBlanc. The proceeds were given to charity.

In New York, "Madame Sherry" got off to a good start at the New American Theatre, with Lina Abarbanel in the title role. "The Commuters" has settled down for an indefinite run at the Criterion. Bessie McCoy in "The Behet" is being received enthusiastically by large audiences every evening. "Love Among the Lions" will remain at the Garrick for some time, and the same applies to "The Brass Boat" at the Lyceum. "The Arcadians," recently removed from the Knickerbocker to the New York Theatre, will be on view at the latter house for some weeks. "The Fortunes Hunter" continues the even tenor of its prosperous way at the Gaiety. Wallace Edinger has struck a lively gait at the Republic with "Bobby Burnet."

The arrival of Weidon Grossmith, the famous English actor and his entire London company in E. C. Carter's comedy, "Mr. Presby and the Countess," at Montreal, Sept. 29th, marks a theatrical event of great importance to Canadian theatregoers. Mr. Grossmith comes direct from a remarkable run of two years at the Criterion Theatre, London, where his acting and playing created such unqualified praise that he was engaged by Messrs. Shubert and Daniel Y. Arthur to appear in New York for a long winter season at one of the principal Broadway theatres, immediately following his brief Canadian tour. Miss Charlotte Granville, the celebrated London beauty, is Mr. Grossmith's principal feminine support. The Criterion theatre production as a whole is being imported with the English cast.

Science Camp in Spring. It has been customary for the science students of Queen's to go in to camp back in the country for surveying instruction every September. The camp this season has been postponed until next spring.

ST. VITUS DANCE.

Striking Example of Its Cure by Tonic Treatment.

St. Vitus' dance is the commonest form of nervous trouble which afflicts children, because of the great demands made on the body by growing and development, and there is the added strain caused by study. It is when these demands become so great that the impoverished blood, and the nerves fail to receive their full supply of nourishment, that the nervous debility leads to St. Vitus dance.

The remarkable success of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in curing St. Vitus dance should lead parents to give their children this great blood-purifying medicine at the first signs of the approach of the disease. Pale, listless, inattention, restlessness and irritability are all symptoms which early show that the blood and nerves are failing to meet the demands made upon them. Mrs. A. Waters, Veroon, Minn., says: "When my little girl was six years old she was attacked with scarlatina, which was followed by St. Vitus' dance. Her limbs would jerk and twitch. Her speech became affected, and at last she became so bad that she could scarcely walk, and we hardly dared trust her alone. She was under the care of a doctor, but in spite of this she was steadily growing worse, and we feared that we would lose her. As I read of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I decided to try them again. After the use of a few boxes, to our great joy, we found they were helping her and in the course of a few weeks more her power of speech fully returned, and she could walk and go about as well as any child, and she has been well and healthy since. When illness comes to any one of our family now we never call in a doctor, but simply use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and they never disappoint us."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50c a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Near Nutmegs.
New York Herald.—The Connecticut delegation to a Republican convention at Chicago took along a lot of badges, each ornamented with a wooden nutmeg.

The badges were very popular. The delegates from other states thought it a great joke to wear a genuine Connecticut wooden nutmeg.

Presently the man who had charge of the badges came to Senator Brandegee and said:

"Senator, we're in a fix. All our wooden nutmeg badges are gone and there is still a great demand for them. What can we do?"

"But there are no wooden nutmegs in Chicago. We had to have these especially made for us back home."

"All right," directed the Napoleon Brandegee, "go down to a grocery store and buy four or five hundred real nutmegs and stick them on the badges. They'll never know the difference. And they didn't."

The Greatest Robber.
Boston Herald.—

Some boys were disputing about who was the greatest robber. One said Dick Turpin was, because he was best known. Another declared it was Robin Hood, who robbed the rich.

Another contended for Napoleon, because he robbed by wholesale. Still another for the James boys, who got off with the swag. At last one turned to the little boy who was too timid to butt in:

"Who do you think?"

