EXAMINE THE ROLLS.

The city auditor of Ottawa must have a commission of a far-reaching character, or he has a fondness for work which is not to be found usually in the public official. Catch the average man, in the service of the city or state, going out of his way to make trouble for himself and others, and that is what Mr. Cluff, of Ottawa, has done. He has been looking over the assessment of the city, and he has found the ground on which to make very many appeals. He saw what he regarded as errors in valuation, or judgment, and followed up the discovery by personal investigation.

When asked if the report were correct, and he meant a readjustment of the assessment on his own account, he said: "Yes, I am thinking of putting in 300 appeals against the assessment. I could cite many, many cases where the assessment on property would hardly buy the bricks and mortar in the building. The cases I shall appeal against are not confined to any particular section of the city, and they include buildings both big and small." Mr. Cluff referred to large tracts of land which are held near the outskirts of the city. He said that some of these properties were assessed as low as $50 or $100, while men with small properties in the same neighborhood are assessed $1,200 for half an acre.

It is a great thing that any city has an official who has only the public interest at stake, and who will not hesitate to protest against any irregularity or injustice in any department. The assessment commissioner of Ottawa feels hurt, of course, because the auditor has undertaken to supervise his department, but the auditor is the city's watch dog, and he should be encouraged when he is doing his duty, without fear, favour or affection.

In Kingston there has been some complaining on account of the assessment. Perhaps the complaints would disappear if a close examination were made of the rolls by a committee of the council, or the people, within certain dates, were invited to attend the assessor's office and examine the books themselves. It costs too much to have the rolls published, but the people should have some opportunity of comparing valuations and of seeing in this way that the department has tried to be fair and just.

WHOSE HANDS ARE CLEAN?

The Ridgeway Dominion is being applauded because it has made assertions which would warrant one in assuming that if he had heard something that was very reliable. It is a conservative paper, and it recalls the days when Sir John Macdonald used to meet the manufacturers and invite them to subscribe liberally to his election funds. The Dominion does not tell what used to happen in the parlours of a certain Toronto hotel, but it certainly was not to receive their adulation that the premier summoned his friends, or approved of the coloured cartoons they were to issue through the "conservative clubs."

The grand old man of the grand old party is credited with calling attention to the manner in which they had prospered through the national policy, and he claimed his share of the plums. The Dominion professes to know that with the defeat of the conservative party in 1896 the Manufacturers' Association, as a political force, ceased to be. The liberals triumphed without its aid, but the liberals realized that they had to proceed cautiously and not, by any sudden tariff changes, endanger vested interests.

The Dominion professes to know that the liberals are bound to the high tariff men by the contribution of something better than coloured cartoons. But the Dominion does not know anything more upon the subject than the average newspaper man, which is nothing at all. There was a time when the secretary of the Manufacturers' Association handed to the finance minister, before the budget day, the brief a tariff committee had suggested. The experience has not been repeated under a liberal government. Why? No one knows, but if the average imagination were as active as that of our contemporary there would be no difficulty in reaching a conclusion.

And finally the Ridgeway Dominion says that newspaper support is directed by the interests and cannot be trusted in tariff matters. If some papers (liberal), depended on what they made out of the party they would not amount to much and their reign would be short enough.

RADIAL RAILWAY NEEDED.

Radial railways represent the later conditions of trade and currents of public opinion. At certain points, in certain countries, there are towns the growth of which depends very largely upon the connection they have with near or contiguous villages. Time was when the people had to travel long distances in order to trade profitably, in order to dispose of the products of the farm and purchase what they wanted in foods, in clothing, in even the luxuries in which the progressive and successful farmers will indulge.

Toll roads killed the trade in the first place, and it is simply remarkable that, in view of the curse they have been, so many of them remain. Tolls, added to the discomforts of travel when it was not desired, made the village store a necessity, and as it grew in importance, and provided for almost every want of man, the town merchant suffered. The big markets disappeared. The corner grocery man wondered what had happened. The banks, anxious for the small accounts, and realizing that the farmer's seldom grew less, went in search of the business they lost, and hence the agencies that adorn the cross-roads and give accommodation as freely and as readily as the city branches.

The larger centres of trade meet the new conditions by cultivating a mail order business, and to an extent which is almost incredible. The offer of free postage or expressage has its allurements. The occasional excursion at low rates adds to the programme by which the staid old frontier county centres are moved to deeper lamentation.

The cure for all this, or for most of it, is the radial railway, which can be equipped at a reasonable cost, and by which the business relations of several smaller places can be materially improved. In New York state there are several lines of this kind. They are a contingency of the times. In Ontario there are two in operation now. One runs into Toronto, and by means of it the Queen City sucks in the business of the surrounding district as the octopus sucks the life-blood of the individual who comes within its coils. Guelph, on Monday, voted upon a proposition to give $85,000 to the People's Railway, which made that city the centre of several thriving villages in its district, and if the vote has been adverse a blow will be offered to municipal ownership in a most emphatic way.

