Beaver Flour

makes more bread to the barrel than any other flour on the market—bread that takes up water readily, 'stands up' well in the oven, looks well, tastes well and is light and nutritious. Being a carefully prepared blend of Manitoba Spring wheat and Ontario Fall wheat, Beaver Flour is also an ideal pastry flour, making the most delicious cakes, pies and biscuits. Keeping two flours—one for bread and one for pastry—involves unnecessary expense and bother. Beaver Flour is best for both. Ask your grocer for it.

ECHOES OF COUNCIL

HONOR AWAITS THE CHAIRMAN OF GARBAGE.

Let the Smoke be Consumed—The Council Looks to be a Strong Body—The Mayor's Chain of Office Lacks Several Links.

The board of health remains practically unchanged, as Archibald Strachan and Henry Taylor were re-appointed. Ald. Bailey wants J. H. McLeod to be chairman. If Ald. Toye manages to establish a system of garbage collection, the housewives of the city should convene and demand that he be elected mayor or re-elected next year.

The finance committee is composed of veterans. Besides Mayor Graham it includes four ex-mayors. With Ald. Higgins as chairman, the board of works there should be something doing this year. On this committee are two ex-chairmen, Ald. Atson and Ald. Toye.

Mayor Graham was quite a dignified presiding officer in the chair at the council's inaugural session. An examination of the mayor's gold chain of office shows that a number of ex-mayors have neglected to add a link to it. City Clerk Sands intends to draw the attention of these ex-mayors to the matter and have the chain made complete.

Mayor Graham knew what he was about last year when, as chairman of the city property committee, he had the mayor's office renovated and upholstered. Ald. Elliott's light, heat and power committee has two big problems before it—cheap power and street lighting.

Do you know, I think the council this year will prove to be one of the best in years, remarked a citizen who attended the first session. The council is composed of a good body of men. The mayor-elect might well be proud of those around him and I am sure that we can look for good work. The citizen pointed out that this year there were no less than five ex-mayors around the horseshoe, and this alone should be a great help.

Mayor Graham made the suggestion in his inaugural address that something should be carried out which would put a stop to the smoke nuisance around the city. He suggested that the factories use smoke consumers. In this recommendation he will have the hearty support of the women in the city who put their loaves out on the line for 'washing up' and have them decorated with a lark color, and all on account of the smoke. The good women know that there is a factory there must be smoke, but they believe that means health be taken to stop the nuisance. They will hold up both hands to carry the mayor's suggestion through.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

The Use of the School House. Kingston, Jan. 9. (To the Editor.) "Trust" evidently is not in each with the movement for the wider use of the schools that has been going on for the last twenty years in the states. In New York the board of education spends a very large sum of money, away up into the hundreds of thousands, each year, for the education of the adult population through lectures. I myself sound opinions culled from the press in regard to the community owning the school house.

This is a great discovery—to find we have a beautiful club house, built and paid for and belonging to all of us, and all ready for use. A citizen at a Rochester Social Centre. "Every school house, so far as possible, should become a centre of community life."—Superintendent Gordy, of Springfield, Mass. "Public education is only semi-public and incomplete which fails to recognize the larger use of school buildings by the public, the school owners, the buildings, for worthy civic and educational purposes."—Member of Milwaukee school board.

The National Education Association heartily endorses the use of school buildings and all school equipment for community interests and social betterment. Declaration of 1909. "As President Eliot has pointed out, there can be no waste of money in public school administration comparable to the waste involved in permitting millions of dollars worth of property to remain unutilized except during the hours when school is kept."—Superintendent Maxwell, of New York state. In Milwaukee they have done in the school houses. Don't be shocked. I would strongly favor opening the school house for all sorts of recreation and amusement. Any clean fun that would enliven the working people should find a home in our schools at night.

The gymnasium at the Collegiate Institute, the kindergarten rooms and halls in the various schools, ought all to be available for public recreation. If "Trustee" will phone me I shall have much pleasure in lending him the book, "The Wise Use of the School Room," which gives, not theories, but facts of what has been accomplished in other cities. The first necessity is to awaken the public to the desirability of using the school rooms as people's club rooms and substitutes for the saloon.—Yours sincerely, ALICE A. CHOWN.

