MARKED INCREASE

IN EXPORTS FROM KINGSTON IN LAST TWO MONTHS.

The Increase Was Nearly $10,000—Big Amount of Hay is Going From This District—Statement of the Exports for October and November.

The exports from Kingston to the United States during October and November were $9,758.65 more than they were in the same two months of 1909. The total was—For October and November, 1909, $55,655.26; for 1910, $67,513.91. The chief increases are in hay, mica and feldspar. There was quite a falling off in hides and skins. The following tabulated list of exports is reported by United States Consul Johnson to-day: Household goods, $11,064.75; plumage, $5,069.09; feldspar, $13,500.03; cattle, $216; returned goods, $306; peas, $6,163; hay, $6,470.25; lumber, $7,744.57; mica, $796.55; fish, $10,697.31; animal hair, $502.18; acetinolis (ground), $329; hides and skins, $1,253.08; fertilizers, $658.90. Total, $67,812.91.

HAY EXPORT OF HAY.

United States Buyers are Here Making Shipments.

The export of hay from this district to the United States still goes on. A year ago scarcely any hay went through to New York from here. During October and November $8,000 worth from Wolfe Island and surrounding townships was entered at Cape Vincent, and as much more is expected to be sent across the border during the next month, or so. There is a scarcity of hay in some of the northern states, and Canada will have to supply the deficiency.

Not Accustomed to It.

Patrons of the street cars have not yet become accustomed to using the one handle at the entrance of the cars. They still hold that it is better to have the two handles—even though some people do get off the bars backwards. Even the conductors find a vacancy when they jump on the ears after turning switches. Yesterday one conductor nearly fell off the car trying to get on by the aid of one handle as the car was moving.

To Talk Power Over Again.

The light, heat and power committee will meet this afternoon to hear representatives of the Seymour Power company, who are in the city to discuss the draft contract with the city. The committee will ask for better terms than the contract contains. It wants a double wire run to Kingston and also a longer time than five minutes for the basis of charge on the peak load. An hour is the usual basis.

Proposes Big Building.

W. D. Morris, of Ottawa, who owns the frame structure at the corner of Ontario and Clarence streets, intends next year, to erect a fine three-story building on that site. It is expected that the building will be finished inside of twelve months. The board of trade, it is said, will take one whole lot.

ST. ANDREW'S DINNER

HELD IN RANDOLPH HOTEL LAST EVENING.

The Haggis was Duly Honored—Speeches by Profs. Grant, Anderson and Dall—The Scotch Music Was Much Enjoyed.

St. Andrew's day was brought to a close, last evening, by a magnificent banquet in the Randolph hotel. Owing to several counter attractions elsewhere, the attendance was not as large as had been expected, but those who were there enjoyed themselves to the fullest extent. The bill of fare was a very excellent one, and a credit to the management of the hotel. The dining-room was very tastefully decorated for the occasion. Owing to the late arrival of some of the members, the dinner did not start until about nine o'clock. Vice-President J. McE. Mowat called upon the chaplain, Prof. John Dall, to say grace.

When the haggis was served, Alexander M. Chisholm led the procession and danced around the room, followed by Thomas McKimzie, and then J. W. Fraser, the piper, while Chef Beaudry came next, carrying the haggis on a platter. James Douglas Banker said grace.

At 10.30 o'clock Lieut.-Col. Strange opened the programme, at the request of Mr. Mowat, by a series of Scotch songs, which were enthusiastically received. "Toast to the King" was proposed and responded to by singing "God Save the King."

