THERE IS STILL A CHANCE FOR COUNTRY PUPILS.

To be Allowed to Remain in Collegiate Institute if They Agree to Pay Average Cost of Collegiate Tuition—This Would Amount to About $55 a Year.

The non-resident pupils of the collegiate institute may yet be allowed to remain, but it will depend upon the willingness of their parents to pay about fifty-five dollars a year for them, or the average cost of tuition.

"That the county pupils attending the collegiate institute be asked by circular if they are willing to pay a fee equal to the average cost of tuition in that institution; if they are, and the attendance still demands increased accommodation, application be made to the city council for sufficient money, to pay the cost of the erection of a four-room annex to the present building."

The secretary-treasurer is figuring out the average cost of tuition, and it is expected that next year it will amount to about fifty-five dollars. At present, the county pupils pay twenty-five dollars for the first two years, and thirty for the last two. The total fees received from county pupils at present are about $1,700. If the average cost of tuition is paid and the number of non-resident pupils remains the same, the fees would increase to about $3,500, which would pay the interest on an annuity of the salary of an extra teacher. If the non-residents do not feel like paying double the present fee, they will have to retire from the collegiate, as the board of education feels that it is only responsible for the education of those who are residents of Kingston, and has nothing to do with pupils from adjacent municipalities.

Sydenham high school is wholly unable to accommodate the non-resident pupils, who would have to leave the Kingston collegiate, J. S. Gallagher, M.P.P., has been appealed to by the

AN APOLOGY IS DUE

TO BISHOP FALLON ON FRENCH CONTROVERSY.

Prof. Lanos Glad to Hear the Bishop Excuse Himself—French in Ontario Not Granted Very Much.

On being shown the statement of His Lordship Bishop Fallon, of London, Ontario, concerning his attitude towards the French language and the interests of the French-Canadian people, and his denial that he had ever objected to the teaching of that language, in accordance with the laws of the province of Ontario, and the regulations of the provincial department of education, Prof. J. M. Lanos said:

"I am heartily glad to hear that Bishop Fallon has been able to so completely exculpate himself. His name ought to be dropped from any further discussion, and an apology be tendered to him by the originators of the slander. It does not mean, however, that the bishop, as a progressive Canadian and an educationalist, should henceforth shun the question of English or French teaching in his diocese, or shun weakly the laws and regulations of the province of Ontario relating to the French language. I even hope that the recent attacks made upon him will but serve to draw his attention to the state of his French schools, their lack of efficiency in both languages, the poor quality of their methods, and the urgent necessity of a system which will fit the children of his flock for their full Canadian citizenship."

"I believe that Ontario can settle the difficult question, in reference, help or encouragement from Quebec, Quebec has enough to do teaching English to her own boys and girls. The day will come when Ontario will discard useless methods and turn out bi-lingual pupils who will be her pride and a force to Canada as a whole."

"To be satisfied with the treatment at present accorded to the French in Ontario does not tax anyone's generosity, as far as can be gleaned from the statutes of Ontario. The word 'French' is not even mentioned. 'The School Law of Ontario,' as compiled by W. B. McMurrich, M.A., has only this to say: 'The text-books in French and German mentioned in schedule A are authorized only for schools where the French or German language prevails, and where the trustees, with the approval of the inspector, require French or German to be taught in addition to English.'

"French is barely tolerated in Ontario, left in the hands of trustees, who, I may say without fear of being unjust, know nothing of the way modern languages ought to be handled, and at the mercy of inspectors who must look upon it as an obstacle rather than an auxiliary to their work. The schedule A referred to above gives the following information: 'French, English Reader, First Reader, Part I; First Reader, Part II; Second Reader; Third Reader; Les Grandes Inventions Modernes; Robert's French Grammar.'

"I understand from this that one side of the page in these books, except the last, is the English text, and the other side the words-for-words translation into French. All other subjects are presumably taught in English, a language the pupils are not supposed to understand, since their Readers are framed on the assumption that a French key is needed to open their intellectual doors as a help to them in their private lives and an inheritance which, apart from any question of sentimentality, is not without some commercial value."

A Busy Local Plant. The Kingston Shipbuilding company have for the last week had a large staff of skilled workmen rushing the repairs to the damaged steamer Rosemount. The vessel will be released this evening, after thorough repairs, which were completed within record time. The management have reason to be proud of the facilities established for efficient and quick repairs. All the machinery is in working order now, excepting one or two more machines which they expect to install during the next few weeks.

A Lamented Loss. Kingston, Sept. 24.—(To the Editor): Will you allow me to appeal to the person who found a gold-headed cane in St. Luke's church, left there on Sunday, the 18th, to return it to me? I will willingly reward the finder. It can be of little value to him, but of much to me. The inscription on it is: "Presented to Ven. Archdeacon Daykin by the town of Mattawa," and is to me the reminiscence of kind people and happy days. Yours truly, W. G. DAYKIN, 330 King street west, city.

Evangelical Alliance. A meeting of the Evangelical Alliance was held at the Y.M.C.A. building, last evening. Arrangements were made for the reception of the deputation from the British organization of the alliance, expected here on October 19th to 21st. Tentative arrangements were also made for the meetings to be held during the time of their visit. The deputation is composed of Rev. Dr. Hanson, of Halifax, England; Archdeacon Madden, of Liverpool, England.

Licence Law a Farce. "The enforcement of the law prohibiting the sale of liquor on steamboats in Ontario is farcical," declared Rev. Mr. Burke, of Kingston, when the Moral and Social Reform Council of Canada was considering in Toronto a resolution approving in general terms the enforcement of the liquor laws in the province.

"I have seen placards on the boats plying between Kingston and Toronto," he continued, "which tell you where the bars will be found. The officials tell us that without bars they can't compete with American boats. Licences should be granted, or the sale of liquor entirely suppressed."

At the Police Court. There were no cases for hearing in the police court, Saturday morning, and as a result, Magistrate Farrell had an off day. The city was very orderly on Friday night, not even a drunk falling into the police nets. On Friday afternoon a couple of men called at the police station, and complained about a man having been injured in a row between workmen, but no warrants or summonses were issued, so it is not likely that the case will come before the magistrate.

Was a Great Success. Kingston people, who were present, say that the Pachtan fair, which was brought to a close, on Friday, was a fine affair. The weather man was on his good behaviour for the day, and everything passed off with great success. There was a fine display, in every department, and the judges had a busy time of it. The directors are pleased with the result.

Will Play Football. Daniel McCarey, the fast sprinter, of the Kingston police force, who made quite a name for himself, in different running races, held during the summer months, has signed to play football with the association team, at the locomotive works.