Captain Matthew Patterson says that when the schooner Lydon caught fire there was not one quarter of a ton of coal on board, as was reported, and also states that there were no carpenters at work on her and that there had been no fire from Christmas, or Tuesday after, in the forenoon.

AT THE GRAND.

"Passing of Third Floor Back" Last Night.

A play which preaches a sermon. Such is "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," by Jerome K. Jerome, which returned to the Grand, last night, and delighted the audience. This is the play which Forbes Robertson appeared in here last season, and in which he made a great success. This year, his brother, Ian Robertson, has the leading role, and is very strong in the part. He is surrounded by a good talent, a full English company, and the different parts were well taken. In the last few years, no play has been more talked of in the kind of play that takes your attention from the first time the curtain goes up until it drops for the last time. It deals with the power of a man to get others to do what is good and honest, and gives something for the audience to think about, after it is all over. It would certainly be a good thing if there were more plays of this kind.

Lena Ashwell in "Judith Zaraine."

Coincidentally with Lena Ashwell's first appearance here in "Judith Zaraine," the latest serious drama from the pen of the author of "Leah Eleisha," at the Grand on Thursday, January 12th, Charles Waldron takes another step in the direction of stardom. Waldron is Miss Ashwell's leading man in the Melellan play and has a part scarcely less prominent than that taken by the distinguished actress herself. Waldron made a splendid reputation for himself as the hero of "The Fourth Estate." If ever there was a finely, finely and effective portrayal of a young man who has undertaken a great work and who goes about it with his whole heart and soul, it is Waldron's Wheeler Brand in that big newspaper play. The day after his first New York performance in this part he was heralded as a future star. Like so many of the good leading men of to-day, Waldron got his experience with the popular priced stock companies. He was leading man for many of these in all parts of the country. He received his first Broadway experience as the hero in the Belasco production of "The Warrens of Virginia," and he then passed under J. M. Barrie's management.

The Orpheum's Fine Show.

Do you think that you could remain under water for two minutes and thirty seconds without rising to the surface for air? That is what Enoch England's greatest swimmer is showing the people of this city how to do. This act was brought here under an enormous expense. Enoch smokes, sings and plays instruments under water, and incidentally includes some good jokes and imitations. He is an entertainer in every sense of the word. During the last three days of the week he will show the patrons of the house how to save themselves from drowning. He claims that a person does not need to be able to swim to keep himself afloat. The method he teaches is very simple and is easily understood by anyone. Berlin and Paroli, in their delectable comedy, "Kobler's Junction," drew forth many laughs from the audience and got through with some real good clog dancing. Arthur Lynn sang in his usual good manner.

Troubles of the Coal Man.

The coal man is having his troubles as well as other people. Now that there is so much snow on the ground, people expect the coal to show up in any one of the ways. It is not so. The coal man is having his troubles as well as other people. Now that there is so much snow on the ground, people expect the coal to show up in any one of the ways. It is not so. The coal man is having his troubles as well as other people.

General Strike Proposed.

It is quite freely talked of among labor men of the likelihood of another general strike in this city. This will not be merely a strike among the carpenters or masons, but will be general among all classes of labor. According to the statement made to-day by a labor man, the strike will include carpenters, masons, joiners, and all laborers. Whether the report be true or not will be seen in the spring when it comes time for the labor to declare for an increase in wages.

Hope Set One for Moise.

A young man, who left his horse hitched to a coal wagon in front of a hotel, late yesterday afternoon, while he went inside, was surprised upon coming out a few minutes later to see his horse travelling up the street on a good trot. After doing a fast start for a block and a half, he finally overtook the animal and persuaded him to get back to the hotel and remain there while he finished transacting his business.

Getting Ice Harvest.

Work has been commenced in cutting ice, below Cataract bridge, and to-day it was reported that the ice was from ten to twelve inches thick, and that it was of good quality.

OLD COMMON SENSE.

