THINGS POINT

To Parliament Endorsing Reciprocity.

FOSTER TO RESUME

THE DEBATE ON TUESDAY AFTERNOON.

Very Few Government Supporters Kicking Over the Traces—Sir Richard Cartwright's Amendment to Chinese Immigration.

Ottawa, Feb. 13.—This was private business in the house, which resumed tomorrow morning. G. E. Foster continues his remarks on the reciprocity debate and he will probably occupy several hours.

From what can be learned from the best authorities indications seem to point to the bargain that Messrs. Fielding and Patterson have made at the Canadian parliament, but it will not be for several weeks yet, with the possibility of a delay until next session on some technicality.

A few of the government supporters are kicking over the traces but not many, not enough to affect the material majority Sir Wilfrid Laurier has behind him, and it is well known that when the cabinet endorses a proposition (which it has) the liberal members generally endorse it. In the opposition R. L. Borden, Hon. George Foster and others have already been heard from and the claim that the proposed trade tariff will affect the British provinces and may even get so far as in future years to lead to annexation or absorption by the United States, is being magnified.

This is not surprising. The opposition naturally oppose measures the government suggests, and it is either "up to them" to approve of closer trade relations with Americans or emphasize the importance of closer British connections.

The issue is the most widespread commercial one, and the biggest public industrial and trade question before the house of commons probably since Sir John Macdonald introduced his national policy. His adherence to British institutions and cry of warning to beware of the States is also being dragged into the discussion, and the entire famous manifesto he issued here just twenty years ago has been introduced and enlarged upon.

In the senate Sir Richard Cartwright introduced a bill to amend the Chinese immigration act. It gives the government power to make regulations further defining merchants, students and others entitled to free admission to Canada. These classes must establish their status to the satisfaction of the comptroller at the point of entry. Members of diplomatic corps and consuls will be allowed to bring in their wives and servants and Chinese born in Canada will be allowed to bring in their wives and children. Chinese born in Canada may return free. Where a Chinese merchant who has been doing business in Canada dies, his son, if over twenty-one, may be admitted free to carry on the estate.

DISGUISED AS A MAN.

Woman Fought in War and Demands Pension.

She says she saw active service with the 63rd Regiment of Illinois during the civil war, disguised as a man. At times, she says, she was sent on perilous missions as a spy into Confederate camps. A deep scar over her left eye, she says, is where a bullet wounded her while in one of the many skirmishes around Vicksburg.

TO JAIL AND FINED

NEW YORK WOMAN PUNISHED FOR SMUGGLING.

Jail Sentence Was for Only Two Days—Prisoner a Divorced Wife of British Army Captain.

New York, Feb. 13.—As an example to women who have no qualms against smuggling Judge Martin, in the criminal branch of the United States district court, sentenced Mrs. Roberta G. Hill to the Tombs from Friday night until eight o'clock this morning, and fined her $2,000. The fine was promptly paid and Mrs. Hill was led away, sobbing hysterically. She is the daughter of Morris Menges, a well-known Brooklyn horseman, and the divorced wife of Captain James Hill, of the British army.

Counsel for Mrs. Hill made a strong plea for the court's mercy but Judge Martin said that he felt that a jail sentence was necessary as a lesson. "I regret to say," he added, "that women are much more prone to attempt smuggling than are men."

Mrs. Hill had pleaded guilty to smuggling into this country a sabbat and other goods valued at $5,000. Her mother sat near her during the proceedings and sobbed bitterly when sentence was pronounced.

Mrs. Hill's name was mentioned as a possible co-respondent when Mrs. Ava Willing Astor and Col. John Jacob Astor, for divorce, but the papers in the case were sealed and the name of the co-respondent has been kept secret.

STARVED IN RAGS

AMID HER WEALTH, WOMAN LIVED IN POVERTY.

Searchers Found the Home of a Recluse Full of Decaying Bank Notes and Fine Clothes.

Danbury, Conn., Feb. 13.—Search of the dwelling of Miss Emma Williams, an eccentric and supposedly impoverished recluse, who died a few days ago near New Milford, has revealed a fortune in rusty and decaying bank notes scattered in every nook and corner of the dwelling. The searchers also found quantities of expensive clothing, little of which had been worn.

Miss Williams had lived alone for years, subsisting upon scanty fare and dressing so shabbily that her attire attracted attention. There was talk that she had saved money through her frugal habits, but little credence was given the stories that she was a rich woman until her wealth was disclosed after her death.

The returns made to the New Milford probate court show that the cash and other property comprising the woman's estate is worth at least $31,000. Five thousand dollars in bank notes discovered in hiding places about the house is so decayed through mold and mildew that it will have to be sent to the treasury department for redemption.

To Recognize Petitions.

Paris, Feb. 13.—After further consideration of the reports presented to it by Senator Boissier d'Anglas on the petition of the three brothers Naundorff, a special commission of the senate has come to the conclusion that it is the duty of the French government to recognize the petitioners as of French nationality and as the descendants of Naundorff, the man who claimed to be Louis XVI's lawful son, the ill-fated Dauphin, who is generally supposed to have died a prisoner in Paris.

