A WOMAN IN DISTRESS.

A woman in Montreal has learned, to her cost, that she cannot give vent to righteous indignation freely. Passing along the street she encountered a carter who was unmercifully beating his horse, and she expostulated. He gave her a saucy answer and she hit him with her umbrella. It was just what a woman would do and for the moment she had no idea that she was violating any law. A policeman was present, however. He did not see the brutality of the carter, but he twigged the chastisement of the woman, and at once arrested her. She protested, and he pushed and pulled her along the sidewalk. Others, seeing her distressed condition, pleaded that she be allowed to sit somewhere, and rest, and the burly policeman told them to "mind their own business." The evidence given before the recorder was against the carter and the policeman, but his honor said he had only one charge to dispose of and that was of assault against the woman. He would hear a charge of preferred assault against the carter, and he would report the policeman to his captain for discipline. But the woman, for daring to express her righteous indignation in her own peculiar way, he fined, and made the sum larger by adding costs. The men who preferred the charge against the woman, if really impartial and honest should have preferred a charge against the carter, and he should be made to realize that a dumb animal is entitled to decent public treatment. Pity the horse that is left to the tender mercies of a vicious man, and God help the women who are oppressed when they take the law into their own hands and perform a duty that should be done by the police officers. The Whig has not much sympathy with the suffragette movement as it is demonstrated by some of the women nowadays, but it can see how that movement can be helped and supported through the unfortunate indiscriminate of mere men.

THE PRESS AT FAULT.

It is not surprising that Hon. John Burns has sacrificed some of the London papers and declared that the last two elections had been a repudiation by the common people of the "vulgar, lying, sensational journals, whose conduct had been a scandal amounting almost to a national crime."

The London press was largely conservative in the last elections. The party had tried the experiment of buying up certain papers and using them to boom or bolster the Unionist cause. The government was supported by some good journals, but the liberals had, as Mr. Burns declared, seventy-five per cent. of the London press against them, and that they succeeded at all is an evidence that the conservative papers were not reflecting public sentiment.

There is the party organ, which retains the daily cant of those by whom it is subsidized. Let it be known once that it is not free to express an independent or impartial opinion and its usefulness is gone. Apparently in London there were many such organs, and they either had no influence whatever, or it was misdirected.

There are papers which present the people's side of the case, or present the facts fairly, and let the people exercise their judgment freely. London has some of these. They have moulded opinion, and expressed it in an enlightening and convincing way. With these Mr. Burns does not find any fault. His attack on the "organs" will make them furious but he realizes that they did their best to misrepresent him and his colleagues, and the fact that he has triumphed is a testimony to their popularity and the power of public opinion outside of the press.

A COUNCIL ON TRIAL.

The Ontario Medical Council is understood to be on its trial. Toronto University, which is, or ought to be, represented by the ablest men, has petitioned the government, through its medical faculty, for an amendment of the Medical Act. The change desired is of the most radical character, and is not likely to be granted. It is to the effect that the young surgeons be allowed to practice in Ontario on graduating from the university and securing from it a certificate of competency. Remarkable to say, the premier has been impressed with the representation, has asked for the opinions of the universities at Kingston and London, and later on will have a conference with all the parties concerned.

The charge of Toronto University, according to the Telegram, which has been looking into the case, is that the council checks progress in medical education. "It is alleged," says our contemporary, "that the curriculum prescribed by the council is not advanced, and thus the university is hampered in trying to follow it. This is so particularly in the scientific subjects. They are not given sufficient recognition in the curriculum of the Medical Council, and the reason assigned is that the council have not men at their disposal who are qualified to act as examiners on these subjects. Toronto University is reported to have requested the government for authority to allow its students to practice when they receive their medical degree. This would be ignoring the Medical Council, which allows no medical man to practice in Ontario, no matter what degree he holds, till he passes the examinations of the council and receives its license."

FREIGHTS COLLIDED

AT NAPANEE, AND SEVERAL CARS WERE SMASHED.

The Engineer of the Moving Train Was Unhurt—"Pinafore" Was Acted by Napanee Talent.

Napanee, Jan. 13.—Last evening about 7.30 o'clock two freight trains collided at the Grand Trunk station. A fast through freight east bound crashed into the way freight which was standing partly on the main track. Several empty cars were converted into kindling wood. The fireman on the east bound freight jumped but the engineer stuck to his post and was uninjured. The cause of the accident was a misunderstanding of signals. The auxiliary from Belleville arrived about ten o'clock and commenced to clear the track.

On Wednesday evening the Napanee Amateur Operatic and Dramatic club presented "Pinafore" to a crowded house in the Brisco opera house. Not a vacant seat was left in the house. The citizens knew that the amateurs would sustain their reputation and they were not disappointed. The characters were all well taken and all deserve a measure of praise. The leading parts were taken by D. L. Hill, as Sir Joseph Porter, K.C.B., F. H. Carson as Capt. Corcoran, E. E. Fitzgerald as Dick Deadey, and A. H. O'Leary as Ralph Rakeshaw.

Miss Allie Paul, as "Josephine," Miss Marjorie Furnival as "Little Buttercup," and Miss Marion Wilson, as "Hebe," brought forth many expressions of praise for their excellent work. The little misbehaving Master Morris Wolfe, was the cutest character in the cast and sang and acted his part perfectly. The Napanee orchestra never was better and Mr. Simmons, the conductor, is to be congratulated as well as the players on their excellent work. The music in the play was bright and catchy and everything was carried to a most successful finish. The play was again put on last evening to a crowded house and it is said that a third night will be given.

