NO DEFINITE POLICY

HON. A. G. MACKAY URGES NEED OF TECHNICAL EDUCATION.

Liberal Leader Criticizes Attorney-General's Department—Model Schools Should be Reopened—Sir James Whitney Defends Government's Record.

Toronto, Jan. 27.—In a vigorous forty-minute address, Hon. A. G. McKay, voicing in the legislature, yesterday, the reply of the liberal opposition to the contents of the speech from the throne, put the government of Sir James Whitney under the fire of masterly criticism of its weaknesses in his rapid-fire address. The liberal leader gave the house an intimation of the fight the opposition is going to make upon a number of important questions. The attorney-general's department he denounced as inefficient, a victim of inertia and absolutely incapable of apprehending criminals.

Sir James Whitney's reply was in his characteristic manner. He brushed aside the criticisms of the Hon. Mr. Foy's department and came to the defence of Hon. Dr. Foy. The prime minister declared that one of the reasons the liberals were put out of power was because they would not prosecute the "villains and scoundrels" who worked under the protection of the liberal government.

The motion for the adoption of the speech from the throne was carried without a division. The treasurer caused some surprise by bringing down the public accounts such an early address of the financial statement almost constituting a record. Sir James Whitney moved the adjournment of the house until Monday.

Hon. A. G. McKay, leader of the opposition, continuing the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne, after brief references to the death of King Edward and to the approaching celebration of the centenary of peace between Canada and the United States, said that the most noticeable feature in the speech as regards its reference to the past administration and the expected legislation of the present government was the "absolute lack of content, and particularly of intent on the part of the government labor."

With reference to prison labor, he suggested to the provincial secretary that some means should be devised to apply at least a part of the earnings of prisoners to the maintenance of those dependent upon them.

The question of technical and industrial education was touched on in the speech. Mr. McKay regretted it, "very sincerely and unambiguously." One would rather that "the government" was at last striking upon the "contrasting" with that the position taken by the liberal side of the house last year, he quoted from the record the motion he introduced during his session, which read:

"That in the opinion of this house the province and municipalities should unite in (a) the establishment of technical schools in the towns and cities in Ontario to supplement the practical training of the workshop in an arrangement as to the basis of support for such schools as between the province, the municipalities, and interested manufacturers; (b) the establishment of technical industrial centres of Technical High Schools, and (c) that the powers of the municipalities should be enlarged so as to enable them to aid in the support of such schools."

Mr. McKay urged strongly that the province should appoint a commission to ascertain the facts and gather information as to the need and the possibilities of technical and industrial training within the province, supplementing and making more complete, so far as Ontario is concerned the work of the Dominion government commission. He pleaded the rights of the children in the rural schools, claiming that they should be looked after equally with those in the town public schools, the normal and high schools and the university.

defined, while ten years ago there were, of the seventy teachers, two holding first-class certificates, twenty-two with second, and forty-six with provisional thirds, and none with permits, there are now, with the same number of teachers, two with first-class certificates, as before, twenty-seven with second, twenty-two with thirds, and nineteen with mere temporary permits. In his own riding seven schools were vacant last January and the trustees were seeking anyone who could or would teach, and it was the same for this year.

Mr. McKay concluded his vigorous arraignment of the government by reference to the lax administration of justice, declaring that "there never was a time in the province of Ontario when the people of the province had as little faith in the activity of the attorney-general's department." "At no period since Confederation," said McKay, "did you find such a number of scoundrels being whipped, of justice as during the past five years," instancing the Orangeville investigation, the Barton affair, and the Kinrade affair among others.

ATHLETIC TEAMS FORMED

For All Boys Who May Wish to Join Them.

It is impossible to overrate the importance of athletics in the formation of character of boys in the direction of courage and fair play and of action, these being qualities of a national importance. The boys of to-day are to be the young men of a very few years ahead, and soon afterwards they become the heads of families. Kingston has already become known as a strongly athletic training place for the best spirit of athletic sports. Its influence in that respect reflects credit upon its athletic associations. The leading men of Kingston have strongly countenanced the athletic associations of the city and of the two colleges. It is, however, evident that many young boys who have desires to practice find it hard to find organizations in which to start their practices in hockey or football and in order to open a season for boys not members of such organizations, three teams have been started, called respectively the St. Andrew's and the St. George's and the Engineers' teams. Rule cards are printed for the St. George's team and for the Engineers' team. Boys desiring to join can apply at the "engineers' office, over the Orpheum theatre, and they will be measured and rated according to stature in which ever team they may elect to join.

