HOW WE MAY AVOID

THE CATCHING OF INFECTIOUS DISEASES.

Lecture by Prof. A. P. Knight on Infectious Diseases and the Public Health—Interesting Descriptions of the Diseases—Keep Healthy is the Antidote.

The course of lectures on "The Conservation of Life," which Prof. A. P. Knight is delivering to the Queen's University Theological Alumni, are of great public interest, and would have been the best possible subjects to have constituted the evening sessions of the alumni, so that the public could have had an opportunity of hearing them. This afternoon, Prof. Knight's subject was, "Infectious Diseases and How to Avoid Them."

The lecturer gave a detailed talk concerning infectious diseases in relation to the public health. There are between thirty and thirty-five infectious diseases caused by microbes and germs. Five or six of these are due, perhaps, to animal germs, and the rest to plants. Germs are parasites outside of inside a man's body. Most of them are plant parasites, and because so, they live and die according to the laws of plant life. They must have a suitable soil and the soil varies with the kind of bacteria. Some bacteria grow on the skin, as ringworm; on the scalp, a barber's itch; inside infants' mouths, as thrush; in the throat, as diphtheria. The tubercular plant grows usually in the lungs, but may grow in any part of the body. Some grow along like tetanus. Lockjaw grows up and down the covering of the spinal column.

As to animal parasites, the best example, Prof. Knight said, was one of malarial fever. This little animal lives in the blood and is carried from one being to another by the mosquito. Next is the animal parasite which produces yellow fever, and which is also carried by the mosquito. Smallpox and scarlet fever are also believed to be animal parasites, but these as yet have not been isolated. These parasites must have suitable soil for their growth. They must have warmth, or they will not grow. They must have also moisture and darkness. All disease producers are killed by sunlight, which is a splendid disinfectant. These micro-organisms resemble plants in another way. They must be in the body for a certain time before being abundant enough to produce symptoms of disease.

The next point is, How do they produce disease? When these microbes grow on the outside of the body they destroy flesh, and that is the origin of flesh prodigiosa, pain or itch. In case of micro-organisms growing on the innermost parts of the body, they also destroy tissue or flesh or blood. In the case of consumption of the lungs the destroyers are in the lungs, but may grow in any part of the body. Some grow along like tetanus. Lockjaw grows up and down the covering of the spinal column.

THEY SAW BALLOON

IT WAS GOING IN ST. JOHN DIRECTION.

It Was Flying High—Looked Yellow in Color, and Appeared to be the Size of an Ordinary Cabbage.

Roberval, Que., Oct. 26.—It is reported that several people in the north part of St. Felicien parish, in St. John district, saw a balloon passing, at three o'clock, in the afternoon of October 19th. It was seen for ten minutes and it disappeared from sight going off in the Missisquoi and North Lake-St. John direction. It was very high up, looked yellow because of its size, and was the size of an ordinary cabbage. No further reports since.

A DIVER'S NARROW ESCAPE.

John Quirt Unconscious at Bottom of Harbor.

John Quirt, diver, had a narrow escape from death while at work at the bottom of the harbor, this morning. He was engaged at the waterworks in taking pipe, which is being tested for leaks, and while down the second time, he became unconscious, and was hauled to the surface in that condition, but soon revived. The water at the place where the pipe was being examined is sixty-two feet deep. Diver Quirt had gone down once and remained for over an hour, searching for a valve that had to be closed so that a pressure test of a section of the pipe could be made. He came up for a rope and some other article, and went down again. This time he was down nearly three-quarters of an hour, but having had a signal from the diver for some time, Louis Thibault, who was in charge of the diver's pump and ropes, ordered that Mr. Quirt be hauled up, which was done, and it was found that the diver was unconscious, as he was perfectly inert, and had to be hauled bodily to the boat, the place being about 400 yards out from the waterworks wharf. His uniform was hurriedly removed, and when he got lots of air, the diver revived. He had a narrow escape, however, for had he not been hauled up at the time he would possibly have met death. He did not seem to feel any after-effects. When asked how long he had been unconscious, Diver Quirt could not say. He did not know how long it was after going down for the purpose of being hauled up at the time he self lapsing into unconsciousness. He may have been in that condition for half an hour. The uniform and air arrangements seemed to be all right. This afternoon, one of the Donnelly company's regular divers was secured to continue operations at the pipe.

Officers Were Elected at Meeting on Tuesday Evening.

A meeting of the City Basketball League was held on Tuesday evening for the purpose of re-organizing for the coming season. Representatives from different teams were present. Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Honorary president, William McEvedy; president, William J. Laird; first vice-president, W. M. Moore; secretary, Harvey Gilpin; treasurer, Harry Wilson. R. H. Higgins representing John Milne and sons, Montreal, was present and on behalf of the firm presented the league with a Spalding official basketball. The executive recommended that a letter be sent to all business houses of the city asking them to enter a team. After the business of the evening, the retiring officers entertained the newly appointed officers to an oyster supper. A meeting will be held next Tuesday evening for the purpose of entering the teams and drawing up a schedule for the season.

R.C.H.A. Enters Two Teams.

The Royal Canadian Horse Artillery is entering two teams in the Y.M.C.A. Thanksgiving Day road race. "A" battery has the following team entered: Privates Stinson, Carter, Galy, Carlie, Owen, Macdonald, while "B" battery is entering Privates Skippin, Blue, Coulson, Olsen, Morrison and Blodreau. With teams from Queen's and Y.M.C.A., and probably the Maple Leafs, a record-breaking trophy is expected. No doubt the club trophy has a lot to do with the large entry list. The cups and medals are now on exhibition in the windows of Kinnear & Esterre.

LOCATED AT INVERARY.

Horse Supposed to Have Been Stolen.

Reports were received in the city Wednesday that a horse supposed to have been stolen from a man named Churchill had been recovered near Inverary. It is believed to be the same horse which a man endeavored to sell to a local liveryman a few days ago, reference to which was made in the Whig on Tuesday. The man could not get any person to identify him, so the liveryman did not buy the horse as he was rather afraid that the horse did not belong to the man. The fellow offered to sell the horse very cheap, in fact several dollars less than it was really worth. Interested parties are making inquiries into the case.

Redskins at the Bijou.

A powerful Indian drama "Iron Heart the Medicine Man" or "An In-dian's Gratitude" is the top-line at The Bijou to-day and Thursday. It tells the story of a couple of white gold seekers, who discover a rich gold mine, but are detested by the red men. The camp is raided and the whites captured. They are about to be tortured when the chief's son is taken ill. The medicine man is powerless to cure him, and this is accomplished by one of the white prisoners. The medicine man is imprisoned, but escapes reaches the gold camp, and finds the hidden gold. The Indians pursue, and there is a wild chase on land and in canoe. The play has lots of excitement. To-day it will be accompanied by "The Aviation Craze" and "Making and Selling Aeroplanes." Tomorrow there will be a fine comedy with it, entitled "The Count of Montebello." C. B. S. Harvey sings in the afternoons and H. Mahson evenings.

Received a Call.

Rev. J. A. McConnell, of Roslin, Ont., in the Kingston presbytery, has received a call to Vernon, in the presbytery of Ottawa. The call will come before presbytery at its next session.
