A VERY TIMELY DECISION.
A new aspect has been put upon the divorce business by a recent and most important decision of the New York court. A woman, who wearied of her marital relations, and not, perhaps, without some reason, went to Nevada, lived there a certain time, and secured a decree which seemed to be legal and binding.

The husband waited until she had completed her plans and won her seeming victory, and then began proceedings to have the decree nullified. And he succeeded. In New York the justice ruled that neither man nor woman could, in Nevada or elsewhere, take up residence for the purpose of securing a divorce, and that any decree issued upon such residence and for such purpose could not be sustained.

The Montreal Gazette, after remarking that the New York judgment is in accordance with the decisions of the Canadian courts, adds: "The decision is one that will be continued by those who desire to see the divorce evil checked, for, if anything can check it, this judgment, requiring not only the legal evidence called for by the laws of the state in which the divorce is issued, but also an intermediate period of subsequent residence, will do so. But few people want a divorce badly enough to put in a couple of years or so of residence after the matrimonial relief has been removed."

A SCARCITY OF FUNDS.
It would be just like the luck of the council to discover that there has to be a serious expenditure with the water system, and, thanks to the raid of the finance committee some months ago, the department has been impoverished.

Every time there is an outbreak of typhoid fever there is a new agitation for costly improvements. The intake pipe may, now that it is troublesome, have to be replaced or supplemented or overhauled; and it may be that the water in the lake is being slowly yet nevertheless surely contaminated, and that sooner or later there will have to be a filtration system. In any case the cost will be heavy, and the department is not in a position to incur a large expenditure out of current revenue.

To be sure there can be a resort to the issue of debentures and the raising through them of many thousands of dollars. That is the expensive way of doing anything. The improvement that is made with borrowed money, even at four and a half percent, is expensive, for a dollar will have to be covered with another dollar, as interest, when the loan runs a little over twenty years.

TEST OF THE ELECTION.
The address of the premier of Canada, in Montreal, on Monday evening, was a masterpiece. It was just what it was intended to be, a clear and unequivocal exposition of the policy of the liberal government, especially with regard to the defence of Canada. The reception was magnificent. There has been no such demonstration tendered to any man in Canada. In the past, and in some parts of the dominion this year, Sir Wilfrid has been tendered ovations, but he was free to confess that in size, in enthusiasm, in the affection shown in many ways, no public event impressed him like this Montreal one.

It is reported, in the usual ill-illustrated fashion, by the conservative press, that the demonstration was made to order. Likewise, all the demonstrations that have been offered to Mr. Borden and Mr. Bourassa and Mr. Monk, are made to order, and if some of them have been miserable failures the conclusion follows that there was something radically wrong with the management, and the material. The Mail says the Bourassa faction could next week go one better, but until the Laurier meeting and parade have been surpassed there should be a hint to our contemporary's vanity and boasting.

The sting of the great speech, of an undoubtedly great man, lay in the description of the conservative party, of its dissolving and disappearing elements, of the manner in which it is now floundering, practically without a leader and a policy, and of the disaster which would follow an appeal to the people with a different policy for every province. The enemy, indeed, is welcome to all the comfort it can find in the contemplation of such an outlook, combined with the fact that the party convention, ordered for this year, has been abandoned, and because there was absolutely no hope of harmony between its component parts.

The position of the government was defined in a way which will leave no doubt about it. The Bourassa-Monk combine was meant to undermine the popularity of the province in Quebec, and he carried the war into their territory by showing that he has been consistent, that he has stood by the programme of 1902, the programme for which both Bourassa and Monk voted, while there had been wobbling on the part of his opponents. That Montreal speech will be the text of the next election, and the text as well, and it will be important to note how far it will affect the result in the province of Quebec.

EDITORIAL NOTES.
About eight or ten girls from the institute are taking domestic science and perhaps a hundred manual training. What do you think of that for a choice?

Another picture show resort is talked of. Surely the city is pretty well equipped with these establishments now, or the people are going picture mad.

The council is loosening up towards the close of the year. Has the threat—the economists must go—had the desired effect? Usually about this time the aldermen grip the money bags with a firm hand.

There has been a shuffle in the McBride government. Hon. Mr. Bowser retires. It is alleged that he has differed with the premier on several matters. Unless he is a stronger man than when in Ontario a couple of years ago he will not be missed.

Madame Melba offended the people of Edmonton by failing to give the National Anthem at the close of her concert, and on the ground that her pianist was not familiar with the air. The receipts in Edmonton were 6,000, and of this sum the madame received $4,000.

ALLEGED LUMBER COMBINE.
Investigation Now Under Way by Department.
Washington, Oct. 12.—To determine if there is any foundation for numerous complaints received at the department of justice, alleging the existence of a "lumber trust," special agents of the department are quietly investigating the operations of a large number of trade associations and other organizations in all parts of the country connected with the manufacturing and marketing of lumber.

It is alleged that the price of dressed lumber is fixed by agreement and unduly raised by "powerful interests which control the lumber industry." Charges of "blackmailing, elimination of competition, and divisions of territory" are also made.

Too Many Hands.

HUNG UP IN SPACE

AWFUL EXPERIENCE OF A YOUNG SWISS LUMBERMAN.

