THE MAYOR CLASHES

WITH CITY ENGINEER AND BOARD OF WORKS.

His Worship Orders Streets Foreman to Level Princess Street—Ald. Rigney Tells the Mayor to Not Interfere Any More.

Mayor Graham, in his endeavor to serve the citizens, has been "up against" two propositions in one week. First, he was criticized by the newspaper of his political party regarding the city council disposition that went to Ottawa to interview cabinet members about local harbor improvements.

The scraper was ordered out during the absence of the city engineer from his office, and when the latter returned and found out what the mayor had done without consulting him, he objected, and reported the matter to Ald. Rigney, chairman of the board of works. It seems that what the mayor ordered done to Princess street was in opposition to the opinion of both the engineer and the chairman, who already had men at work clearing away the dangerous places.

This morning, Ald. Rigney wrote a letter to Mayor Graham, telling him that he must not again interfere with the city engineer's department, as all orders concerning work on the streets must be given by the city engineer. Ald. Rigney also notified the employees of the engineer's department that they are to take orders only from Mr. Craig.

When seen, this morning, Mayor Graham said he did not think he had done anything but his duty to the citizens. When coming down Princess street early on Saturday afternoon, he noticed that sleighs were in danger of overturning when crossing the street as the banks on the sides of the street and railway tracks were high.

This morning he stated that he had written Ald. Rigney, chairman of the board of works, pointing out that his Princess street from Barris to King, King from Princess to Brock and Brock from King to Ontario should receive attention, and advising that a meeting of the board be called to deal with the matter.

Mayor Graham said that he would consult the city solicitor to see just what authority he had in regard to ordering necessary things done by the city departments. He had no desire to override any chairman or official but it would be just as well that the authority of the mayor was clearly defined, he said.

London, Ont., Feb. 6.—Alfred John Smith died very suddenly of heart failure in less than an hour after he had reached his brother's home, near Hyde Park. Smith had not seen his relatives here for many years, and intended spending some time with them. He arrived apparently in the best of health.

INCREASE PREFERENCE

The government has not yet disclosed its full hand with respect to the tariff changes. Ottawa advises say that if congress ratifies the reciprocal tariff, Sir Wilfrid Laurier will strengthen his position in the country by increasing the British preference to fifty per cent.

The preference now gives the British manufacturer a cut of 33 1-3 per cent. on the general tariff. Notwithstanding any reduction in favor of United States imports, British products will still have a paramount place in the Canadian tariff. Sir Wilfrid is moving cautiously. He will not relinquish the whip hand, and while the Conservatives are guessing the tried chieftain of the liberals is keeping his own counsel.
