you can realize on Kingston real estate, because the value is there. It is a comfort to own something that you know you can readily raise money on in case of a "pinch."

That is a feature that adds much to its attractiveness as an investment.

There is no gamble in buying Kingston realty—the element of chance is reduced to the minimum.

But there is a whole lot in knowing how and when and where to buy to the best advantage and during our twenty-two years' experience we have learned considerable.

Therefore, it will pay you to come to us.

NON-RESIDENTS MUST GO.

Kingston Will Educate Only Her Own at Collegiate.

The management committee of the Board of Education, at its meeting last evening, decided that the non-resident pupils attending the collegiate institute must go.

There are sixty-five of them at the institute, and, if they remain, the city will have to expend money in building an addition to the institute.

Without them, the school will be large enough for the Kingston pupils for some time.

The non-residents, therefore, will have to seek their education at Sydenham, Newburgh or Napawa, if these high schools will take them.

The board of education is finding out that it will save money by refusing non-resident pupils.

In the public schools there are 300 more pupils than there is sufficient space for, and something has to be done to relieve that unsatisfactory condition.

It has been practically decided that no money will be expended in remodeling the old collegiate institute building.

It is a new school in Hildan ward that will have to be built, and at the next meeting of the board of education, a report will likely be brought in recommending that the city council be asked to provide the necessary funds for another school building.

NOT PROPERLY INSTALLED. New Closets in Old Houses Not Made Sanitary.

The board of health authorities and the city engineer are after plumbers who have installed new closets in old houses, without partitioning them off.

Some have been installed in bedrooms and kitchens, and are considered anything but sanitary.

They should have been enclosed and proper ventilation facilities provided. In some cases installations have been made without the necessary permits, and there may be trouble for plumbers who made them, as the by-law is clear on the point.

Told in Twilight

Saturday items contained two notes relative to croquet tournament.

On Thursday it should have been Mrs. Charles Taylor, not Fraser, who played with Mrs. R. E. Keat, and defeated Mrs. Herbert Dawson.

On Saturday Mrs. Campbell Strange and Miss Helen Fraser defeated Miss Maud Betts and Miss Lily Norton-Taylor.

On Tuesday for Dame Rumor has it, that the epidemic of cold has even dared to lay hold on some of the croquet devotees and proved strong enough to hold them back from such exciting things as tournaments.

Last Saturday afternoon the weather was ideal for the sports at the Royal Military College, both from the standpoint of the cadets who were out about in the water, and that of the girls and ladies who were able to don muslin and linen and their silk and be happy and warm and look fresh and nice at the same time.

The afternoon was very jolly, the commandant and Mrs. Crowe, all the members of the staff and their wives and the cadets joining forces in making it so. Tea made a pleasant interlude in the capital programme of sports and after it was all over there was still the delight of coming home facing a gorgeous setting sun.

Numerous affairs have been given for Mrs. W. Carmichael, Kingston, who is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Edward Harris Clarke, Detroit.

THE PRICE TOO BIG

TO PAY FOR CHURCH UNION. SAYS DR. MACKIE.

The Kingston Presbytery Had a Hot Discussion at Belleville, and Had to Adjourn—Principal Gordon Favored Union.

The presbytery of Kingston met at Belleville, on Tuesday. There was an unusually large attendance, as the question of church union was up for discussion at the evening adjournment.

The remit from the general assembly approving a suggested basis of union was laid before the presbytery for approval or disapproval.

Principal Gordon moved approval, because of the needs of the country and the great advantages which would be gained, and the example that would be set to the world.

He spoke of the sweet fellowship he had had in working with the committees of the Methodist and Congregational churches, and the brotherly spirit that pervaded these meetings, making them feel nearer to each other than they imagined they were.

He pointed out how union of separated churches had ever been followed by great spiritual blessings, and that the same might be expected to follow this proposed union with the Methodist and Congregational churches.

Rev. Dr. Mackie moved disapproval of the remit. He said that the sweet consciousness of union was not a peculiar experience which the principal had. They all felt it whenever in company with the devout, whether they were Roman Catholic or Protestant.

There was a union of spirit which was real union not made by human hand, among all who held the Christian faith, though belonging to different organizations. He pointed out that if great spiritual blessing had followed organic unions, the same might be said of great historic separations.

Had not the reformation been fraught with blessing to Europe, and the world? Had not the going or casting out of the Methodist and Congregational churches been a rich spiritual blessing to that church, and England? Had not the various secessions from the Church of Scotland, and especially the great one of them, called the disruption, in 1843, been a deep tide of spiritual good to Scotland?

It was not organic union in the abstract that was before them, however, with all its supposed advantages and disadvantages, but organic union in the concrete—a specific case of organic union with the Methodist and Congregational churches, and he contended that the price which the Presbyterian church would have to pay for it was too high—prohibitive. The various items of the bill were:

1. The right of congregations to choose their ministers. This is to be vested in a settlement committee.

2. The abolition of link sessions with the order of elder.

3. The abolition of ordination by presbytery—the very essence of Presbyterianism.

4. The subjection of the ministry to a kind of episcopacy in the form of an irresponsible settlement committee, making and severing ministerial ties at pleasure.

5. The shelving of the great creed of the church—the Westminster confession.

6. The abolition of solemn ordination vows, and subscription to any creed.

7. Severance from pan-Protestantism and the Presbyterian churches throughout the world.

8. The hauling down of the true blue covenanting banner with its burning bush, and motto, "Nec Tamen Consumebatur."

The discussion was carried on till after midnight, when it grew so heated and confused that at last a motion to adjourn till the March meeting was carried.

Evidently there is strong dissatisfaction in the presbytery with the terms of the union, and it is learned that out of the ten protests recorded at last assembly against the resolution, eight were members of the Kingston presbytery.

A Fresh Start. This is the title of an exceptionally fine film, showing how a young man who gets down in the world is given a fresh start.
