HAPPY RESULTS OBTAINED.

By the Use of the New Scalp Antiseptic.

It wouldn't take long to number the hairs in the heads of some people, the reason being they haven't many to number. In most instances, however, the fault is their own. A germ at the root soon plays havoc with the most luxuriant growth and causes it to fade and fall out. A remedy for this has recently been discovered, called Newbro's Herculide, that acts by destroying the germ that does the damage, besides removing all impurities from the scalp. In addition it permits new life and vigor to enter the scalp, and happy results are sure to be obtained from its use. Try it.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herculide Co., Detroit, Mich. 21 bottles guaranteed. James B. McLeod, druggist, special agent, Kingston, Ont.

NOT SING FOR FAVOURS.

There is one aspect of the reciprocity negotiations which we do not like—the attitude of some of the American legislators who think that Canada has sent its minister of finance and minister of customs to talk over tariffs. The idea seems to prevail in some circles in Washington that Canada is about to make a trade proposition. One man, discussing the situation with a Toronto Star correspondent, remarked: "It is up to Canada to say what she wants. Then the United States will be in a position to say whether she will grant Canada's requests." Yes, the Whig understands that people in several of the states have been voting for a reduced tariff, (and lower cost of living), and the national government has to do something or "pass in its checks." The negotiations were suggested before the state elections, and the repudiation of the republican party in them, and the need of them, has been emphasized by the experiences since. The Canadian ministers are not in Washington to make presentations, but to continue the discussions which the Taft government invited. Granted that the American government must do something, and do it quick, and that the Canadian government can adjust the tariff in the interest of the Canadian people primarily and principally, the fact remains that Canada is not pushing the case upon the United States government, and that aspect of the case must be dropped.

GETTING AT THE RESULTS.

The published reports of medical inspection in the Toronto schools make it more apparent that this work must be begun in all the public, and separate schools of the province, and vigorously prosecuted. The Toronto experiment has been in operation only six months, under two physicians and five nurses.

The medical men only deal with the cases that are referred to them, but the nurses are busy every day, and all the day. Over 50,000 inspections have been made. In over half as many cases instructions have been given. In hundreds of cases treatments have been supplied. The medical men representing the board do not prescribe for the children unless it is the desire of the parents. Over 2,000 children were referred to the family dentists, and 2,500 to the family physicians.

Ear, eye, and skin diseases, and pediculosis prevail, or are most in evidence. This implies that the sanitary conditions of the homes are not what they ought to be, and that the Board of Education is warranted in giving the stimulation that is necessary to bring about reforms.

In England the medical health officer either assumes direct control or supervision of school inspection. It may be that Dr. Williamson is not in a position to assume any larger responsibilities in connection with his public duties in this city, but he ought to be consulted in this matter, and without delay.

HITTING THE MIDDLE MEN.

W. L. Smith, the editor of the Weekly Sun, explains that the farmer is not responsible for the increased cost of living. He quotes from the enquiries that were made under direction of the Secretary of Agriculture in the United States, in 1909 and 1910. In the first year it was proven by an investigation into the facts in over fifty cities, that in the matter of meat the retailer middlemen added from thirty to forty per cent. to the cost. Last year the examination was into the sale of dairy and poultry products. Cream, which was procured from the producers at 24c. per quart was sold at 52c. Butter sold at 23c. and resold at 32c. per lb. Eggs were marketed for 30c. per doz., and resold at 50c. And more to the same effect. In Kingston the same comparison does not exist. The producers do not leave the retailers a very wide margin of profit. They ask high prices, because (as they allege), they have to pay more for their labour and supplies. High prices touch every walk and vocation of life, and they are up to stay. Mr. Smith recommends the establishment of the co-operative system among the farmers and to the end that they may be served by a combination, for all they want, at wholesale rates. The co-operative system is denounced by the merchants. It has its advantages and disadvantages. Parliament has been "balled up" with regard to legislation concerning it. The producer and the consumer could economize by directly dealing with each other, but the process is not without its difficulties.