Change Food When You Feel Out of Spirit. A great deal depends upon your diet, and the kind of food you eat. The wise old doctor said to a man who came to him sick with stomach trouble and sick headache once or twice a week, and who had been taking pills and different medicines for three or four years.

He was induced to stop eating any sort of fried food or meat for breakfast, and was put on Grape-Nuts and cream, leaving off all medicines. In a few days he began to get better, and now he has entirely recovered and writes that he is in better health than he has been before. In twenty years. This man is 55 years old and says he feels "like a new man all the time." Head "The Road to Wellville," in "The Health of the Nation," is a book that is worth reading. It is a book that is worth reading. It is a book that is worth reading. It is a book that is worth reading.

THE SPORT REVIEW

QUEEN'S AND VARSITY MEET HERE ON FRIDAY

In the First of the Intercollegiate Hockey Games—Basketball at Queen's Gymnasium Next Saturday.

Queen's and Varsity will meet here, next Friday evening, in the first of the intercollegiate senior hockey matches of the season. The Presbyterians expect to win out, even without Dobson, for it is not expected that the Toronto seven is any stronger than Queen's. Owing to the rearrangement of the intercollegiate schedule, Queen's will have only two home matches this winter, with McGill and Varsity.

Games at Palace Rink.

There will be two good games of hockey at the Palace rink, to-night. Brentford county and Portsmouth will play in the senior city league series, and Regiopolis and Barrieheld will line up in the junior series.

Basketball on Saturday.

There will be an afternoon of basketball in Queen's gymnasium next Saturday. At 4:30 o'clock, two co-ed teams will have a brush. At five o'clock, Queen's and Varsity will meet in an intercollegiate game.

Sunday School Basketball.

The Sunday school basketball league will open at the Y.M.C.A. to-night when a big double-header will be put on. Brock and Bethel will clash, and also St. Paul's and St. James'. There is quite a lot of enthusiasm, and over these games, and it is expected that there will be quite a number of spectators there.

Withdrawn From City League.

Williamsville hockey club has withdrawn from the city league, owing to inability to get players together, and the game which it was to have played to-night at the Palace rink, with Wolfe Island, will have to be withdrawn. Regiopolis and Barrieheld will play instead. After the two league games are over the senior and junior Irishmen will have an exhibition game.

Williamsville Beat St. James.

In an exhibition game played at the Stadium rink, Monday evening, the Williamsville Hockey Club defeated St. James' Club, four to three. The ice was in poor condition and would not permit fast work, else the boys would have shown better shape. The score, at half time was 3 to 0, for Williamsville. Williamsville—Dunlop, goal; McPadden, point; Smith, cover; Doyle, rover; Blakey, centre; Thornton, and James, wings.

City Hockey League.

The executive of the City Hockey League held a special meeting last night. Dunn, who played with two different junior teams, was suspended for the time, but was reinstated by the president last night on the condition that he play with his own team, Kingston Business College. If he plays with any other team he will be suspended for the remainder of the season. Gratton and Purcell, the two other players, who were protested, were allowed to play for the remainder of the season. There was a clause in the constitution to the effect that those who played on other teams last season were not eligible. This clause was struck out, enabling the last two mentioned players to resume their positions.

Well Liked in Brockville.

Brockville Times. Rev. W. F. Fitzgerald, M.A., the scholarly rector of St. Paul's church, Kingston, occupied the pulpit of Trinity church at both services, Sunday, and delighted large congregations with his excellent discourses. Mr. Fitzgerald is one of the eloquent preachers of the Ontario diocese and on this occasion easily maintained his reputation. His sermons were along the lines of missionary efforts and the congregations profited greatly by his remarks. To-night he will be heard in Trinity church in his popular lecture entitled, "Ireland and the Irish."

CANADA'S SHIPBUILDING.

An Interesting Address by Capt. Alex. McDougall.

