Don't Trust To Luck

Without first getting insured; then you can afford to let luck take its course.

"What is the insurance?" is the first question asked by the public concerning every fire, after the loss is learned, because insurance so often bridges the gulf of poverty in such cases.

But of equal importance to getting insured is the selection of a good company.

There are certain fire insurance companies that stand head and shoulders above others because of the enviable records they have established through long years of prompt and full payments of every loss. These are the kind of companies we represent.

SENT UP FOR TRIAL

PATRICK BURNS IN COURT ON HOLD-UP CHARGE.

Identified by James Rigney as Man He Followed—John Hickey Told Story of the Assault.

At the police court, on Tuesday morning, Patrick Burns was committed for trial, by Magistrate Farrell, on a charge of assaulting and ill-treating John Hickey, on the night of Feb. 7th. John Hickey could not identify Burns but he was identified by James Rigney, who followed up the hold-up case.

Burns pleaded "not guilty" and J. McD. Mowat appeared on his behalf. T. J. Rigney conducted the case for the prosecution.

John Hickey was the first witness called and he told the story of the assault. He told of meeting the two men on Johnson street. One said: "John, is that you?" and at the same time the man gave him a blow in the face. Witness said: "What do you mean?" There was no response and witness then received another blow. Witness then stumbled and one of the men grabbed hold of his leg and he felt a hand going through his pocket. Just at this time a lady passing along cried "Police, police," and the two men ran away.

"Could you identify the person who assaulted you?" asked Mr. Rigney.

Witness said one man was taller than the other. It was the taller of the two who made the assault upon him. The other man did not strike him and was possibly the man who held his leg.

"At that time could you recognize the person?"

"No, I could not. I remember his voice; it appeared to be that of a friend."

Witness said that the men did not speak during the scuffle. Witness appealed to the man who did not assault him to take his friend away as he, the witness, had not done anything to merit such treatment.

Mr. Mowat asked Mr. Hickey if he had secured a good look at the men. Mr. Hickey said that his sight was not very good at night. Witness thought the man who struck him had been drinking.

At the request of Mr. Rigney Patrick Burns, the accused, was asked to put on his hat and turn up his collar coat collar, for identification.

Mr. Hickey looked at the accused, but could not swear that he was the man. The accused he said had the general appearance of the man who attacked him.

James Rigney, who left the store of Rigney & Hickey, with Mr. Hickey, told his story. As already stated in the Whig, the witness chased the two men, and Burns was arrested in the Grimason hotel, on the complaint of Mr. Rigney.

"To the best of my knowledge, Burns was one of the men," said Mr. Rigney. Witness said Burns was one of the men he was following and that the only time he had been out of his sight was when turning corners. At the corner of Clergy and Princess streets, at Prouse's drug store, the witness secured the best view of the man he was chasing. After passing the corner, the man went into the Grimason hotel. Witness could identify the man as Burns. He knew Burns. Witness said the man was wearing a soft fedora hat.

The witness told of his shadowing the two men on Bagot street, William to Clergy, and then to the corner of Brock street, where the two men separated.

This concluded the evidence for the prosecution, and the magistrate thereupon committed Burns for trial.

Has He Confessed?

It was reported this afternoon, and it was common gossip on the street, that Patrick Burns committed for trial, had confessed to having a hand in the hold-up of John Hickey.

The Whig made enquiries of the police, but could not get the rumor verified. The story going the rounds was to the effect that after the court session, Burns had admitted being implicated in the affair.

The case has created a great deal of interest. When the evidence was being taken the court room was filled to overflowing.

Belleville Wrathful at Frontenacs and O.H.A.

The Belleville Intelligencer goes clean mad over the decision of the O.H.A. executive in ordering the Frontenacs to play Peterboro again, in view of Marchand being over age. This paper squeals like a hungry pig, and throws all kinds of dirt at the Frontenacs, which it terms "Sutherland's Pirates." Why should Belleville not be given a chance to play the Frontenacs again? The Intelligencer asks. Well, it would be an awful waste of time to permit such a thing. What would be the use of putting the crack junior hockey team of Kingston up against a snow-shoe club, for that is about the size of the Belleville aggregation. For the information of the public, it might be stated that in the two games with Belleville, the Frontenacs won by the score of 32 to 2. By the way, the Frontenacs manager may ask the Intelligencer to apologise for the slurs it throws at the Frontenacs.

PRICES AT POINTS

THERE IS CONSIDERABLE DIFFERENCE SHOWN.

