ALL OVER THE WORLD

PUPILS OF LATE MANN HARRISON SCATTERED.

Sergeant Snodden, of This City, Was Pupil Under This Celebrated Teacher in Ireland—Deceased Had His Own Views on Primary Education—He Was a Great Teacher.

After a lifetime devoted to the teaching of the young the death occurred, at his residence, Roskeen, Ravenhill Road, Belfast, Ireland, recently, of Mann Harrison, at the age of eighty years. Mr. Harrison spent half a century as a school teacher, and he has pupils scattered all over the world, occupying positions in different walks of life.

There is one Kingstonian who learned of the death of this great school master with keen regret. He is Sergeant Alexander Snodden, of the police force. Sergt. Snodden was a pupil of his when a boy, in the old model school, and he pays a warm tribute to the worth of the deceased as a teacher. Deceased was one of the best known educationalists in the north of Ireland and one of the greatest authorities on primary education to be found anywhere.

Deceased had his own views about primary education. He felt that it was a great pity by results was ever given up, says the Belfast Evening Telegraph. Before the result system was introduced it was found that there were a great many teachers who did not throw themselves heartily into the work. As an inducement to the application of more energy they were paid a considerable section of their income, on the results of the examination. That system worked satisfactorily, but was abolished about twenty years ago to bring Ireland into line with England. The argument still held good in the case of a lazy teacher, if he might be so classified, who required some stimulus, and Mr. Harrison believed that there was a large percentage of lazy teachers to-day there were in the older days. In his opinion it would have been far better to have modified the system of examination than to have abandoned it. Pupils were no longer examined individually, a few being taken as a specimen of their class.

Mr. Harrison published text books, which are very well known and their usefulness and value have been widely acknowledged. Deceased had for his first teacher his own father and for his text book the Bible; he had read it through from Genesis to Revelations when he was but seven years of age. At the age of sixteen he entered his career as a teacher.

Clerks' Appeal to Ladies. Kingston, Dec. 14.—(To the Editor): The 'phone is a great convenience, but it is a mistake for the ladies to stay at home and not go to the stores where Christmas displays of goods are made especially for them. Clerks are working hard evenings to them after their efforts to see the ladies come in and express their admiration and do their purchasing. Justice cannot be done on 'phone verbally.—CLERK.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

Gertrude Elliott in "The Dawn of a Tomorrow."

Kingston theatregoers were afforded another fine treat, last evening, when Gertrude Elliott appeared in "The Dawn of a Tomorrow," the best of the largest audiences of the season turned out to greet the brilliant star, who well deserved the many warm words of praise showered upon her at the close. Several curtain calls throughout the three acts, testified to the appreciation of the audience.

"The Dawn of a Tomorrow" is certainly a great play, and Miss Elliott and her strong company make the best of every opportunity. The play is one that makes a deep impression—in fact it preaches a sermon on cheerfulness, pointing out that there is always a to-morrow, and that no matter how sad and downcast we might become, there is still some sunshine to be had, if we seek for it. Miss Elliott, in the role of "Glad," just a stray waif, in the east end of London, is the one that brings this cheerfulness. She is the one who points out that there are "a heap of to-morrows to live for." She gave a most delightful portrayal of her part. She possesses rare dramatic ability, and had ample scope to display it.

The story centres around the life of one, Sir Oliver Holt, a millionaire, who, when on the verge of a breakdown in health, takes to think about, and is given something to think about, besides his own self, and thus he recovers his health. The audience is given the odd sight of seeing a millionaire don workaday clothes, and go into the slums to study life there. And as a result of the many sad pictures, he is given a great deal to think about.

The scenes in the east end of London are true to life. The one scene, in a London fog, showing the houses and coffee stands, was very good. Every attention is given in the staging of the production, to give it the proper "atmosphere." Every part is in a strong hands, and every role is also a strong one. All the leading characters were admirable. Perhaps special mention should be made of Fuller Mellish, as "Sir Oliver Holt," Sydney Booth, as "Oliver Holt," and A. Scott-Gatty, as "Dandy."

To-night "A Bridal Trip." Grace Van Studdiford, who long has closed in the title, "the best American prima donna outside of Grand opera," is again happy in the choice of the vehicle that her manager has made for her. The comic opera, "A Bridal Trip," that the brothers Smith, Harry B. and Robert B., Americanized in and which the music of Planquette is being used, is said to be richer in brilliant dialogue and tuneful melodies than any that Miss Van Studdiford has ever sung in, not even except her great personal triumph, "Maid Marian" and "Red Feather."