"Well," he said, "for all around York, our landlord is no slouch."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only cathartic taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

PROBLEMS NOT EASY

THE BEST CURE AS PREACHED IN JAPAN.

Victim of Nervous Prostration Given Metaphysical Problems to Solve—Quite a Strain Indeed.

The Japanese are catching up with us. They now enjoy the blessing of nervous prostration and are practicing their own form of rest cure. The Japan Magazine tells of this latest step in progress.

A lady by the name of Kawabata, last autumn was threatened with a nervous collapse which necessitated a visit to the seaside, and being at Kamahara she was persuaded to enter upon the form of rest cure practiced under the direction of a priest of the famous Kenkoji temple.

"It was on October 3rd last," says she, "that I made the acquaintance of the Kwanchosama, the director of the retreat. He greeted very kindly to my request to join in the exercises, and after asking me many questions about my life and about the beliefs I had hitherto entertained as to gods and Buddhas gave me a subject for meditation.

"The subject was 'Houari no Memomoku,' and I was told to think about it until I had discovered its meaning or thought I had done so. When I had solved the problem I was to come again to the director, who would either give me a second problem or send me back to think over it again.

"The problems thus given are not of a nature to be easily solved. I cannot tell you the meaning of the particular one propounded to me, because I am not allowed to divulge the secret; it will suffice to say that some people will think over one of these formulas for a year or more without coming to a satisfactory answer.

"It was very difficult for me, with my family cares and household duties, with servants, and children and visitors coming to interrupt me, to devote my whole attention to the problem assigned me, but fortunately I have been able to avail myself of stated periods of quiet.

"Once a month, from the beginning of October to the end of March, there is a retreat (Jeshin) held at the Kenkoji to which all students of the contemplative life are allowed to go. The retreat lasts for a week, and during that time the male members live entirely at the temple, the women in private houses or their own homes.

"Hours of silent contemplation are observed, beginning at 7 o'clock in the morning and spread over the day till about 6 in the evening—five hours of silence in all, with the director sitting in the next room to receive communications and to furnish us with fresh problems when necessary.

"I had to leave the house early in the morning with a chochin (lantern) to light me; it was 10 o'clock in the evening before I returned. Our meals during the day were supplied from the temple for breakfast, tea, rice, gruel and relishes; at midday, rice, kenchin soup and vegetables boiled in soy in the evening, tea and rice gruel.

"The most important of these meetings was the one in January. During the course of it I had the good fortune to solve my first problem. The second problem given me was 'Kane no one wo tonaru,' how to stop a bell from sounding.

"The rest cure is now over. I have come out of it fortified in body and in mind. I am no longer nervous and irritable; I am able to look at things more dispassionately and feel myself more fit than I was before to cope with the difficulties and worries of life."

Red Tape.

Young's Compound. Some people fear red tape more than any other kind of trouble. One such was a postman, whose duty it was to bring mail to the few scattering houses on an island off the Atlantic coast.

One morning during a terrific storm, a man saw him pulling his boat over. Several times it was nearly swamped and the rower in danger of his life.

"Why in the world did you make that trip," he asked him, when the boat finally grounded on the beach.

"Well, you see," replied the other, "I miss a letter I have to write a fearfully long letter to Washington explaining why, and so I thought I had rather pull the boat."

An Object of Pity

That part of our nature which we call the emotional is much more highly developed in women than in men. They are more sensitive, more tender, more sympathetic, more pronounced in their likes and dislikes, more susceptible to the extremes of pleasure and pain, and these refined mental qualities, so beautiful in form and feature, make up the atmosphere of attractiveness and charm which always surrounds true womanhood.

