SNAKE AVENGED MATE.
Hunter Who Killed Rattler Was Bitten
by Another Reptile.

Arthur J. Serventi, of Newburgh, N. Y., went to Pike county, Pennsylv., in quest of deer. When a short distance from Eldred, while following deer tracks, he came across sixteen rattlesnakes sunning themselves on a rock. As he approached the two largest started up. Serventi shot the foremost, and in endeavoring to get away, he fell. The snake, which was near him, at once struck his right hand, puncturing his forefinger at about the second joint.

Serventi realized the situation, and as soon as he could get to a safe distance he took his hunting knife, cut open his finger and sucked out the poison. He hired a rig, drove to Eldred, and had his hand treated by a physician. By this time the hand and arm had swollen to great size.

A day or two afterwards, with his guide, he visited the rock, found the snakes in the sun, killed the big snake that had bitten him and captured the entire family of fourteen small snakes, which the guide says are about six months old.

LOOKING FOR HER HUSBAND.
Mrs. James Seabrook, of Brighton, Seeking Information.

Mrs. James Seabrook, of Brighton, Ont., is very anxious to find her husband, James Seabrook. She has not heard from him in some time, and is very anxious to know if he is in good health. She has written to see if he is in Kingston, and it is hoped that if he sees this reference, he will write to Brighton at once. Mrs. Seabrook says that the last word she had from her husband was that he was very ill, in an hospital, with blood-poisoning. It is stated that a son of the missing man is a miller, working on a boat sailing between Kingston and Cobourg.

HE ALMOST SPOKE.
Dumb Man Made Woman Remove Her Big Hat.

At the Theatre Royal, Dublin, during a performance of "The Dollar Princess," a young man seated in the circle behind a woman wearing an enormous hat attracted some attention immediately after the curtain rose by vigorously gesticulating with his hands.

Finding that his dumb motions were of no avail, the man took a card from his pocketbook. After hastily scribbling on it, he handed it to the young woman, who read the words, "I cannot speak a word—please remove your hat." The young woman immediately removed her hat.

GIVEN THREE MONTHS

WAS FOUND GUILTY OF STEALING OVERCOAT.

Purloined it at Revere Hotel. But Police Nabbed Him at G.T.R. Station, Where He Was Awaiting a Train—John Sullivan and William Broder Under Arrest on Charge of Theft.

An overcoat, a pair of shoes and a pair of rubbers lay upon the table in police court Monday morning and they were all important in a couple of cases which came before the magistrate.

John Sullivan was accused of stealing the shoes and the rubbers, and William Broder was charged with stealing the overcoat. Sullivan was remanded until Wednesday and Broder was given three months in jail.

Broder is a mariner and was recently employed on the steamer Beavoile. Sullivan is a farmer.

When accused of stealing the shoes and rubbers Sullivan said that he did not remember anything about them. The charge was that he had taken them from Abernethy's store. He had been drinking. He had bought a pair of shoes in this store but he did not remember taking anything out of the store.

However, he pleaded hard for the magistrate to be lenient with him, stating that his wife was ill in the Hotel Dieu and that he had no person to look after his children. It was four years since he had been in police court. He was also ready to place himself on the "prohibited list" if given a chance.

Bert Abernethy identified the goods produced as belonging to his store. He did not know they had been taken from his store until Constable Naylor, who arrested Sullivan, came to his store and asked him about it. The shoes and rubbers had been taken from the front of the store.

Constable Naylor told his story. He said that Saturday evening about 7:30 o'clock, he answered a call to the Seven Cent store, owned by McIntosh Bros., Princess street. Sullivan was in the store and one of the clerks told him that he had stolen some goods.

The clerk stated that he had taken some Scotch plaid. While in the store he also had with him a pair of shoes and a pair of rubbers. Constable said that he asked the accused to give an explanation as to where he secured the goods, whereupon Sullivan told him that it was none of his business. Witness then took the accused to the police station and on the way Sullivan swore at him and tried to get away, but he locked him up. The accused also had a purse and a lock in his possession and witness went into the Knox store to make an investigation. The girl at the counter stated she had not sold any of this kind of locks for some time. It was also stated that the accused had been in the store and had been ordered out.