With him at the time were his sisters, Mrs. Edward Bowen, of this city, and Mrs. John McGuire, of Boston; his nephews, assistant city solicitor, J. Ashton Devereaux and Dr. Ryan Devereaux, of Washington; Dr. Ernest Laplace and James M. Anders, Mgr. Turner, the Rev. Father Navannagh, the archbishop's secretary, the Rev.

William Higgins, rector of the cathedral, and several other members of his official household.

Death followed a series of sinking spells, which began suddenly, shortly before noon and continued at intervals, followed by rallies until four o'clock. At the end his passing was calm and peaceful.

The archbishop was one of the best-loved and distinguished of Catholic dignitaries in this country. He was born in Tipperary, February 20th, 1831. He would have been eighty years old his next birthday.

He became a priest in 1853, and was made bishop in 1872, at St. Louis, and archbishop in 1882, being given the archdiocese of Philadelphia.

EUROPE SAFE

From Bubonic Plague, Specialists Say.

CANNOT BE INFECTED

EXCEPT THROUGH CRIMINAL NEGLIGENCE.

Frightful Mortality in Manchuria is a Safeguard for Europe—Modern Sanitary Organizations a Protection.

Paris, Feb. 13.—Dr. Burnet, of the faculty of Paris University, who has made a special study of the bubonic plague, affirms that the sole means of preventing its spread from Manchuria to Europe is by isolation.

Dr. Elie Metchnikoff, of the Pasteur Institute, is of the same opinion, and, by showing the possibility of successfully isolating the plague, he is prompt to reassure the French public, which has lately been watching the reports from Eastern Asia, with considerable apprehension.

He adds that even the frightful mortality in Manchuria is, in fact, a safeguard for Europe, for the reason that the plague ceases to advance only when it ceases to find material upon which to feed, within its immediate reach. Dr. Burnet says on this head:

"The greater the number of quick deaths from the plague the smaller the number of perambulating victims of the plague. It is from the latter that the world at large has most to fear. The work of the European physicians who are fighting the plague in Manchuria is more sanitary than medical."

In spite of the speedy communication by the Trans-Siberian railway, he concludes Dr. Burnet, "Europe will not be infected unless it is done through absolutely criminal carelessness. The very character of the plague, together with our modern sanitary organizations, protects us."

PRINCE EDWARD FARMERS

Applaud the Trade Pact—Big Meeting on Saturday.

Pictou, Feb. 13.—Three hundred representative Prince Edward county farmers applauded the tariff pact at the annual meeting of the Reform Association in the town hall, Saturday. Dr. Morley Currie, M.P., for Prince Edward; Dr. M. Clark, M.P., of Red Deer, Alta., and a "full-blown free trader" were the speakers. Full of facts and arguments that arraigned the protectionists, Dr. Clark gave a forceful and able free trade speech.

"To get rid of your surplus produce you must take the surplus produce of another country. What is the source of Canada's prosperity? The production of this surplus. What are you bringing immigrants here for? Only to produce enough for trade within ourselves? No, we want a surplus; the whole policy of the Dominion to-day is toward that end. What are the farmers' interests are the interests of Canada. The reciprocity arrangement increases your market. It is the right of every nation to buy in the cheapest market and sell in the dearest without barriers. Protection creates monopoly. Monopoly brings the highest price in what they want to sell, and creates a restricted market for what other people have to sell. I believe if the farmers were canvassed to-day they would show up strong enough to put through the reciprocity arrangement."

Dr. Currie dwelt more particularly on expected benefits from the reciprocity arrangement, the wider market and increased cheese prices, and the development of fishing, with better prices.

The officers elected were:—President, J. L. Shannon; vice-presidents, Messrs Blakely and A. Lott; secretary, A. Platt; treasurer, C. B. Allison.

"PROTECTION MUST VANISH

Unless Regard is Paid to Conditions as They Are."

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 13.—President Taft sounded the retreat from the chancelleries of the Payne-Aldrich tariff law. The very existence of the policy of protection, the president said, is menaced by those who persist in opposing reductions in that law which are based upon the condition of high prices and a gradual lessening in the food supply.

The president delivered his warning to the republican party, as it was regarded here, in his address to the joint assembly of the Illinois legislature.

The president put emphasis into his announcement that regard must be paid to conditions as they are, or protection must vanish. This portion of his speech was applauded more vigorously than has any utterance Mr. Taft has made on this trip through the farming country of the west.

"There are those conservative protectionists," said Mr. Taft, "who hang back from an approval of this agreement on the ground that it is a departure from the principle of protection, and is the opening wedge to let in free trade. My own view is that no step could be taken more in the interest of a reasonable policy of protection than the approval of this treaty. The very existence of the policy depends on our abolition of the tariff where it is not really needed under the principle of the last republican platform."

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 13.—"I am going to try to show the American public the way to settle once and for all the beef trust and the high cost of living," said Dr. Henry S. Tanner.

London, Eng., Feb. 13.—In the commons to-day, Premier Asquith gave his declaration of war by announcing the introduction of the government's veto bill next Monday.

This plainly indicates that the government intends to pass the measure by drastic means if necessary.
