A VAST CANAL PLAN

WATERWAY FROM LAKE HURON TO MONTREAL.

To a Depth of Over 28 Feet—Will be Wide Enough to Allow Ocean Liners to Meet and Pass.

Ottawa, Jan. 17.—The latest canal scheme, and probably the most ambitious which has been listed for the consideration of parliament, is that of the Great Lakes and Atlantic Canal and Power company, a charter for which will be sought during the present session.

The company asks power to construct a canal from some point on the eastern shore of Lake Huron, in the county of Huron, to the northern shore of Lake Erie, in the county of Elgin, and another canal from some point on the north-eastern shore of Lake Erie, in the county of Haldimand, to the western shore of Lake Ontario, near the county of Lincoln; to improve and deepen, if necessary, a channel in Lake Ontario, and also in the River St. Lawrence, to a point in the county of Grenville also to construct a canal from Grenville to the city of Ottawa; to deepen a ship channel in the Ottawa river, from the canal to its junction with the Riviere Des Prairies; to deepen the channel in the said Riviere Des Prairies to join the "St. Lawrence ship channel" below the Island of Montreal, or by an alternate route, from St. Ann's, in the county of Jacques Cartier, through Lake St. Louis to Montreal.

This would make and complete throughout the entire distance from Lake Huron to the St. Lawrence ship channel, or the port of Montreal, a navigable canal and ship channel of a depth of not less than twenty-eight feet and not over thirty-three feet, and of such width as may be found necessary to enable ocean-going vessels to meet and pass in safety at any point in the canals, lake or river channels.

A Rational Method of Healing.

The growing tendency to day is to get away from routine drugging Osteopathy is the best answer to this universal demand for a natural and rational method of treating disease. Osteopathic theories are of but little interest to sick people. The most important question to them—and they are the only ones vitally interested, is, will osteopathy aid me in getting well? Do cures follow a treatment or course of treatments? What is osteopathy doing right now? What has it been doing? These are the questions the people wish to have answered. Most of the cases of rheumatism, no matter how long standing, are either cured or benefited. Many cases of paralysis have yielded to the treatment when there seemed no chance of a cure. Innumerable cases of chronic constipation and chronic diarrhoea, and dysentery have been cured. Spinal curvatures and other disorders are almost handled in a satisfactory manner. Innumerable cases of nervous prostration have been cured or benefited. In short, there are but few diseases, especially the chronic diseases, that have not been successfully treated by osteopathy. One of the greatest recommendations to this method is that it is tonic and constructive, not destructive. Run down, overworked business men; weak, debilitated people who have no definite disease, are always helped. And the help one gets from osteopathy, let it be understood, is not artificial stimulation, but good, honest strength.

VICTORY FOR CANADA

IN THE FISHERIES PACT AT WASHINGTON.

Four Chief Contentions Upheld in Agreement Made at Washington—Few Concessions Will be Made to the United States.

Washington, D.C., Jan. 17.—If the reciprocity negotiations come out as favorable to Canada as the fishery negotiations did, the people of Canada will have reason to bless the day that Messrs. Fielding and Paterson came to Washington. The final terms of the fishery agreement were not made public, but there are the best reasons for believing that practically all of the Canadian contentions were confirmed.

It is interesting and amusing, in view of this, to recall the official statement given out by the state department here the other day. This misstatement was apparently prepared at home consumption. It was so worded that it appeared that Canada and Newfoundland had mutually agreed to so arrange their regulations that all United States objections would be removed, in other words that United States had got the best of it all down the line. It was only the intervention of one of the Canadian pressmen here which prevented this statement from going broadcast over the country.

An explanation of it was obtained from an official source, and this modification was appended in most cases to the state department's announcement.

Now that the negotiations are over, the misleading character of this announcement becomes quite apparent. Far from having got their own way, it appears that the Canadian envoys have won out on every point of importance. Neither Sir Allen nor Mr. Broderick would consent to make any official announcement as to the final agreement, but on four cardinal points the Canadians got their way.

It was contended that Sunday should be regarded as a close season on the fishing grounds, and to this the Gloucester fishermen objected on account of loss of time. It was finally agreed that Sunday should remain a day of rest in treaty waters. The United States objected, too, to the right of search of their vessels, and the Canadians won this point as well. It was pointed out that somebody must do the necessary policing, and that it was impossible that the United States should do it in Canadian waters. The right remains Canada's. The use of purse seines will be discontinued, contrary to the wishes of the United States, and, finally, Canada will retain the right to license United States fishing vessels, though the word "license" will be changed to "permit," which is more of a discrimination than a difference.

In exchange for this big win certain minor concessions have been made, with the view of improving the lot of the Gloucester fishermen. These concessions have not been made public either, but they will operate as much for the benefit of the Canadian fisherman as for that of his rival.

The official report of the result of the negotiations will not be made till the Canadian ministers present it on the floor of the house at Ottawa, but the above may be taken as a reliable resume of the main points involved.

DEATH OF JOSEPH HOLMES.

An Old Resident of Collins' Bay Died on Tuesday.

After an extended illness, covering a period of about nine weeks, six of which have been spent in the general hospital here, Joseph Holmes, of Collins Bay, died at 8:30 o'clock, Tuesday morning at the general hospital here, at the age of sixty-seven years. Mr. Holmes had been ill for a long time with stomach trouble. He was born in the township of Kingston, and lived there all his life. He received his early education in the public schools at Collins Bay, and took up it on the farm here, followed by railroad work, which he followed for twenty-two years. He was chief of police in Nanawan for five years, during which he became quite popular with the people of that town. He was a guard in the penitentiary here for about two years. Every place in which he was employed had always a good word to say for him and the best of recommendations to give. He was a Presbyterian in religion and a staunch conservative in politics. Beside his two brothers, John, of Estevan, Saskatchewan, and Peter, of Collins Bay, he leaves two sons, George, of Toronto, and Henry, of Chicago. His funeral will take place from the undertaking parlors of S. S. Corbett, Wednesday afternoon, at Cataract cemetery. Service will be conducted by Rev. Dr. Macgillivray, of Chalmers church.
