

The Globe TORONTO

U.S. POLITICS.

For half a century the question of better trade relations has been before the people of Canada and of the United States in a more or less acute form.

History will be made very fast on this question during the next year.

It is of prime importance that every Canadian should be thoroughly posted as to the sentiment not only in his own country, but in the United States as well.

The daily letters from The Globe's travelling correspondent constitute a source of first-hand information.

This correspondent will during the next month attend many of the big State conventions, public meetings, etc.; he will interview leaders of the rival factions, and in a general way record the currents of events, regardless of prejudices.

THE GLOBE is the only Canadian paper maintaining a staff correspondent on the scene.

THE SPORT REVIEW

MILITARY COLLEGE RUGBY TEAM HARD AT WORK.

A Contribution Concerning Amateur Sport—Y.M.C.A. and Swimming—Doings at Queen's—Notes on Sport.

The Royal Military College rugby team is rapidly taking into shape now. The cadets are taking a great interest and every afternoon see them on the field practicing.

Half of team this year are new men and they are showing up well. Last year's players will be seen on the gridiron again.

Concerning Amateur Sport. At a recent meeting of the physical directors of the Y.M.C.A., the matter of an athletic union was talked over.

Why should not the athletic have a say in the government of his own sport? Is it not fair to demand at least a fair hearing?

Amateurism to-day means the getting together of a bunch of men who have never been on the track themselves.

Money seems to be the root of all evil in athletics. The amateur is compelled to stand his own expenses, in many cases, and to put on a program, even when the promoters receive the benefit.

Running is a natural talent just the same as singing, and, therefore, could be used for the same purpose.

Amateurism to-day is not consistent for the athlete in nine cases out of ten, takes his affidavit that he has no other source of income.

It seems that this matter could be satisfactorily straightened out, if the athlete was represented on the board of governors.

Chance for Boys. The announcement made at the Y.M.C.A., that those in charge there would endeavor to teach every boy in the city how to swim has been received with delight on all sides.

Kingston Won at Picton. Picton on its last fair day was the scene of a lively game of baseball between a picked team from Kingston, and a picked team from around Prince Edward county.