Miss Van Studdiford will be heard at the Grand Opera house to-night in this European comic opera, "Planquette," by the way, was the composer of "The Chimes of Normandy," but it is said that he considered this last composition his very best work. The company supporting Miss Van Studdiford numbers seventy-five persons, including an augmented orchestra.

"The Wolf." The dramatic event which many theatre-goers have been looking forward to with eager pleasure, ever since its announcement, is the production of Eugene Walter's splendid play, "The Wolf," at the Grand, Saturday, December 17th, presented by Paul Gilmore company. The successful author of "Paid in Full" and "The Easiest Way" has used material radically different from those plays of modern city life and its temptations in "The Wolf," where he gets close to nature. For this, his second dramatic triumph in one season he has made the Canadian woods his background, and for his characters, an American settler, a hard, rugged old Scotch settler, a gentle daughter, an American and two French-Canadians with the blood of the Ojibwa nation in their veins. These characters become involved in a romantic affair, out of which the action of the play is generated.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR. The Board of Education is Not Playing Beggar. Kingston, Dec. 15.—(To the Editor): There seems to be a misconception on the part of people in the vicinity of Harrowsmith and Sydenham that the Kingston board of education is playing a game to try and get the county to build an addition to the city Collegiate Institute. I have talked with several of the trustees, and they tell me that the board does not care whether the county pupils attend the institute or not; they are not begging them to come, though they would be pleased to have them, if the municipality from which they come will rightly bear a share in providing the extra building space required to accommodate them. In a nutshell, the situation is this: The Kingston Collegiate Institute is large enough for the city pupils. If the county pupils who attend (and they number sixty-seven, or two-thirds of the number who attend at Sydenham high school) are eliminated, there will be no necessity of enlarging the institute building for them. Now then, it is not reasonable to ask that if these county or non-resident pupils are to be retained, their municipality should pay at least half the cost of erecting the additional wing to the building necessary to contain them at the institute.—OBSEVER.

$10,000,000 GIFT FOR THE PROMOTION OF INTERNATIONAL PEACE.

Money to be Turned Over to a Board of Trustees—May Have a Canadian Representative. Washington, Dec. 15.—Andrew Carnegie, within a day or two will announce a gift of $10,000,000 for the promotion of international peace. The report to that effect published in these despatches this morning was confirmed here. The gift will be world-wide in its scope, and in the opinion of Washington officials will be one of the most important steps ever taken in furtherance of the universal peace movement.

This vast fund will be turned over by Mr. Carnegie to a board of trustees to be headed by United States Senator Elihu Root and President Nicholas Murray Butler, of Columbia University. There will be about twenty other distinguished trustees, and the impression in Washington to-day was that the membership of the board will not be confined exclusively to Americans, and that a Canadian may also be included. The income of this $10,000,000, which will amount to at least $500,000 a year, under the terms of the gift, will be devoted to the furtherance of peace projects the world over. The board of trustees, it is understood, will be endowed with wide discretion by the donor, and will be at liberty to use the funds in the furtherance of any movement they may deem advisable and in conformity with the general purpose of the gift. The $10,000,000 gift will not represent an effort on Mr. Carnegie's part to establish a new peace movement, but as much as it will desire to maintain the organizations already in the field, and to provide for their future well-being and usefulness under the direction of a high class board of trustees.

Mr. Carnegie has publicly advocated a league of peace, to be composed of such nations as can control the peace of the world.

The Carnegie gift, according to the plans of the donor, will open the way for a scientific study of the causes of war, and for an examination in a way that has never been undertaken before of other questions that may tend to promote peace.

The trustees of the fund will be able if they so desire, to assist Secretary Knox in the promulgation of his plan for an arbitral court of justice, the acceptance of which by all the powers will give to the world an international judicial body to judge cases arising in peace as well as controversies incident to war.

BRONCHITIS. To Whom It May Concern.

Bluevale, Ont., May 4, 1910.—I was sick for two years with chronic bronchitis and a consequent run-down condition. I received no benefit from doctors or from a trip which I took for my health and I had to give up work. Vinol was recommended and from the second bottle I commenced to improve—I gained in weight and strength, my bronchial trouble disappeared, and I am at work again. I want to recommend Vinol to anyone who is in need of such a medicine. Testimonial G. G. be genuine.

