

TO CONSIDER

Subject of Federation of the Empire.

AT BIG CONVENTION

TO BE SUMMONED IN LONDON NEXT YEAR.

This Decision Arrived at Among the Leaders of Government and Opposition—Ireland Was the Stumbling Block—Details of Local Government to be Worked Out.

London, Nov. 4.—It may now be announced, on the best of authority, that the conference of the leaders of the government and of the opposition to consider the question of the House of Lords will result in holding a broad constitutional convention next year, which will deal with the whole subject of the federation of the British empire. This degree of understanding among the leaders has been reached during the past three weeks, whereas a month ago, no agreement seemed possible. Its explanation is the remarkable growth in favor of the federation among political men of all classes.

Ireland, of course, was the chief stumbling block. It was found that even the most radical members of the government, including Winston Churchill and Mr. Lloyd-George, were strongly opposed to giving Ireland the degree of independence possessed by Canada and Australia. They were willing to concede to similar relations to the imperial government, as Ontario holds to the Dominion of Canada. The unionist leaders are ready to compromise on the Irish question on that basis.

The details of local government for Scotland, Wales and England must be worked out next year at the convention. Meantime the constitutional question will be left in abeyance, in parliament, by mutual agreement between both parties. Mr. Redmond will be deprived of all power to embarrass the government, the unionists, if necessary, voting with the cabinet.

PURE FABRICATION.

Story About Maine Branded as Canard.

Washington, Nov. 4.—The statement of Capt. Jasper Ewing Brady that the United States government before the declaration of war against Spain, was in possession of evidence that the battleship Maine had been blown up by a Cuban is not taken seriously here.

Rear Admiral Richard Wainwright, who was executive officer of the Maine, is on duty at the navy department, chief of staff, says it is untrue that a piece of the cable leading from the mine under the Maine to Morro Castle was at the navy department. The divers did not find any such cable. Wainwright says that there was no jury board investigation and that Brady could not have been on a war department board.

The story about the cable was printed in all the newspapers about the time of the investigation by the navy in 1898.

Gen. Allen, chief of the signal corps in the war department, says that Brady was a telegraph operator and magazine writer, but he never held that he was on a board of investigation.

"SIAMESE" TRIPLET KITTENS.

All Attached, and are Varied in Color.

Middleport, N.Y., Nov. 4.—Tigris, a large cat owned by James Albion, has just given birth to three kittens, which are all fastened along the length of their sides to one another, their heads are all faced one way, and almost in a line, and they are perfect in head, body and legs, all three being able to stand at the same time and walk. They are quite bright and active. Owing to their peculiar color, being reddish calico, white and Maltese they have been named Pal, White and Blue. Two other kittens complete the litter.

CALLS PUP AFTER PRESIDENT.

So States are Asked to Muzzle Habit Honduras.

New Orleans, Nov. 4.—Strongly entrenched on the little island, Amalpa, Gen. Valladares defies the government of Honduras.

Noted for his hatred of foreigners, Valladares recently publicly announced that he had named his dog "Tah," in order to show his contempt for the American government.

Therefore, as the Honduran government has a very small army, and as Valladares has several machine guns, it is thought that President White has announced, already, that the work on the west wing will not resume until the assembly of the members beyond the time when the government considers it best to call them together, but the venture was made in one direction to-day that the 1911 and 1912 sessions might be held in March, in which case the legislature might be meeting late enough in 1912 to pass in review the redistribution measure of the dominion government, insofar as it affected the Ontario divisions, as well as to deal with the census returns which will be delayed in reaching the public owing to the later date, since in which the work begins next year. That there will be some changes made by this province before the next local elections is being taken for granted in both political parties.

TWENTY PINTS OF IT.

To Drink Beer Every Day for Month.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 4.—Having solved to his own satisfaction several weighty questions concerning the problem of existence, Col. Abe Slapsky, politician, philosopher and reality owner, will make an exhaustive test of man's capacity for beer.

He has made a bet of $100 against $250 with two directors of a brewery that he can drink twenty pints of condensed beer every day for thirty days, Sundays excepted. The total quantity to be consumed is 600 pints, which equals 300 quarts, seventy-five gallons or two whole barrels of beer. Col. Slapsky entered into the second day of his test today, by taking two bottles of beer at the Jefferson hotel bar and following these with others from the bars at the Rouser, Planters and Maryland.

For each pint he drinks the waiter or bartender gives him a receipt, and the receipts must be exhibited to the two directors as an evidence of good faith.

"I've got a system," said Col. Abe with a sly wink. "Of course that's a whole lot more of beer than I have been drinking, as my daily average is eight to ten pints. I'm going to win, though, on account of that system, the nature of which I cannot disclose. I will only say that I drink the beer, and that name of it is thrown away."

SHOT A SILVER FOX.

St. Louis Man in Custody on a Fraud Charge—Tells Why He's Glad He's Arrested.

New York, Nov. 4.—Alfred Syret was arrested and arraigned as fugitive from justice from St. Louis, where he is wanted for real estate frauds alleged to amount to between $200,000 and $300,000. He took his arrest philosophically, saying:

"I'm glad to be arrested. I was working here on $50 a week. I wasn't satisfied with $1,000 a week in St. Louis, because some weeks I made $15,000. Now I can go back where I have friends and I can't fight it out."

He is a dapper little man who has been chased all over this country and England for the past four years by private detectives.

He was arrested in the subway after living in Jamaica, L.I., for more than a year with his wife and children.

Syret was held pending application from Missouri for his extradition.

Since leaving St. Louis he has wandered through Central America, the far west of this country, England and other territories where he has always managed to make a living and wear the right sort of clothes. He was caught in San Francisco once, but got a bondsman and skipped his bail.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

The Session May Not Open Till March.