Kingston needs a radial. Such a link with the surrounding villages is needed very much, but the absence of cheap power, the great consideration, puts it out of the question for the present. Cheap power being available—and there is some assurance of it—the radial railway is the key to the boon that is so much desired.

ARE NOT ALL AGREED.

On Increasing Collegiate Fees of Non-Residents.

All the members of the board of education are not agreed on the advisability of turning out the non-residents from the Collegiate Institute, or of increasing their fees, and there promises to be an interesting discussion on the matter at the board's meeting, Wednesday evening. One trustee points out that if the fees are raised to fifty-five or sixty dollars a year it will pay the non-resident parents to purchase cheap houses in Kingston and lease them. They will then be property owners, and their children cannot be refused admittance to the Collegiate Institute. It would be the cheapest way of getting over the difficulty.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Welland Telegraph has found a young liberal who has left the party and—joined the conservatives? It does not say that. It seems to realize that there is a limit to one's gullibility.

What is wanted in the city, and what must be secured, is a new public school. When it has been provided, and the city is flush, it will be time enough to talk about an addition to the institute.

The charging of the full cost in educating the non-residents will not, it is said, make the institute situation, financially, a sound one. The increased revenue would pay for another teacher, but not the interest on capital account.

The Toronto World wants the reception of Hon. Mr. Aylesworth, on his return from The Hague, made non-political, so that the masses may pay him tribute. How nice of our contemporary. But is it possible to separate the man from the office he holds?

The Grand Trunk engineers have secured an increase of salary, on a three-year basis, of from eight to ten per cent. And no strike, no fuss, no severance of friendly relations, no trouble of any kind. Doesn't conciliation pay?

Sir James Whitney is on his way back from England, in which he resided six whole weeks, and made two speeches. In one he endorsed the tariff reform movement, in the other he disapproved of public ownership. Which ought to make him immensely popular in Canada.

PARTIAL FRANCHISE

ASKED BY SEYMOUR POWER COMPANY.

It Wants to Distribute to All Consumers Taking Over Twenty-five Horse Power—An Outline of Its Proposition.

The Seymour Power and Electric company, limited, of Campbellford, which wants to supply Kingston with cheap power, guarantees to deliver here within twelve months of the signing of a contract, 3,000 electric horsepower at $25 per horsepower per year to steady users. It wants to make a contract with the city plant for power for its business and secure permission to build a secondary transmission line from its own sub-station to various factories in the city, which may require power. It proposes that the city shall supply all customers using less than twenty-five horsepower, the company to supply those who take over that amount. This kind of arrangement, the company says, has been found to work satisfactorily. The city is asked to give the company a franchise to build and maintain its distribution. An exclusive franchise is not asked for.

It is expected there will be opposition to giving any franchise at all to the company. All that some members of the city council would favor would be to receive power from the company at the city's switchboard, the city to do all the distributing.

FOR FALL FAIRS

The Weather Has Been Most Delightful.

People who have been following up the different fall fairs, in this district, say that the weather has been most delightful, for them, in fact, on the whole, it has been the best in years. As a result all the fairs have been a great success, both financially and otherwise.

It is expected that the receipts at the Wolfe Island fair will be far in advance of last year.

At the Orpheum Theatre.

The Orpheum theatre is drawing good crowds now in spite of counter attractions. The bill for the first part of the week is an exceptionally good one. Two double vaudeville acts are the main attraction. Quigley and Adair comedy roller skating artists, are an exceptionally strong bill, and received hearty applause. O'Neil and Guilford gave a good exhibition of singing, talking and acrobatic dancing. Arthur Lynn sang "The Song That Finds An Echo in My Heart." Mr. Lynn's popularity as a singer is increasing. He scored a hit last week with "The Dawn of Christmas Morning" which he repeated by request. The pictures, "For A Western Girl" and "A Young Girl's Sacrifice" and "Incorrigible Masy" were all good.

Cheerful Blunders.

Liverpool children are credited with the following cheerful blunders in examinations:

The horse is as tall as a middle-aged man.

The pig has been the goose that lays the golden egg to many people.

Many Americans would not be millionaires without the falsely blamed pig.

The pig is a native of China, and it can go into houses and sit down like a Christian.

The horse consists of fetlocks, joints, flank, upper arm and hook. Without these the graceful animal could not live.

AFTER DOCTORS FAILED

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Her.

Toronto, Canada.—"I shall endeavor to describe to you how I felt before I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I scarcely knew what it was to be well. I had awful bearing-down pains and usually before my monthly periods I suffered terribly and had to go to bed. I was not able to walk across the floor the pain was so bad. I doctored for a long time, but the doctor's treatment did not do me any good. I gave up all hopes of ever being well again until one day my husband saw the Compound advertised in the paper. He decided to get me a bottle, and I am thankful he did. I had not taken one bottle before I began to feel better, and I kept on taking it until now I am a different woman. It also helped me during maternity and childbirth. I can thoroughly recommend your Vegetable Compound to any woman who is afflicted with female troubles."

Mrs. J. M. TWEEDALE, 128 Nassau St., Toronto, Canada.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, fatigues, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.
