AFTER DOCTOR'S FAILED
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Her.
Toronto, Canada. "I shall endeavor to describe to you how I felt before I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I scarcely knew what it was to be well. I had awful bearing-down pains and usually before my monthly periods I suffered terribly and had to go to bed. I was not able to walk across the floor the pain was so bad. I floored for a long time, but the doctor's treatment did not do me any good. I gave up all hopes of ever being well again until one day my husband saw the Compound advertised in the paper. He decided to get me a bottle, and I am thankful he did. I had not taken one bottle before I began to feel better, and I kept on taking it until now I am a different woman. It also helped me during maternity and childbirth. I can thoroughly recommend your Vegetable Compound to any woman who is afflicted with female troubles."
Mrs. J. M. TWEEDALE, 138 Nassau St., Toronto, Canada.
The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

BURIED THE KNIFE

GHASTLY DETAILS OF SLAYING OF MISS CRIPPEN.

Turbulent Domestic Relations Led to the Murder—The Confession Said to Have Been Made to a Friend.

London, Nov. 24.—The Evening Times, besides publishing what purports to be a confession, declares that the knife which Crippen used in mutilating Belle Elmore's body was buried in the garden of the Crippen home at 29 Hill-top-crescent, North London, and will soon be found.
The Times puts these words into the mouth of Crippen: "My wife was a bad-tempered woman and led me a dreadful life, of which even my most intimate friends did not know."
"I was patient with her for years. I strove to hide our turbulent domestic relations. However, what I said in court about her threatening to leave me for another man was true. She made that threat to me and she constantly humiliated me. I had not thought of killing her until I was goaded to desperation and suddenly realized my position. When the blank hopelessness of the thing dawned upon me I became desperate."

The Times, continuing, relates the balance of the confession in the third person, at no time quoting Crippen as saying that he killed his wife.
According to the story, Belle Elmore, after returning from America, boasted to her husband that a rich man aboard the liner had offered to support her.
Crippen demanded, through his clenched teeth the name of the American who had made love to her.
The Times then dragged in the name of Bruce Miller, the Chicago man, making Belle Elmore Crippen say Crippen did not know that, while he was working hard in London, she was in America spending evening after evening in the company of her lover. Crippen related that thereafter he ceased to live with his wife; that they maintained separate apartments in their home. Crippen found a congenial companion in Ethel Le Neve and sought her company frequently. In the course of time he came to love her deeply. For some weeks before January 31st last, says the Times, Crippen's mind had but one thought, and that to get rid of his wife.
At the time Belle Elmore was suffering from indigestion and was getting very stout. She complained and asked her husband to prescribe something to reduce weight. He gave her some pills sold by the American Medical Agency for which he was working. Through January he said, she became more and more troublesome, until he finally determined to poison her. Then he bought the hyoscin and prepared the deadly pellets, similar in appearance to those she had been taking. This was after January 31st.

A party was given at the Crippen home on the night of January 31st. After the party, Crippen said his wife again began to boast of her love conquests. Crippen, goaded to desperation, hurried to his office early on the morning of February 1st to prepare a more deadly tablet. He was determined, said the Times, that his wife should die that day. That evening, when he returned home he found his wife dressing and no dinner ready.
The same evening he gave her a powerful dose of hyoscin. She fell into a stupor after taking it and within an hour was dead.
"Before the body was cold," the story continues, "Crippen had written a letter to the Music Hall Women's Guild, of which Belle Elmore was a member, declaring that his wife had gone to America."
"Crippen must have slept calmly in the same house with the corpse, for he said that he left the house at the usual hour the next day, after locking the door of Belle Elmore's chamber. He first visited Mrs. Martinetti, a friend of the family, before going to his office. After office hours he returned to remove all traces of the crime.
"A few days before that he had purchased a knife such as used by doctors in performing post-mortems. He went to his wife's chamber, unlocked the door and entered. His wife's body, clad only in a night robe, lay across the bed. Crippen dragged the body into the cellar, stretching it out upon the floor. First he cut off the head, then the hands and then the feet. Then he removed all the organs that would show the sex of the corpse. He removed the bones, carrying them to the kitchen, where he burned them in a stove.
The Times omits none of the ghastly details. It relates how Crippen buried the portions of the body, throwing the ashes among the other refuse, which was eventually carted away by the garbage collectors.
"This gruesome task occupied Crippen for some days," it says. "He had intended to burn the entire body, but a fit of horror and remorse overcame him and he could not complete the task."
"He buried the remainder in the cellar, digging loose the bricks with a spade and an old poker. He dug a hole, covered the body with quicklime and recovered it. He shovelled a quantity of coal over the floor, and set about to forget that such a person as Belle Elmore had ever existed."
"Shortly after this Ethel Le Neve arrived at Crippen's home, and was installed as housekeeper. Crippen was apparently secure in the thought that his deed would never be revealed."
"Crippen hid the poker and spade in the garden and buried the knife after washing them carefully."
In concluding the Times says that the confession was made to an old friend who visited Crippen in prison. Crippen, realizing that all hope for his life had passed, announced himself of everything.