Eggs and Butter, Two Principal Commodities Are Much Cheaper on the Canadian Side.

Waterbury Times. With producers of agricultural products in this section, and consumers as well, watching the progress of the proposed reciprocity agreement between this country and Canada, a comparative statement of the prevailing retail prices of certain commodities in Kingston, Ont., and Watertown is of interest. The figures given below—those prevailing in Canada—are furnished by the British Whig, Kingston; those in Watertown are compiled by the Times' market editor.

The table shows a difference of ten cents per dozen, for instance, in the price of eggs here and in Kingston, with Kingston having the lower figure. Print butter varies twelve cents a pound in favor of the Kingston consumer. These two commodities show the greatest difference in price. Veal sells in Kingston at 10c. to 12c. a pound, while the prevailing price in Watertown are from 7c. to 25c. a pound. Lamb in Kingston commands from 12c. to 13c.; here from 10c. to 20c. is paid. Salmon trout varies little between the two cities. Kingston's prices are 12c. to 15c.; here trout brings 16c. Hare is worth from $8. to $9 in Kingston and $15 here. Straw shows little difference in price. The Kingston quotation is 88. The price of straw on the local market is $7 to $8 per ton. Oats are sold on the Kingston market for 40c. a bushel and bring 45c. to 50c. here.

FORMERLY OF NAPANEE.

W. S. Williams Died in California.

Napanee Express. Walter Scott Williams, Oakland, California, died January 19th, 1911, of apoplexy. Mr. Williams was a very prominent citizen, occupied in its councils and at one time its mayor. He was connected with many good works while a resident and was always endeavoring to promote its welfare. He was the projector, as well as the promoter, of the Napanee, Tamworth and Quebec Railway company, and acted as a director of same, and for many years was secretary to this company. Mr. Williams was a prominent worker in the temperance cause, being associated for years with the late Dr. Oronhyatekha and Thomas Casey, and Alexander Henry, Toronto, whose efforts were insistent for prohibition on all occasions, and never satisfied with any make-shift legislation such as local option.

Mr. Henry published and edited, in connection with the late Dr. Oronhyatekha, a temperance journal, called the Caskeet, for many years. Its influence was felt most advantageously for the cause throughout the province of Ontario. In connection with an organization, in which our late Mr. Williams was associated as secretary, the work of the Caskeet was a great help. Mr. Williams was most active in the campaign in which Dr. Oronhyatekha, himself and the golden-tongued advocate, Mr. Henry, took active part, and Mr. Williams often returned elated over the fiery eloquence of his Irish associate in the cause. He was ever ready to lend his assistance to any extent in furthering this cause of temperance and gave great credit for its advance, through its advocacy by Dr. Oronhyatekha and Mr. Henry. He remained firm in allegiance to the organization until Dr. Oronhyatekha became immersed in forestry work, and Mr. Henry, that great champion of prohibition, laid his Caskeet to rest.

Mr. Williams was always alert in this work in which his heart seemed centred, and one was inevitably reminded of determination and insistence for good when our two townsmen, Williams and Henry, were seen together in those days, and to each other were truly Damon and Pythias. Mr. Williams was a man of great intellectual force and attainments. He was most prominent in the councils of the Western Methodist church here, where in co-operation with the late gentleman, John Gibbard and J. C. Huffman, he assisted in building that congregation to its present strength and pride in righteousness. In his teachings of the truths of Christian life he has left us to-day the many fine examples in Christian fortitude, which we see in the lives of many now leaders in that church, in matters of spiritual effort.

As a lawyer he was eminently fitted to take the advanced position he did at an early age, and had not, through desire to find security from the possible inroads upon the health of those closely connected with him, to seek a milder climate to their advantage, he would no doubt have been ere this occupying a high judicial position in this province.

In his practice of law he was associated here with the late Mr. Morden, and in this, as in all other ways, he demonstrated the characteristic of always seeking for the finding the best, in order to attach himself thereto. The old firm of Williams and Morden are to be remembered as the pure gold firm of practitioners, never giving an opinion without being convinced of their belief in its integrity.

It has been admitted in the Quebec legislature that the money voted for educational purposes "is distributed, like all other boodles, through the local members for political purposes," as the Montreal Witness puts it. Is it any wonder that education should be in a backward state in that province? It is hard enough to use the public funds appropriated for roads and similar services for the purposes of patronage. But to divert the school fund—which should be sacred from the grasp—to make votes, is getting down to a level so low that fortunately it is unknown in this province.