J. McE. Mowat said he was pleased in proposing the toast to "Canada," to be able to call upon Prof. W. L. Grant, of Queen's University, to respond. He spoke of Prof. Grant as the worthy son of a grand sire. Prof. Grant said this was a country of great problems. The greatest problem which we have before us is the Canadian. He said he was a great believer in his fellow-Canadians and fellow-Scotchmen. He told of an unlearned young man of twenty-one years, who had said that Canada was good enough for him. Taken in the sense that Canada's achievements and conditions were up to the mark, he was not right. Taken in the other sense of the condition here being good enough for his state, he was right. He spoke of the democracy here, and said if he were to deal with problems of democracy, we must have educated democracy. This is a problem especially for the Scotchmen of Canada. The government, both provincial and Dominion, has shown themselves alive to the need of conservation. He commended them on sending out the royal commission. What we most need in Canada are Canadians. Prof. Grant remarked that if the Dominion government, he would establish in connection with the medical faculty of a university, preferably McGill, an institute of public health, to prevent disease from coming into this country. He selected Montreal because this is where foreigners all land. Touching on the sciences, he said that the most important one was political science. He thought it should be recognized by legislators as being very important, and he would suggest a great school of political sciences either at Queen's or Toronto, near the seat of government. The fostering of education in the highest sense is a great responsibility and should be encouraged in the community. It was a necessary task to which the Scotchmen of Canada are called. He concluded by saying that he thought they were equal to the occasion.

J. W. Fraser piped a skirl to which the veteran Thomas Macdonald performed the sword dance. Then followed a song by Prof. John Dall. An imitation of Harry Lauder by John Ramsay was heartily applauded. A reading from "Songs of a Soudough," by Dr. Richardson, was much appreciated by the gathering. Lieut.-Col. MacEwan sang "Old Scotch Songs" with his old-time vigor. Mayor Campbell rendered "Songs of the Braes" to the voice.

The toastmaster then called on W. E. Craig to give a toast to the Scotch. Craig replied by giving a violin solo which was much appreciated. Mr. Craig remarked that the violin was made in Kingston about the time the society was founded and was about seventy years old. Arthur Lynn sang two Scotch songs in very fine voice, which were heartily applauded. The toast to "Scotland" was responded to by Prof. W. B. Anderson, who said the worth of Scotland was best appreciated by those who had left the home country and sought a home in Canada. He thought hard things about Canada on his way here, but when he arrived he found a true Scottish welcome. It may be true, he asserted, that Scotland has not produced as many heaven-born genius as other countries, but the dogged perseverance of her sons had been recognized the world over. The educational system in Scotland is one to be proud of and second to none in the world, and one that is turning out many great thinkers and speakers. He touched on the Scotch songs and said there were none like them. Speaking of humor, which the English say has to be injected into the Scotchman's brain by an operation, he remarked that they were jealous as he thought Scotchmen had a great fund of humor. He also told a number of stories which showed that he had a fund of humor.

When he arose to respond to the toast to "The Day and A' Wha Honor It," Prof. John Dall, said he had a great number of experiences since he had come to this country a few short weeks ago. He spoke of the first time in Canada in a church in Kingston. He had attended first banquet of St. Andrew's Society here, and had the honor of being elected chaplain of the society. He said if the Scotch presbytery had had nothing but St. Andrew's Day, they should not complain. All over the world people celebrate this day which is held sacred to the Scotchmen. Scotchmen are known everywhere as men who suppress their feelings, but on St. Andrew's Day they let them loose. They make a peeping parade of their feelings to the nation. Prof. Dall laughingly remarked that if a Scotchman were hanged on St. Andrew's Day for being innocent, while if he were modest he deserved to be hanged. He spoke in very tender regard of the city of St. Andrew, the home of the Scottish saint. He did not believe a man who had no regard for his mother country would have any feeling for the land of his adoption any more than a bad son would make a good husband. In speaking of the Scottish religion, he said that in his estimation there was none better. There was something in it that stirred the hearts of the Covenanters and inspired the Puritans in their fight for freedom. The Scotch race was misunderstood in a great many things. There were called proud, dull and stupid, but in his opinion it was because Scotchmen as a rule, were very reticent and taciturn that this was applied to them. He was glad to know that St. Andrew was now not only the patron saint of Scotland but for the past 200 years he had also been Russia's patron as well. He was glad to note this as it would bring them to closer relationship with one another.

This finished the toast list and after a song by J. Douglas Banker and a prayer by Mr. Ferguson the gathering broke up about one o'clock by singing "Auld Lang Syne" and "God Save the King."