It is the combined action of the curative elements of the code livers added by the blood-making and strength-creating properties of tonic iron contained in Vinol which makes it so successful in curing bronchitis.

Vinol is a constitutional remedy for chronic coughs, colds, bronchitis and influenza, and is a palliative for all coughs.

Vinol contains no oil or drugs and is far more efficacious than cough mixtures, because it cures the cause. Try it. If you don't think it helps you, we will return your money. G. W. McLeod, Druggist, Kingston.

WILL OF A GOOD MAN.

Distributes $445,000 in Charity—Recognizes All. New York, Dec. 15.—Recognizing no lines of color, creed or race, George L. Fox, a prominent Brooklyn lawyer, who died recently, left a will distributing $445,000 among many charitable institutions. Faithful servants were rewarded with $70,000, and friends were substantially remembered. The will as filed, disposed of an estate of more than $1,500,000. Mr. Fox was unmarried and had no near relatives.

Several Brooklyn institutions, including the German hospital, the Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum and the Hebrew Orphan Asylum, receive $25,000 bequests. The Brooklyn Howard Colored Orphan Asylum receives $25,000 and the Brooklyn Home for the Aged, colored, $18,000.

Elizabeth Kane, long in the testator's employ, receives $50,000, and Mrs. Kane, also an old employee, gets $20,000. After giving many thousands to friends and relatives, she will leave $3,000 to James Jackson, hostler at the Shelter Home, Prospect Park, "because he was kind and attentive to my brother, Henry A. Fox."

Grand Trunk Pacific Dining Cars. The volume of business which has been done on the Grand Trunk Pacific railway since their passenger service was put into effect last July has beset the early increase of equipment, and the Canada Car Co. has furnished three new dining cars, which are models of elegance and beauty.

The exterior length of the car is 82 feet, and the length of the dining room 52 feet 6 inches, the balance of the interior of the car being taken up by the modern kitchen, refrigerators and pantry. They are mounted on standard six-wheel trucks. The platforms are of steel and the vestibule of high-speed quick action Westinghouse air brakes. The interior of the car is finished in plain and figured mahogany with a harmony of colors that is pleasing to the eye. The cars are heated by steam and lighted with electric light.

The dining room accommodates thirty people at one sitting. The floors are covered with handsome carpets of an exclusive design, and with a pattern conforming to the general color scheme of the interior. These cars are equipped with all the improvements and safety appliances that are known to modern rail, and are the handsomest dining cars that have been turned out of Canadian shops.

They will leave for the west in a day or two and will be objects of interest as well as supplying comfort to western travellers, and will be an addition to the already well-known service that is being operated by the Grand Trunk Pacific in Western Canada.

Mrs. Eddy's Successor. Portsmouth, N.H., Dec. 15.—Robert Charles Hanson, East Windsor, has announced that he is the successor to the head of the Christian Science church and has engaged Robert M. Grant, an attorney of Hartford, Conn. to bring suit against the directors of the mother church to support his claim. Last Friday, Mr. Hanson sent several thousand circulars broadcast over the world, announcing that Mrs. Eddy had commissioned him her successor. Mr. Hanson says he has papers signed by both Mrs. Stetson, New York and Mrs. Eddy, which will support his claim. The suits will be brought as soon as Mrs. Eddy's will is made public. Mr. Hanson is president of the Divine Science Association and head of the Church of the Living at Hartford, Conn.

Girl-Bests Officers. Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 15.—Uncle Sam's army and navy officers have been put to shame by a mere girl of twenty-one, who boasts only 107 pounds of weight.

Miss Annabel Sharp, society reporter on the Cleveland Leader, walked the fifty miles required of army and navy officers in two days, instead of three days given the officers of the two services. Mr. Hanson says he has a few minutes more time than did the two officers attached to the naval recruiting station here.

PETITIONED FOR PARDON. Medico-Legal Society Says Testimony Was Wrong. New York, Dec. 15.—Announcement is made that the Medico-Legal Society has appealed to Gov. White to pardon Albert T. Patrick, who is serving a life sentence in Sing Sing prison for the alleged murder of William North, vice in this city some years ago.

The petitioners say Patrick is being held for a crime he never committed. They allege that he was convicted on medical testimony that embalming fluid introduced into a body through the right brachial artery would not enter the lungs, but that it has since been demonstrated that the testimony was wrong.