2,400 Feet High for 13 Hours—Was Sitting on a Log Attached to Mountain Cable When Machinery Was Set in Motion.
Geneva, Oct. 12.—A man named Ferrari, twenty-three years of age, had a terrible experience in the village of Ludiano, in the Blenio Valley, Canton of Tessin.
He was sitting on a log which had not been detached from one of the electric cables which the lumbermen use for conveying timber from the mountains to the valley, when some one set the machinery in motion.
Ferrari was taken up along the cable into space to a height of 2,400 feet, and then the machinery was stopped, and he was left suspended in mid-air within fifty feet of the top of the mountain. He shouted himself hoarse, but no one heard him, and he was not discovered until thirteen hours later, when some workmen lowered the log into the valley. He was then almost unconscious, but recovered after medical treatment.
A rejected rival in a love affair, also was seen loitering near the electric works, has been arrested on a charge of tampering with the machinery.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

The Marshall Discussion.
Kingston, Oct. 11.—(To the Editor.)—I was somewhat surprised to read your editorial contribution to the Marshall discussion, as published in the Whig, of October 10th. Is it your idea of the Canadian spirit that it should advocate peace at any price, no matter what the sacrifice in national self-respect or honour; that, by declining to make our army and navy efficient, we should refuse to bear our share of the burden of the empire; that our principle of conduct, individual and national, should be based on the most absolute selfishness? If so, I beg to take sharp issue with you and in a matter that, in doing so, I stand with the great body of my fellow-citizens.

May I further express the hope that you do not offer the imbecility of a public utterance what was said to one in private conversations (unfortunately, as it would appear, without regard even to the accuracy of the quotation), or the disposition that prompts to run away from the fight and then shoot with poisoned bullets from a safe distance, as exemplifications of the Canadian spirit.

On all these points I am glad to find myself on the same side with Principal Gordon, Dr. Watson, Prof. V. E. Grant and the rest of the so-called "British group."—J. McDonald Mowat.

His Definition.
Newark, N.J.
Senator Albert B. Cummins at a Chautauqua banquet at Council Grove, Kansas, said of an unjust law:
"They declare the upholders of this law, that there are compensations to its injustice, but such talk reminds me of a conversation between two Des Moines men."
"What is this 'see compensation, Bill'?" said the first man.
"Well," said Bill, "it's like this. If you blind me hear the better."
"Oh, I see," said the other. "For instance, if a feller's born with one leg shorter'n the other than the other leg is longer."

BIBLE SCHOOL MEETING

Held at Sydenham Street Methodist Church.
The fall meeting of the officers and teachers of Sydenham Street Methodist Bible school was held, Tuesday evening, about seventy-five persons interested were present. Reports from the different departments were read and showed advancement in the work. Rev. Thomas Neal was in the chair, and the superintendent, T. F. Harrison, conducted the business. F. R. Anglin, E. P. Jenkins, Misses I. Kidd, M. Bell, M. Anglin and S. Jenkins were appointed delegates to the annual Sunday school convention in Oshawa. Mrs. Barnett, Miss E. Norris and Miss H. Anglin were appointed as alternate. Elder Davis gave an address on "Lesson Helps; Their Use and Abuse," which was listened to with interest. Mrs. Barnett also gave an address on "How I Interest My Class."
Tea was served under the management of the primary and intermediate departments. Some new teachers and officers were added to the staff.
A new department is being added to the Bible school. It is called the junior grade. It has been recommended by the International Sunday School Association and will be given a trial. Frank Anglin will be superintendent of it. It will not be started just yet, as alterations are being made in the building, but it is expected that these will be completed by the end of the month.

J. P. HANLEY HONORED. EXTEND WATERWORKS WHARF

By Being Made a Chief of the Huron Indians.
At the close of the Ticket Agents' convention, held at Quebec, on October 8th, a visit was paid to the Huron Indians of Lorette. The railway officials were greeted with songs and dances, and their wives were presented with nosegays by the Indian belles. But the most picturesque feature of the reception took place when J. P. Hanley, the retiring president of the association, was surrounded by six or seven chiefs, who, amid lively steps, war-whoops and blood-stirring gestures, led him to a platform, where he was given a title of honorary chief of the Huron nation and, according to custom, christened Owinde Kowindike, which means in plain English, "the mild and popular man."
After a few passed, secret signs, yells and throwing of feathered boomerangs in the air, Mr. Hanley was declared fully adopted by the tribe, and presented with flowers, meagascans and the Great Manitou knows what else.
Mr. Hanley thanked the chiefs and the tribe in a speech that a French gentleman conversant with English and Huron, translated in the language of the tribes, and the whole party returned to Quebec, walking respectfully and at a safe distance behind the mighty new Chief Owinde Kowindike.

EVERYBODY IS MAKING A HANDKERCHIEF SHIRTWAIST.
With the tailored street suit of worsted or mohair material there should be a smart blouse, which is valued when the coat is slipped off in tenor or restaurant. Handkerchief blouses—made from huge squares of Persian printed cotton stuff—are the particular fad of the autumn and very easy are these gay blouses to make. One has simply to arrange the squares on the pattern so that the design will fall gracefully on the figure, add a satin collar and belt and bright metal buttons, and behold the smartest sort of shirtwaists for every day wear.
