Some Clerical Slips.

One of the best known bishops has a fund of excellent clerical stories at his disposal, although it is seldom that any but his intimate friends are favored with them. Here are one or two:

A certain preacher, discoursing upon Bunyan and his work, caused a titter among his hearers by exclaiming: "In these days, my brethren, we want more Bunyans."

Another clergyman, pleading earnestly with his parishioners for the construction of a cemetery for their parish asked them to consider of the deplorable condition of 30,000 Christian Englishmen living without Christian burial.

Still more curious was this clerical slip:

A gentleman said to the minister: "When do you expect to see Deacon S. again?"

"Never," said the reverend gentleman, solemnly, "the deacon is in heaven."

A New Court Idea.

London Truth.

It is generally reported in court and diplomatic circles, both at home and abroad, that Queen Alexandra is anxious for King George to sanction a new code of precedence which would place her on an official equality with the queen consort. This is an unheard-of arrangement in Western Europe, but it exists in Russia, where the empress mother is legally the most powerful member of the imperial family, after the czar himself. It may be hoped that no such change will be carried out in this country, as the Russian system has worked very badly indeed, leading to considerable tracas-series and every kind of public and private complication. The report has been circulated all over Europe, and it has caused much gossip at foreign courts.

Know Its Protector.

In spite of his well-known poor marksmanship, a certain Englishman was invited to the country for a day's shooting. The attendant in great disgust witnessed miss after miss.

"Dear me," at last exclaimed the sportsman, "but the birds seem exceptionally strong on the wing this year!"

"Not all of 'em, sir," came the remark. "You've shot at the same bird this last dozen times. It's following you about, sir."

"Following me about. Nonsense. Why should a bird do that?"

"I dunno, sir, I'm sure," replied the man, "unless it's angling round for safety."

The Salt in the Sea.

The Pythagoreans held that the sea was salt by reason of the tears shed by Kronos, father of Zeus. According to the old Hebrew tradition, the ocean was originally a great body of fresh water, but which was made salt by the abundant tears of the fallen angels. One sect of Buddhists believe that Lot's wife—that is to say, the "pillar of salt," which was once the wife of the humble gentleman named above—lies at the bottom of the ocean in a certain narrow strait and that once each year the waters of all oceans flow through that narrow channel. The Talmudic writers say that it was never salt until Moses wept repentance after breaking the tables of stone.

To the Electors of the City of Kingston.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—

Yielding to the request of a large and influential number of citizens, I have decided to offer myself as a Candidate for Mayor for 1911. My record, both as an alderman and a business man, is well known to every citizen of Kingston. If elected, I shall endeavour to discharge the duties of this honorable position in a manner satisfactory to the city. As a progressive citizen, every movement making for the advancement of the city shall have my whole-hearted support.

I respectfully solicit the vote and influence of every citizen who wishes to see Kingston prosper.

Yours sincerely,
JOHN MCKAY.

A Retraction.

Senator Murphy, Foster, at a dinner in Washington, made a certain retraction: "It was a retraction without value. It recalls the Nola Chucky scandal. Dean Washington, in the heat of a revival, shouted from the Nola Chucky chapel: 'I see befo' me ten chicken thieves, includin' that thar Calhoun Clay.'"

"Calhoun Clay at once rose and left the church. He was very angry. He brought several powerful influences to bear and the deacon promised to apologize.

"So at the following revival the old man said: 'I desire to retract what last night's remark, namely, 'I see befo' me ten chicken thieves, includin' Calhoun Clay.' What I should have said, dear brethren and sisters, was, 'I see befo' me nine chicken thieves, not includin' Calhoun Clay.'"

San Francisco Star.

A raw recruit from a remote corner of the Green Isle was engaged for the first time in a field manoeuvre, on outpost duty. He was instructed to him to look out carefully for the colonel coming to inspect the post.

After an hour he returned and asked the soldier: "Has the colonel been here?"

"Receiving an answer in the negative, he went away, returning later on with the same enquiry. A while later the colonel appeared.

The recruit did not salute properly, which increased the colonel, who, as a hint, asked him: "Do you know who I am?"

"Faith, and I do not," answered the recruit.

"I am the colonel."

"Begorra, you will catch it then," says the soldier. "The sergeant has been asking twice for ye already!"

Paper Money in Mexico.

In Mexico and other Latin-American countries there is no law against the reproduction of the paper money of the country for use as advertising, but in the United States this is a felony, and any one so doing would be prosecuted under the laws of the land for counterfeiting the national currency. In Mexico imitation bills can be seen at all times used for advertising purposes, and, strange to say, they deceive no one, and the users of them do not intend any deceit, though it would seem to be an easy matter to pass them on without being perceived. Can it be that Mexicans are more intelligent or simply that few of the illiterate ever gain possession of paper money?—Argonaut.