Toronto, Nov. 4.—Rumors of a delay in the calling of the session of the legislature until March instead of in January as was expected are current, and March 20th is even mentioned as a possible date. Sir James Whitney has announced, already, that the work on the west wing will not resume until the assembly of the members beyond the time when the government considers it best to call them together, but the venture was made in one direction to-day that the 1911 and 1912 sessions might be held in March, in which case the legislature might be meeting late enough in 1912 to pass in review the redistribution measure of the dominion government, insofar as it affected the Ontario divisions, as well as to deal with the census returns which will be delayed in reaching the public owing to the later date, since in which the work begins next year. This pledge was kept, the Post declares, and the money was used in New York state. This incident, it asserts, immediately preceded the visit of E. H. Harriman to Mr. Roosevelt, which resulted in the railroad king turning over $200,000 to the republican campaign fund and with which, Harriman later declared, "30,000 votes were turned to the republican party in New York City alone."

WERE ARDENT

The Letters Passed Between Divorced Pair.

DAILY MEETINGS

THEY HAD BEEN GOING ON FOR TEN YEARS.

The Couple Courted After They Were Divorced—The Man Said He Would End Himself in the River—What Was Disclosed at a Coroner's Inquiry.

London, Nov. 4.—An extraordinary story of a courtship after divorce was told at Westminster coroner's court recently when John Troubeck conducted an enquiry with reference to the death of Eugene Henry, aged forty-four, a medical student, lately of High Street, Leamington, who was found drowned in the Thames.

Henry Henry, dentist, High Street, Leamington, stated that the deceased, his brother, had lived with him for twenty years. He had been married, but divorced his wife ten years ago. There were no children. The witness recognized as being in his brother's handwriting the following letter, which the latter sent to the woman whom he had divorced:

Dear Mary—Adieu! When you get this I shall be in the river. I am slowly dying, like you, of insomnia and a consuming fever. If you wish to follow me, make no disturbance or you may be arrested, and then at liberty to follow my example—Yours in haste, EUGENE.

The coroner said that since the divorce Henry had written his former wife a number of most affectionate letters. They were certainly not the kind of letters a man would usually write to a divorced wife. "In one letter," added Mr. Troubeck, "he speaks of absence making the heart grow fonder, and concludes: 'With best love and millions of kisses, Eugene.' On another occasion he wrote: 'I regret to say that while I was away they sacked my desk and boxes and took our photos which were taken on Clapham Common.'"

The witness? Yes, that would be about seven years ago.

The coroner asked that since then Henry had signed himself, "Your fond and devoted lover, Eugene," and "Yours ever, Eugene."

The witness? Yes, he seemed afraid of her.

The coroner: There are all kinds of reasons for writing long love-letters, but threats are unusual.

Mary Henry, otherwise Kenn, of Belenden Road, Peckham, stated that she was Henry's wife until ten years ago, when he divorced her. She last saw Henry on Wednesday, October 5th. They went for a walk, in the course of which he told her that she would not see him again, and asked her to go with him into the river. She asked whether the letters from which the coroner had read extracts were written to her by Henry subsequent to the divorce, the witness replied in the affirmative, adding: "I have had a pile of letters that high (indicating about twelve inches). She went on to say that he told her that he was miserable at home, and lived a terrible life with his mother, who was bitter against the witness. He also said that he did not wish to part from her, and that it was his mother who got the divorce."

The coroner: Do you mean to suggest that the mother of a man of thirty-four as he then was, could make him divorce his wife, and that he would go on secretly seeing his wife every day and write her love letters for ten years, and then commit suicide because he was so miserable at home?

The witness: Yes, but he did not tell me that he was going to commit suicide until yesterday week, when he was on his knees and asked me to go with him. I said, "Where are you going?" and he replied, "Into the river."

It was not true, said the witness, that she had been threatening him. He used to feel because he had to part from her, and he had said that he would sooner die than give her up. She did not have a chance of defending the divorce case, and what was alleged against her was not true. She used to meet her former husband daily.

In summing up the coroner said that one heard some very remarkable things occasionally in that court, but this case certainly revealed a most extraordinary manner of living. The woman had produced the letters of an ardent lover, showing what Henry's feelings undoubtedly were towards her—those of ardent affection.

The jury returned a verdict of suicide during temporary insanity.

WHAT CONFERENCE MEANS.

Our Mutual Benefit and Reciprocal Advantage.

Ottawa, Nov. 4.—Henry M. Hoyt and Charles M. Pepper, of the United States government, arrived here, at noon, for the purpose of holding a conference, in company with Hon. Mr. Foster, United States consul-general, with the Hon. W. S. Fielding, minister of finance, and other representatives of the Canadian government on the subject of reciprocity.

That the meeting is for the purpose of resuming friendly negotiations begun last spring, interchanging views, and discussing the general situation, was the statement made by Mr. Pepper and Mr. Hoyt in an interview at noon.

"Have you power from the United States government to deal finally with the question," they were asked, "or is this series of meetings only preliminary?"

"We cannot answer that," was the reply. "That depends on the Canadian officials. This meeting, however, while in one sense merely a resumption of previous negotiations, is bound to be of very great importance. These conferences are for our mutual benefit and reciprocal advantage," concluded Mr. Pepper, who was the principal spokesman during the interview. If they don't result in that they will be of no use."

Drove Horse Into Drain.

Last evening, while driving along Division street, E. H. Snider, grocer, drove his horse into the open drain at the Queen street corner. In the darkness, neither driver nor horse observed the hole in the road, consequently the outfit went in. A man, who was passing at the time, helped Mr. Snider extricate the horse from its uncomfortable position.