Helped to Remember.

A colored preacher was vehemently denouncing the sins of his congregation. "Bred'en an' sister, Ah warns o' against de heinous sin o' shootin' raps! Ah charges yo' against de rascality o' filtin' pullets! But, about all else, bred'ren and sistern, Ah deman' yo' at dis yer season against de crime o' melon stealin'!" A brother in a pack seat made an odd sound with his lips, rose and snapped his fingers. Then he sat down again with an unabashed look. "Whuffo, main frien'," said the preacher sternly, "does yo' r'ar up an' snap yo' fingers when Ah speak o' melon stealin'?" "Yo' jes' reminds me, parson," the man in the back seat answered meekly, "wha Ah lef' mah knife."

A Rise Out of Booker Washington.

The negro sense of humor was well illustrated by Booker T. Washington in his address in Milwaukee. "I was walking along a road near Tuskegee Institute and met an old colored woman," said Mr. Washington. "Just as we came conversation, I remarked: 'Where are you going, auntie?' 'The old lady looked up at me with a comical twinkle in her eye. 'Ah! done b'en whar' Ah's gwine,' she said. 'Then she laughed and went on her way, satisfied that she had taken a rise out of me.'—Milwaukee Free Press.

QUEEN'S MEET M'GILL

IN INTERCOLLEGIATE HOCKEY GAME THIS EVENING.

Dobson Will Play no More This Season—The Team Not Yet Selected—Results of Ladies' Curling Games.

Queen's hockey team, accompanied by Coach J. J. Barry and Manager McDonald, left, this afternoon, at one o'clock, on a special train, for Montreal, where they will meet McGill for the first time this year. The Queen's boys are in splendid condition, and said they would put up a hard fight against the Montrealers. Here is a problem in arithmetic: If Varsity beats McGill in Toronto, and Queen's beats Varsity here, what will Queen's do to McGill in Montreal? Well, we wouldn't like to say. It does not always do to say too much before the game. But rest assured, Queen's will do all in their power to bring back the honor with them. When seen just before the train left, Manager McDonald said he did not know the exact line-up of the team, but the following players were taken along: Gilbert, Basil George, Greg, George, Lockett, Elliott, Blakeley, M. Meikle, Box, McKinnon, Smith and Anglin. Smith will likely take Dobson's place on the wing. If the ice is soft Meikle will be used as centre, but if it is hard, Box will be played. About 130 supporters went with the team. Dobson will not be with Queen's again this season, as he is going to Prince Albert shortly in connection with family land interests.

Not Even a Girl Angel.

Ulica Globe. After an Uncle Tom's Cabin performance in a tent down in Arkansas one of the women from the mixed audience strolled around to the dressing tent to catch a glimpse of the performers. "Dear me!" she exclaimed excitedly, as she noticed a little tot in a huge yellow wig. "What little angel is this?" "That is Little Eva, ma'am," responded Uncle Tom, as he mopped the black from his face and started washing dishes. "Well, well! And what is Little Eva's name of the stage? Something poetical like Evangeline or Elvira I'll wager." Uncle Tom grinned and kept on washing dishes. "No, ma'am, it's Mike," he said, simply. "Little Eva is a boy."

A Kentucky Mountain Wedding.

They stood on the bridge, but it was not midnight. It was long about 9 a.m., Tuesday, somewhere near the tollhouse, and Rev. S. F. Reynolds held them up with a license. He asked the young man (twenty-one) a few questions and then he propounded similar interrogatories to the young lady. Receiving satisfactory answers the reverend gentleman told them they were man and wife and to go in peace and not let it happen again. They said they'd try to and left for Fort Gay happy. They were two very nice people, both teachers. The bride was Miss Alice Frazier, of Spruce Lick—she looked spruce, too—and the bridegroom was Youla Lyman, son of Wayne Lyman, of near Fort Gay—Louisiana News.

Elopement Near Ends in Tragedy.

Word comes from Mexico that Miss Grace Ralph, daughter of Dr. Ralph, a former resident of Lansing, Mich., tried to kill herself by taking poison when she was found by her uncle in the company of a Mexican with whom she had eloped. For two days her life was despaired of, and, according to a letter received here to-day, she attempted to shoot herself when she was recovering from the effects of the poison. A revolver was taken from her before she could pull the trigger. Miss Ralph ran away with a Mexican lover and was pursued into the mountains by a posse headed by her father. She was found in San Pico.