Miss Luella E. Hall, as directress, J. Simmons, as conductor, and D. L. Hill as stage manager deserve much praise for their excellent work in bringing the performance to such a successful finish.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Quebec government will found in Montreal a school for higher commercial studies. Something of the kind is very necessary. Schools of the Sheldon kind have triumphed long enough.

"We have a new council and several new committees, but we have still the typhoid water, the bad lights, and the bad streets," said a citizen to-day while in a critical humour. It may be wise to give the new men a chance.

WONT PAY SECOND FARE

And Shoot Up Trolley Cars When Extra Nickel Demanded.

East Rutherford, N.J., Jan. 13.—Riots in which shots were fired broke out here yesterday, as a result of a raise in fare from five to ten cents by the trolley line that runs from this town to Passaic. The riots occurred when attempts were made to collect a second fare at the dividing line of the townships. The town officials secured several old stage coaches and carried the crowds back and forth for nothing.

He has 5,000 miles yet to travel, and he says under ordinary circumstances, he will arrive at St. John's within another year. His cart can easily be converted into a sleigh.

When They Once Know Us.

Orillia (110 miles by rail) has sent us 17 students this year although they have their own college teaching Pittman. Why? On January 3rd, 1910, Jas. Beaton, son of the late Dr. Beaton, of Orillia, enrolled with us and on February 11th he returned to his home a competent stenographer. He might yet doubt 30-day stenography only that he spent the holidays in Toronto and learned that Mr. Ingram, son of the vice-chairman of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board was an enthusiastic Moon College student. The story in fact and time, many times over pays the fare and board. Catalogue and Return Fare Offer upon request. Moon College, 292-296 Yonge street, Toronto.

DOCKING OF HORSES.

Toronto Doctor Condemns the Practice as Cruel.

Dr. J. G. McPherson, D.V.S., Toronto Telegram, writes as follows to the Toronto Telegram:

I have read a little regarding the docking of horses' tails and trimming and setting up of dogs' ears, wherein Dr. C. E. Rutherford, veterinary director general of Canada, gives praise to the first who has the courage to come out and say he will never dock any more horses' tails.

I think he is a little late, or has forgotten the articles written on that subject through the columns of the Telegram, Mail and Empire, and Globe, wherein I came out flat-footed and condemned the cruel practice some years ago.

There are but few who have any idea what a horse has to suffer. In the first place, to suit the fancy of the public, the depressor muscles of the tail have to be severed, the tail tied up over the back with pulleys and weights, and the horse kept in a narrow stall where he cannot lie down for weeks, each day breaking down the adhesive tissues so that it does not heal too quickly.

After these muscles become filled in, the tail is cut off with the docking shears. The hemorrhage is stopped by passing a red-hot iron against the arteries, thus leaving a portion of the coxovaginal exposed, which eventually decays and drops off.

Now, if Dr. Rutherford has taken a humane view of this subject, why does he not take the proper steps, and with his influence, have an act passed through the Dominion government of Canada, making it a criminal offence? We, as veterinary surgeons, are powerless of ourselves to prevent this cruel operation, while blacksmiths, livermen, coachmen and horse dealers are daily performing this operation on the dumb animals. I know a blacksmith in this city who gets ten dollars for docking horses' tails.

Now, I will willingly place my name on record by saying I will never dock another horse's tail nor crop a dog's ears, as I consider it cruel and unnecessary, and very unbecoming to the great majority of horses and dogs respectively. This cruel practice could easily be stopped if gone about in the right manner. Hoping something may be done by the proper authorities to abolish this brutal practice.

Origin of the Word "Bosh."

"Bosh" sounds a fairly good English word to apply to your political opponent's arguments," says the London Chronicle. It isn't. Skimming Dr. Beddoe's "Memories of Eighty Years" one finds the doctor trying to explain the Protestant religion to a Mullah. "It seems a very decent sort of religion," said the Mullah, in excellent English. But there were two objections. The first was that he "pay no honor to the prophet." The second was "your doctrine of the Trinity, which you will excuse my saying is bosh." We have got the word from the Turkish. It means nonsense. And "bosh lakinde" settles cases means "you speak empty words."

"Narrow Shave" in Cornwall.

There are worse perils than over-charges in country barbers' shops. A correspondent of the "Manchester Guardian" once related how he went into a Cornish village barber's, and found a youth there with an apron on, "who smothered my face with soap and took up a razor. In a moment he had gashed my right cheek in three places, and I sprang from the chair in righteous wrath. Just then a man appeared at the door of the cottage, and the youth dodged past him and was gone in a flash. The man explained that he had been to attend at a customer's house, and had left the youth to mind his cottage. 'He's a bit daft, sir, and he's always wanting to shave somebody! I have never had a more narrow shave.'

Value of a Five Shilling Piece.

In a case of coinage which was tried last week at the Old Bailey the prisoner was accused of being in possession of ninety counterfeit coins of 2s each value.

In his evidence an official from the Mint stated that the actual value of the silver in a five shilling piece was only one shilling and six pence.
