At the Orpheum Theatre on Sunday Afternoon-A Strong Appeal to Raise Men to a Higher Plane.

The Orpheum Theatre was filled to mass meeting for men, addressed er of interesting stories to illustrate. Sunday afternoon address will never be forgotten by those who were fortunate enough to be present and hear him. Elmer Davis, occupied the chair, and introduced the speaker, and the secretary of the local Y.M.C.A., E. F. Trimble and prominent workers, in the association, occupied seats on the platform. The quartette of Bethel enurch favored with a fine selection.

The speaker, in his opening remarks tated that he agreed with the writer, who said, "an honest man, is the poblest thing in life." A great many nen were dishonest, and were not conscious of the fact. He appealed to all, to square themselves, if they were not as honest as they should be. For instance, was a man honest, who while his grocer, to whom he cwed money, had to take a 35-cent seat, in the gallery? But still there was other side to the question, apart from the financial. We should always be ready to give a helping hand to every man. We appeared to be too carer to give a man a push, when he was going down the hill. There should brotherly love, a desire to raise men People Were Content to Take Things to a higher plane. The haud of Caris-

It was a most fitting closing, to a stirring appeal for Christian service.