OPTION LAW IN CANADA.

Liquor reduction is unpopular in the cities and towns, and for the reason that its opponents are strong there, and organized, and the average campaign ends in defeat. License reduction will carry usually, because most people favour it, and they express an opinion to this effect in the plebiscite when it is resorted to. Hamilton has just passed through such a campaign, but the Herald hold that "it is not probable that this will put a stop to the agitation for license reduction." The conviction is added that the demand for a still further reduction will be renewed in the next municipal election.

The further question was voted upon in Hamilton, that the liquor men who lost their licenses be compensated. It was hardly to be expected that the people would agree to the proposition, and yet it is remarkable that a good many endorsed the idea and saw some justice in it. Liquor men are nowadays put under regulations that were not in vogue some years ago. They have to keep premises which in many respects will conform with the law. Most places must rank as hotels, and so have accommodation for a limited number of persons. They can only sell at the times specified by the law. From Saturday evening at seven o'clock until Monday morning—and on election day—the bars are supposed to be closed. The quality of the juices must be unquestionable. And now, and latest, the government wants to know what the receipts and earnings of the liquor sellers are. Could state supervision and inspection further go?

Under the circumstances it is not surprising that the liquor men are resisting the temperance movement step by step. It is a case of driving them out of business, and it is a serious matter to have a license discontinued in a business which is not so good without the bar and somehow becomes demoralized. The Whig lately stopped at an hotel in a western city which had been one of the best. It is not prospering now, though the per diem for accommodation has been increased. The trade is not with it. A neighboring town, where option law has not yet been recognized, gets the favour of the "men on the road," and this fluctuation of patronage has its disadvantages. Of course, Hamilton has many licensed "hotels." Well, perhaps, too many of a kind, and it may be a distant day ere the people desert it for a town or city which is wet.

LIQUOR LAW VIOLATED.

Hotelmen in Cobalt District Will be Prosecuted.

Cobalt, Jan. 9.—As the result of a trip through the town on the T. and N. O. by government spotters, thirteen hotel and saloon keepers and liquor dealers have been summoned on various charges of infraction of the liquor license act. All but two local cases and those already disposed of will be tried at Halleybury before Magistrate Atkinson. Magistrate Douglas Kelso fined W. M. Marshall, Harry Plant and George Crawford $100 each for selling without license.

19 Days—Not Weeks or Months.

On June 5th, 1910, Maxwell Appleby enrolled with us.—On July 12th, 1910, after only nineteen days' attendance, we placed Mr. Appleby in a splendid position as stenographer in the office of Mr. Powers, resident civil engineer of the G.T.P., office room 401 Union Station. We have since had no less than fourteen calls from different officials in the Union Station building for our stenographers. Is thirty-day stenography a dream? Is it a poor, cheap substitute as some may tell you? If we cannot prove the above to be absolutely true we pay you $500 in cash. Moon College, 252-260 Yonge Street, Toronto. Mr. Appleby knew nothing of stenography when he enrolled with us.

TAKE CHAIR.

months, through an unfortunate leak in our intake pipe near the shore line. The source of trouble has been located and a new pipe ordered. We are safe in assuming that Ald. Carson, if chairman of the waterworks committee, will spare no effort to promptly remedy the evil, and bearing in mind that the health of the people must be protected, and that ample provision must be made to secure pure water during the laying and connecting of the new pipe, regardless of the expenditure of a few hundreds of dollars, more or less. With this improvement completed, and the dead ends connected with the main service, let us hope this avoidable scourge may be a thing of the past.

From time to time my attention has been directed to the annoyance that arises from smoke from some of our large manufacturing concerns, and also from the stacks of the water and light plants. Would it not be wise for the city-owned plants to set a good example by installing the necessary equipment for the consumption of smoke. Information has been furnished me to the effect that this can be done with a small first cost and little loss in steam-producing power. I direct the attention of council to the matter.