The continued existence of these winning, engaging womanly characteristics depends to a very large extent on the regularity of the womanly functions and the condition of the womanly organs; and when these functions and organs become disordered or diseased the same mental qualities which are the glory of a well woman become the source of suffering and torture almost indescribable. Her cheerful brightness is changed to a feeling of despondency, animus of despair, and she is haunted with forebodings of worse evils to come. Instead of being interesting and companionable, she becomes moody and irritable, being unable to keep her mind from dwelling on her troubles. She becomes morbidly sensitive, imagining that she is being slighted or forgotten by her relatives and friends and she has a most humiliating sense of her miserable condition and of her loss of her womanly attributes. If she is religiously inclined she is very liable to be oppressed with doubts and fears in regard to her spiritual condition, or to think that she is eternally lost. In addition to this she has also to endure the most distressing aches and pains.

What makes the case still more pitiable, especially with married women, is the fact that few men understand or appreciate the extent of their suffering, or the seriousness of the troubles causing it. Many doctors even speak of these disorders as subjects for ridicule, and the poor sufferers often get a reputation for being a crank or a fool when she more nearly approaches being a martyr.

As these disorders are due to a disordered condition of the womanly organs, it is evident that to effect a cure these organs must be restored to normal condition; or, in other words, the circulation, which has become congested and stagnant in these parts, must be improved so that the waste matter will be expelled, and the nourishment so badly needed be brought to those suffering organs. It is the waste matter, or broken down tissue, which is held in the stagnant blood vessels in these parts, that causes most of the suffering by obstructing the nerves located in these parts.

The remedy known as ORANGE LILY will positively relieve this congestion and restore normal circulation in the disordered organs. It is an applied or local treatment, and acts directly on these parts. It is absorbed into the blood vessels in these organs, and as it has powerful antiseptic properties, it immediately acts on the waste matter for both these, and causes it to be discharged. As this dead matter is discharged the suffering is relieved, the pains and mental troubles become less, and the nerves and blood vessels become stronger.

ORANGE LILY thus proves its merit by actual, visible results. It acts as a purifier, and it does not do so.

Dear Mrs. Currah—I am very grateful to ORANGE LILY for the amount it has made in my life. When I commenced its use eight months ago I felt I would be surely insane before the year was ended. The pain I suffered often made me wish for death, and besides I would have serious fits of depression and nervous twitching that I would have to restrain. I had consulted with those different doctors for over two years and had also used both the Felter and Plummer's medicine, but none of them seemed to reach my case. I felt some improvement after the first month's use of ORANGE LILY and have kept gaining ever since. I do not feel that I am entirely cured yet, but I am so much better that I am sure I will soon be entirely well. I sleep well and feel cheerful and happy, except that I am occasionally somewhat depressed, but these fits are getting fewer and milder. I have also noticed improvement in my circulation. I feel some improvement after the first month's use of ORANGE LILY and one of Cerate Massage. I might add that the matter which used to be freely discharged, and which looked like a chicken's gizzard, is becoming very rare, and I hope that the circulation is pretty well restored. Am I not right in this? Your sincere friend, MRS. L. E. A.

Free to all Sufferers

In order to enable every woman suffering from any form of female disorders to test the merits of ORANGE LILY, I will send to everyone who will send me her address, or the address of any suffering friend enough of the remedy for ten days' treatment, absolutely free. As this is worth little, it is only because I know that it makes a real relief that I make this free trial offer. Further, if any woman wishes expert medical advice, and will write me a full description of her case, I will submit same to the staff of the Gynecological Medical Institute, Detroit, Mich., and they will write her direct without expense to her. ROBIN HOOD FLOUR

WE CALL

Robin Hood Flour

"The Flour that is Different"

We must stand ready to prove it and also prove that the difference is so marked, so worth while, that you will feel this is the flour you ought to use.

That is exactly where we do stand.

We ask you to take no risk. Buy a bag of ROBIN HOOD and give it two fair trials. If it does not prove perfectly satisfactory, so satisfactory that you, too, say, "It is really the flour that is different," you may take it to your grocer and he will give you back your money.

Will you make the trial on your next flour order?