LOUGHBORO PIONEER DEAD.

Elijah Spafford Passed Away on Nov. 13th.

Sydenham, Nov. 21.—With the passing away of Elijah Spafford, who died on Nov. 13th at his well-known residence, Spaffordton, near Sydenham, Loughboro loses one of its oldest and most respected residents. Deceased was eighty-seven years of age, and had been failing for the past six months, but death came suddenly at the last.
The late Elijah Spafford was born at Spaffordton, and had lived there all his life. He was a large property owner, a large farm, which is now owned by his son, with whom he lived. In religion he was a Methodist, a member of the Methodist church at Sydenham. He was a man who commanded the respect of all who knew him and was regarded as a man of sterling worth who lived up to his ideal. He was very kind-hearted, and what anyone was in trouble, he was one of the first to offer his services. In his younger days he was well-known in the city and carried the same good name here as he bore where he lived. He married Jane Cranston and to them were born six children, his wife having died some twenty years ago, and three of his daughters, Mrs. H. Counter died twenty-six years ago; Mrs. A. Valter eleven years ago and Mrs. Nyles Fisher six years ago. He now leaves one son, Moses, on the homestead, and two daughters, Mrs. W. Knapp, of Sydenham, and Mrs. G. Aykroyd, of Inverary; also seven grandsons, three granddaughters and fourteen great grandchildren. His funeral was largely attended, and took place, on Sunday, at 1.30 p.m., Nov. 13th, from his late residence to Sydenham cemetery, the service being conducted by the Rev. W. Hanna.

The C. P. R. Ownership.
Ottawa Citizen.
Rather surprising to most of us is the statement last week of Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, that 2,500 Canadians are shareholders in the C.P.R. In all, the C.P.R. has about 24,000 shareholders, hence barely one-tenth of the total shareholders are citizens of the country to which the big road is native. Canadians had imagined that the number of Canadians interested in railway was larger. However, as the shareholders owning the largest blocks of stock are Canadians, notably, the Bank of Montreal group, Stratheons, Shaughnessy, Van Horne, Angus, and others, the chances are that Canada owns a severe tenth of the entire amount of the stock.

And, for Canadians' sake, it is as it should be. An ex-Canadian cabinet minister, in private conversation last week, expressed the firm opinion that the resources behind it, with its excellent management and because through the widely extended area of its operations, no local misfortune would affect it, the C.P.R. stock would go above the three hundred mark. And as the prosperity that is behind this rising stock is made by Canadian industry, it is well that the profit, present and prospective, should, as far as possible, go into the pockets of Canadians.

Smallpox has again made its appearance in Toronto.

In Dread Of Piles.
Many believe that nothing short of the surgeon's knife will effect cure. They do not know.
DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT
The agony caused by the intense itching, the depressing and debilitating effect on the system, the dread lest a surgical operation might be necessary—these are the things which make piles or hemorrhoids so distressing.
The doctors have been recommending surgical operations as the only cure. But the surgical operation, with all its dangers and expense and pain, does not usually effect a lasting cure.
Many a case has been cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment, after the surgical operation had failed. Here is a case which doctors gave up.
J. Mawer, Roden, Man., writes: "Dr. Chase's Ointment is a wonderful preparation. I had itching piles for over six years, and though I tried two doctors' prescriptions and used many other preparations could not obtain much benefit. The doctor told me there was no cure for me, and that I would have to undergo an operation."
"I bought a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment and was completely cured in one week. As this was six months ago and there has been no return of the old trouble, I believe that the cure is a permanent one."
"One thing certain, Dr. Chase's Ointment will bring you relief from the dreadful itching and burning almost as soon as applied."
To make the cure thorough and lasting it is only necessary for you to keep up the treatment regularly and persistently. Don't be satisfied with relief. Dr. Chase's Ointment will cure completely if you will do your part. 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

TO KILL THE DANDRUFF GERM
Is the Only Possible Way of Having an Effective Cure.
If you see a woman or a man with luxuriant glossy hair, you may be sure neither has dandruff to amount to anything. In nearly every case where women and men have thin brittle hair, they owe it to dandruff. There are hundreds of preparations that "claim" to cure dandruff, but not one but Newbro's Herpicole tells you that dandruff is the result of a germ borrowing into the scalp, and that the permanent cure of dandruff and its consequent falling and baldness, can only be had by killing the germ; and there is no other preparation that will destroy that germ but Newbro's Herpicole. Destroy the cause, and you remove the effect."
Sold by leading druggists. Send 16c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicole Co., Detroit, Mich. One dollar bottles guaranteed.—James B. McLeod, special agent, Kingston, Ont.