ABLE TO RESUME HIS WORK. The many friends of George Lawes, driver of one of the Shelden teams, who was injured in an accident at the Windsor hotel, Saturday last, will be pleased to know that he is able to be back at work again. It was reported that he had his leg broken. Happily this is not so. At the time the accident happened it was thought that the limb had been fractured, but upon being taken to the hospital it was found that a severe bruise was the only injury. He is able to be back at his duties although his leg is paining him yet.

AN INEVITABLE DEMAND. When a great rush develops for a great publication few people can possibly understand the difficulties in the way of satisfying all the demands. A phenomenal rush has set in for the Christmas number of the Standard of Montreal and thirty-line presses are grinding away trying to accommodate the demand. The presses are running night and day, but it now seems quite probable that the demand cannot be met by the publishers. The beauty of the number is acknowledged from Atlantic to Pacific.

Mrs. Evans, who has been engaged to marry, is a soloist in Queen Street church, will sing at the anniversary services next Sunday.

THE FOOD AND FUEL CLUB OF CHARITY Circle of The Kings Daughters goes on its usual and successful way. Last week the fifteen collectors in the five districts collected from the 119 members $708.67, and this makes a total since the club was started in 1904, of $8,799. Several were dropped from the lists, this year, as they are now unable to take the saving spirit which has been put in the bank. Some have bought houses and are paying for them, and all have developed a thriftiness that would have been thought of if it had not been for Miss Gertrude Strange and her club.

This year $176 has been given out in orders for coal.

VACCINATION IN DETROIT. The people of Kingston are not the only ones who have had a touch of the compulsory vaccination. Detroit is now in the throes of an upheaval arising from compulsory vaccination during the recent outbreak of typhoid fever there. The Whig is in receipt of a letter from a correspondent there who writes that children are being detained from going to school until they have been vaccinated. Employees of factories are being sent to doctor's offices in bunches of twenty to be vaccinated. The operation there is performed free of charge. The telephone exchange in a nearby town has been closed on account of the epidemic.

ARRANGED FOR GAMES

MEETING OF CENTRAL ONTARIO CURLING LEAGUE.

R. G. H. Travers, of Napanee, Was Elected President—Prescott Has Dropped Out of the League—Trophy for Junior Series.

The annual meeting of the Central Ontario Curling League, was held, in the parlors at the Frontenac hotel, on Wednesday afternoon, when officers were elected, and a schedule drawn up for the senior games, to be played during the winter. The announcement was made that Prescott had dropped out of the league, owing to the fact that proper arrangements could not be made for the playing off of the games, and as a result, the following are left in the league: Kingston, Napanee, Belleville and Brockville.

The president, B. Kerr, of Belleville, occupied the chair, and the other representatives present were A. M. Thompson, of Belleville; J. S. Han and R. G. H. Travers, of Napanee; and R. J. McKeivley and Edward Lyons, of Kingston.

It was decided that a permanent trophy be offered for the games, in the junior series, to be played for each year. The schedule of games was not arranged at this meeting, but will be drawn up, later. The election of officers resulted as follows:

President, R. G. H. Travers, of Napanee; vice-president, R. Craig, of Brockville; secretary, Edward Lyons, of Kingston.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

"The Little Damsel" Was a Splendid Production.

Another delightful play which local theatregoers had the privilege of witnessing last evening at the Grand was "The Little Damsel," a comedy by Honckton Hoffe. The play is charming and so is the company. Miss May Buckley, in the title role, is strong both as a comedienne and as an emotional actress. Cyril Keightley as the husband of "The Little Damsel," gave to the role of the master and scaprogue something of a refreshing nature. No English actor, who has appeared here, has played a role with more ease and charm. George Graham, as "Hon. Fitzroy Locke," gave the principals splendid support, as also did the rest of the company. Everything about the production was superb. The settings were so complete and elaborate that the intermissions were double the usual periods.