Capt. Alexander McDougall, President of the Collingwood Shipbuilding company, limited, and a director of the Kingston Shipbuilding company, spoke as follows at the launching of the steamship Emperor: This great ship is the largest ship ever built on British soil away from the British Isles. She is 325 feet long, fifty-six feet beam and thirty-one feet deep, and is practically a double ship, one ship inside the other, or rather call it heavy double bottom and heavy double sides. All her boilers, machinery, cabins and fitout were made in our yard. She would command particular attention, because of her great size, in any part in the world; in fact it is seldom such a large exclusively freight ship is seen in the large ports at sea. On the present draft of our lakes ports, she will carry about 10,000 tons, and at sea she would carry much more. She is the third largest ship that we have built to the order of Mr. Playfair, the King, the Prince, and now the Emperor. Long may she and her royal principal live and prosper. This great ship has in her construction British and United States steel and iron, yet she has more than $250,000 worth of Canadian labor, material and transportation; this is money that stays in Canada, this great prosperous country, with a coast line greater than any other country in the world, bordering on three oceans, the mighty St. Lawrence and the great lakes, where originates the largest freighting by water of any part of the world. Canada has a small amount of ship tonnage, considering her necessities about 700,000 tons, but as all coasts, barges and boats from one ton capacity up is included, it is somewhat misleading. There are about 100 steel ships engaged in coastwise trade. These were mostly built in Great Britain, and there are about fifty steel vessels under the British flag doing coastwise trade in the lake country. Most of these are small steam vessels, mostly small size, that were built in the United States, while there are only twenty steel vessels that were built in Canada. The Canadian Register has practically no overtonnage, and all told about 200,000 registered tonnage fit for the coasting trade in rough sea. Buying the steel shapes and plates in England or the United States, and building the steel ship in Canada leaves more than eighty per cent. of the cost of the ship in Canada for labor, etc. Railways have been protected by twenty-five per cent. on rails, thirty per cent. on cars and bridges, also great land grants and subsidies, while the ship has had practically no protection, and the ship is the nearest thing to life that man can make, and if made in other countries, it can carry itself to Canada to compete with Canadians. For ten years we have labored here against these odds without pay. Here we have one of the best plants in the world for its size, and with its two dry docks out of solid stone and the most approved appliances for shipbuilding in all departments to make the complete ship, they have none so good on the Clyde; they can only beat us with cheap labor. I was there lately and know. A little assistance from the government for a few years would soon make Canadians as noted for shipbuilding as they are now in railroad construction. Think of the hundred of ships that will be required to do the coastwise trade along more than 10,000 miles of this great country. Will they be made by Canadians; and this help to stimulate all other trade? Or are they to be made in other countries and carry themselves here to the great loss to Canadian industries? A splendid suit or overcoat made to order for $15, at Prevost's, Brock street. All new goods to choose from. Also a splendid stock of ready-made clothing. There is a horshoos in the office of James Swift & Co. that was picked up on the street, and which is of main-moat proportions. It measures fully seven inches across at the frog, while it is fully eight inches long.

AT THE POLICE COURT.

Young Man Was Ordered Out of City. "Just a couple of drinks of wine," said a young man, who was up in police court, this morning, on a charge of being drunk. "We'll just see what affect the wind had on you," said the magistrate, so he called for the constable who made the arrest. Constable James Downey was the man behind the arrest. He said that the young man was quite drunk, that he was in a Chinese restaurant, went to sleep, and that the proprietor could not get him to leave. The officer of the law disturbed his slumber. The accused had been before the court on several occasions, and the magistrate said that he would give him until Wednesday noon to get out of the city.

Rod and Gun.

Variety and plenty of it, is the keynote of the January issue of Rod and Gun in Canada, published by W. J. Taylor, Limited, of Woodstock, Ont. There are a number of personal experiences in hunting, fishing, canoeing and mountaineering throughout Canada, while a paper on the birds of Manitoba and some light verse, add materially to the interest of the number and recommend it as one in which sportsmen of all tastes may find something which cannot fail to prove pleasurable and profitable. The whole is replete of the outdoors and must act like a tonic in the wintry weather. Seven hundred people were at the Palace rink, last night. It was a fine night for skating, and the ice was good. The 15th band provided the music.