Matthew Joyce, of the McIntosh store, said he chased Sullivan after one of the girls in the store reported to him that he had taken some goods from in front of the store. He caught up to him and Sullivan dropped the goods into his arms and then ran away. Fifteen minutes later the accused came into the store again and asked for the goods and then a call was sent to the police. Sullivan had been drinking, but was smart enough to get around.

Sullivan told the magistrate that some years ago he had been kicked by a horse and that now, when he commenced to drink, he would lose his memory and that he did not know what he was doing.

The magistrate said he would remand him until Wednesday.

When William Broder was accused of the theft of an overcoat, he said that he did not know any of the circumstances, and the man who lost the overcoat, and one of the constables were called to enlighten him on the matter.

John Storms was the man who lost the overcoat, and he told how he had lost it. He had been at the Revere hotel, and hung his coat on a peg in the waiting room. A young fellow in the hotel told about an overcoat being missing, and when he came to make an investigation, found that his overcoat was his. He immediately got busy and told the police. Constables Craig and Bateson went out on the case, and Broder, who was located at the waiting room, at the G.T.R. station, was wearing an overcoat, which Storms identified as belonging to him.

The constables asked Storms how he could identify the coat.

"Well, I had a parcel of fish in one pocket and some eggs in the other," he replied.

The long arm of one of the constables went deep into one pocket, and out came a parcel of fish. Then the other pocket was searched. And sure enough the eggs came out. Then Broder was taken to the police station.

Broder told the magistrate that he had been drinking, and that he had been employed on the steamer Beavoile. His home was in Plattsburgh, N.Y., and he was on his way home. He had a ticket purchased and was just waiting for a train, when the police nabbed him.

Broder contended that he had taken the coat in mistake, as he had a coat of his own. Storms said that he (Broder) might have taken the coat by mistake.

The magistrate decided to give the accused three months in jail.

THE MYSTERY OF THE MANNA.

A Splendid Sermon by Prof. Jordan, at Queen's.

That deep sense of spiritual earnestness which usually characterizes sermons preached by Prof. W. G. Jordan, again permeated his remarks in convocation hall, Sunday afternoon when he spoke to a large audience on "The Mystery of The Manna."

Something of the mystic is always hoped for from Dr. Jordan, and on Sunday his hearers were not altogether disappointed. He dealt for a time with the book of Deuteronomy, pointing out its two-fold form in offering, both law and moral instruction. The law contained herein, said Dr. Jordan, was not meant for the legal profession of that time, but for the common man to bring his life into a harmony with truth. But it is with the second characteristic that he dealt, with more specifically, that portion of the book which may be defined as preaching. Here in this chapter is sounded the note of warning, "Lest we forget." In all our present prosperity and material strength we must not become great in our own conceit, we must remember that the wisdom of the ages, the trials and tribulations of generations long past have given to us our present product of plenty. It is often when we are apt to forget God that He introduces the mystery and we are drawn into the wilderness of darkness and despair, but if we believe in a God at all we must believe that His hand is behind it all, and that through the trial, he is speaking to us, offering us a clearer and larger revelation of the divine life together, with a bigger and better acquaintance with self.

Dr. Jordan's text was chosen from Deuteronomy viii, 2.

DR. MACKIE'S HOT ROAST

Of Rich Men Who Leave Nothing to Hospitals.

In making an appeal in behalf of the general hospital, at the Sunday morning service in St. Andrew's church, Rev. Dr. Mackie said that there was a mortgage upon the institution and that those who could have wiped it out before now and in doing so would have been laying up treasures in heaven.

"One wealthy citizen after another, in no way distinguished for liberality, wealth or living, but some of them otherwise, has crossed to the other side, whose last will and testament, when probated, has shown for times which not many of our citizens could amass, but not a bequest great or small for the charitable institutions of the city. They have failed to do a religious duty, even when the doing of it would not have injured relative or friend."

"It might be well," continued Dr. Mackie, "if newspapers reserved their lavish praise of dead rich men and women till they knew what was the disposition of their wealth. I shall not readily forget the funeral oration over one who died immensely rich, immensely so in my way of thinking, who left not a cent to charity in any form. The lying eulogy concluded with these words: 'He hath left us an example that we should follow in his steps.' 'God forbid,' my hearer said, 'that I or my fellow-citizens should put our bet in such prints: God forbid, I say again after years of reflection.'"

HIDING ON THE "BUMPER."

A Dangerous Practice Indulged in by Boys.

