A LIMOUSINE COAT OF BARY LAMB AND SEAL Some women object to the loose and baggy lines of the new fur coats, and indeed these coats would not be graceful for walking or street wear; but as carriage wraps they are immensely smart and exceedingly luxurious and rich-much more so than fitted models would be. The coat illustrated in one of the "boister" models without curves and hanging straight from shoulders to heels. The fur is a very soft, supple quality of haby lamb, and the trimming pelt is French seal. The slightly full flounce at the bottom gives room to step easily-an advantage which some of the smart carriage wraps do not possess,