"Call of the Wild." The play is a dramatization of Frederick Remington's interesting novel "John Ermine." John Ermine is made the hero of the play, a man in whom many noble attributes are combined, but who is untutored and uncultured, having spent his life among Indians and other people of the plains and mountains. As a scout for government troops, he proves his worth, but when he asks the hand of Major Searle's daughter in marriage, he learns that social barriers make the union impossible. The girl admires him, and does not care for the young lieutenant who loves her. Ermine and the lieutenant struggle for possession of a picture stolen by the lieutenant, lost by him and found by Ermine. The girl tells Ermine he may keep it. Ermine kills the lieutenant in self-defense in his own cabin. The girl is there, the only witness to the killing. Ermine, because of his great love, is willing to be compromised, but she refuses to permit any sacrifice and tells the story of the shooting which saves Ermine's life, and the play ends with the girl in Ermine's arms. It, comes to the Grand, on Saturday, Dec. 3rd, matinee and night.

An Early Drunk. Before nine o'clock this morning Constables McAdoo and Timmerman received a call to remove a man to the police cells. He was drunk and unable to take care of himself. It is believed that he was out celebrating St. Andrew's day and was endeavoring to keep up the celebration another day. However, he could not stand the pace.

Health Regained by Right Food. The average healthy man or woman is usually eager to be busy at some useful task or employment. But let dyspepsia or indigestion get hold of one, and all endeavor becomes a burden.

"A year ago, after recovering from an operation," writes a Michigan lady, "my stomach and nerves began to give me much trouble.

"At times my appetite was voracious, but when indulged, indigestion followed. Other times I had no appetite whatever. The food I took did not nourish me and I grew weaker than ever.

"I lost interest in everything and wanted to be alone. I had always had good nerves, but now the mere trifles would upset me, and bring on a violent headache. Walking across the room was an effort and prescribed exercise was out of the question.

"I had seen Grape-Nuts advertised, but did not believe what I read at the time. At last when it seemed as if I was literally starving, I began to eat Grape-Nuts.

"I had not been able to work for a year, but now after two months on Grape-Nuts I am eager to be at work again. My stomach gives me no trouble now, my nerves are steady as ever, and interest in life and ambition have come back with the return to health.

ABERNETHY'S

HIS CHRISTMAS TRADE.

W. W. Gibson Returns From a Purchasing Trip.

W. W. Gibson has just returned from a Christmas buying trip, visiting Toronto and Detroit, in search of new styles and ideas in fancy packages of confectionery for his Christmas trade.

The Red Cross Drug Store has certainly an enviable reputation all the year, but during Christmas season no store in Canada displays more beautiful baskets, boxes and packages of all styles than this store. Orders are received from distant parts for goods to be delivered to friends in all parts of Canada. Last year the West India Islands, London, England and all parts of the United States and as far West as British Columbia and East of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, sent orders to this store for high class packages. High class quality with first class service, and goods that are perfectly fresh, have given the store a reputation. Last year over 2,700 pounds of these high class sweets were sold during Christmas season, and this year promises to witness all former records.

Packages for out-of-town are packed with the greatest care and sent by express to reach destination day before Christmas. All Christmas packages for delivery in Kingston receive special attention for Christmas morning delivery. The Christmas morning delivery from this store means as much to the ladies of Kingston as Old Santa Claus means to the children.

The Christmas displays of McCord's Choice of Royalty sweets and Huylet's delicious chocolates and Bonbons have never been so elaborate and beautiful as for 1910.

"When do you expect these goods to arrive, Mr. Gibson?" asked the scribbler. "Why, not until Dec. 15th, as my customers are absolutely certain of their being perfectly fresh then."

WHERE IS HENRY A. JONES? He is Wanted in Detroit—His Mother is Dead.

Dr. J. E. Burgess, coroner, of Detroit, Mich., writes the Whig as follows: "Kindly publish a notice asking for the address of Henry A. Jones, whom I last heard from he was in your city.

A photograph, just received, shows him in military uniform. Letters addressed there have been returned, with the last two weeks. His mother is dead, and the family is anxious to locate him."

ELECTED THEIR OFFICERS. Meeting Granite Lodge Oddfellows Last Night.

The election of officers took place Wednesday evening, at the regular meeting of Granite lodge of Oddfellows. Grand, M. P. Reid; vice-grand, J. O. Wessie; recording secretary, J. Polie; financial secretary, A. J. Murray; treasurer, Dr. W. W. Daly.