New Year's day saw the last toll road freed, and we may now congratulate ourselves that, with the exception of those who cross Cataract bridge, all our friends in the county may now have free access to the city without the annoyance of toll paying. Anxious at all times to do everything that will widen the city trade, it is my hope that the council should early take into its serious consideration the possibility of freeing the market from tolls. It is ever to be remembered that the market place is an advantage not only to the farmer, but to the purchaser as well. It is the place where buyer and seller meet. Kingston has always been proud of her excellent market, and we must try to maintain its superiority.

Members of council have fresh in their minds the attention that has in the past few years been given the problem of garbage collection and that owing to failure of funds no satisfactory solution has been reached. To me this is one of the important features of civic government. May I hope that council will appoint a strong committee to take this matter in hand with the firm determination of working out a way of promptly and adequately removing, at least during the warmer months of the year the daily collection of domestic refuse, the accumulation of which is bound to bring annoyance to the housekeeper and perhaps disease to the neighboring community. With good water and streets, ample drainage, and light, fresh air and full market domestic conditions must be satisfactory.

Funds, so I am informed, will have to be provided for the erection of a new school to accommodate scholars in the northern part of the city. Care should be taken that the best location possible is chosen and that no unnecessary expenditure is incurred.

Just contact with the citizens convince me that the people willingly contribute for the maintenance of an adequate civic service, and while I have outlined to you a scheme of municipal work that will require money I believe the people will endorse us if we prove to them that the money is well spent and that the results show greater comfort in our city life. As mayor I shall give my best to promoting the city's interests and welfare and for each of you I feel I can say the same. Let us remember we act for the people and their advantage should be our motto. All of which I submit for your consideration.

"GETTING INTO HARNESS."

Chief Smith Has New Foremen at Gananoque.

Report from Gananoque, says that Chief W. J. Smith, the former member of the Kingston fire department, is "getting into harness." He has appointed W. H. Vallier, as his assistant, and has taken on his staff, Mr. Vallier is the only man who has had experience. The new chief, however, has been losing no time in drilling the men into their work, and in due time, will have everything working O. K.

Chief Smith is also making an inspection of the various buildings in the town, so as to be well acquainted with them, in case of fire.

THEY WILL KEEP PEACE.

York Street Neighbors Had Some Trouble.

York street neighbors had some trouble, but they decided to bury the hatchet.

One surrounded the other for abusive language, and the case was looked for a hearing, before the magistrate this morning, but it was brought to a rather sudden end, when Charles R. Webster, who appeared for the accused, announced that the defendant was ready to be bound over to keep the peace, and that the other side had also agreed to this. As counsel, he had advised the defendant to move to the town, so as to be well acquainted with them, in case of fire.

The sting of defeat lasts longer than the sweets of victory.

Doctor Often Kissed Old Lady and Inherited $50,000.

Erie, Pa., Jan. 9.—A special states that Dr. Jotham F. Black, whose mother lives in Erie, admitted in a Cleveland court that though kissing old ladies he had received more than $50,000. He testified in connection with the suit of relatives to break the will of Mrs. Rebecca F. Lord, 803 St. Clair avenue, Cleveland, who bequeathed $50,000 to Dr. Black. The doctor admitted having often kissed the old lady and said that he had also kissed Mrs. Harriet M. Jennings, of Cambridge, Mass., who left him $500 when she died. He said Mrs. Sophronia Day, seventy years old, who died, left him $1,000. He had also inherited his kisses upon her.

Detective Goldsmith came to Erie and found Dr. Black's mother living there. The doctor admitted having sent her gifts. The plaintiffs in the suit seek to show that Dr. Black used the money he says he got by kissing to pay for his mother's presents.

Mr. Eaton says the story of his asking $25,000,000 for forest protection must be founded on incorrect reports. He has not suggested any such idea.