According to a complaint, which has been made, a number of young boys have been jumping on the freight trains of late, and riding the "bumpers" to Napawan and Ganawan. On Sunday, the G.T.R. has been doing everything possible to stop the practice. The police have also been notified, and if any of the guilty parties are caught, they will be summoned to appear before the magistrates. A word to the wise should be sufficient.

DOINGS AT Y.M.C.A.

WEEK OF PRAYER MEETING THIS EVENING.

Large Attendance at Song Service—Preparations Being Made for the Five Mile Race Next Saturday—Smith Bros. Give a Medal.

The song service, which has been a weekly affair for some time past, was held in the parlors last evening, and from every point of view, was the best yet. W. A. Beecroft, of Queen's University favored the boys with a couple of selections, which were appreciated. Mr. Beecroft possesses a fine voice. The crowd last night was the largest of all gatherings, the front room being filled. The boys sang the hymns with a lustiness and fervor that showed the spirit beneath. The song services have become very popular among the young men, and in view of the fact that this is only the fourth one held, the boys have not been long in catching the spirit.

Queen's students in their rush Saturday night, carried away the sign board from in front of the building, and took it over to the college. The officers of the institution did not begrudge them the fun they had over it, as the board is quite heavy.

This is the week of prayer for the Y.M.C.A. the world over, and meetings will be held in the building every night this week, starting at 9:15 o'clock. The meetings will take the form of a song and prayer service and will be addressed by prominent business men of the town. To-night Elmer Davis will speak. Every one is invited to attend.

Preparations are being made for the postponed Y.M.C.A. road race which is to be run off Saturday, Nov. 19th, in the afternoon. It was decided by the physical committee that it was best to run the race over again on account of the fact—that the right course was not pursued the last time.

A protest was entered by Kerr, of Queen's. The race will be run off once the same course, and will be managed by the same officials. An effort will be made to secure the services of two automobiles for use of officials, as it was shown at the Harrier race Saturday afternoon, that one automobile going ahead, pointed out the course for the runners and no difficulty in determining the right course arose.

The track this time will go only as far as Frontenac street, which is the original course, which Watts of the R.M.C. pursued, when he set the record for five miles in the city. Smith Bros. Jewellers, have awarded a medal for the man coming in second, but who will put up the cup for first place is not known. Joseph Adams, the Y.M.C.A. runner, who finished first in the race, is training hard and will be in splendid condition for Saturday. Kerr, the Queen's man ran in the Harrier race last Saturday, and finished second. John Watts, of Toronto, the Harrier runner, will lead a team to compete with the other runners. Jackson, who finished third in the last race, is expected to make a good showing again.

The Y.M.C.A. senior gym class formed their basketball league last evening. Games will start next Friday, at 9 o'clock. Two games will be played per week. One Monday evening and one Friday evening. The league will last until Christmas.

The schedule is—Nov. 18, Boarpey vs. Pense; Nov. 21st, Hawley vs. Holland; Nov. 23rd, Gillespie vs. Boarpey; Nov. 25th, Pense vs. Hawley; Dec. 2nd, Holland vs. Boarpey; Dec. 5th, Pense vs. Gillespie; Dec. 9th, Hawley vs. Boarpey; Dec. 12th, Gillespie vs. Holland; Dec. 16th, Pense vs. Holland; Dec. 19th, Hawley vs. Gillespie.

"Re-Form" Arch Support

The term Flat Foot is used not only to indicate an aggravated form of the disease, breaking down or depression of the arch of the foot, but also where there is a tendency to the arch weakening, which is correctly diagnosed as Flat Foot.

The person may have a high instep arch, and yet suffer seriously from the early stage of Flat Foot. The cause is that the foot muscles and the ligaments and tissue membranes become strained or weakened to a degree that unfit it for carrying the body's weight. The RE-FORM Arch Support at this time is recommended, as it is stretched sufficiently tight to uphold the instep arch until these ligaments and muscles become normal and active to perform their natural function.

RE-FORM Arch Supports also re-forms a depressed arch, or when the foot is in a more advanced stage of flat foot. It is correctly shaped after anatomical lines, and the plate is of German Silver, the side slots have curved openings at their exterior plate end, which prevents breaking and rolling, and also gives the spring naturally required.

In addition to wearing a RE-FORM Arch, massage treatment is advisable, as the muscles quickly respond and soon become normally healthy.
