ON HIS OWN MERIT
PRINCE OF WALES MUST SUCCEED OR FALL.
King Has Made This Clear on More Than One Occasion—His Rank Shall Not Assist Him in Climbing the Ladder.
Apparently the Prince of Wales is being trained along admirably democratic lines, if we may accept as authoritative the interesting information purveyed by a London correspondent of the New York Sun. We are told that the heir apparent of the British throne will be treated at Oxford just like any other student. At the Royal Naval College, whence he graduates next April, more or less the same policy is being followed. It is understood he will remain at Oxford but two years. We read:
While he is at Oxford the Prince of Wales will be subject to the same discipline and routine as any other undergraduate. A special suite of rooms will be provided and furnished for him and he will have his own tutor, but this will be the limit of the exceptions made in his favor.
The king is very firm on this point, and so long as any of his sons are being educated he is determined that their rank shall not assist them and that they must succeed or fall on their merits. This much he has made clear to his family on more than one occasion.

An illustration of this was given shortly after the Prince of Wales was entered as a cadet at the junior section of the Royal Naval College at Osborne. He was invited to a garden party one afternoon, and was very anxious to attend. To his disgust, however, he was refused permission to be present by the authorities of the college, on the ground that his attendance was necessary at a special class of instruction that was to be held that day.
In high dudgeon, Prince Edward, as he then was, wrote a letter of complaint to his father. The king at once enquired into the true condition of affairs, and when he was informed of the circumstances his reply to his eldest son was at once short and decisive. He saw no reason, he said, in effect, to interfere in the matter. His son had to learn as quickly as possible that he was at the college merely as a cadet, and not as a royal prince, and that the rules that applied to his comrades applied with equal force to himself. It was his place to set an example to the other boys by a cheerful obedience to orders, however irksome the task might be, and not to look for special favors because of his high birth.
This taught the young prince a very salutary lesson, and he has never complained to his father since of any duty that has been assigned to him.
The prince is stronger in mathematics than in classics. Though a great reader he has no great liking for the dead languages, but greatly prefers modern history and biography. He has some command of modern tongues, and can already speak French and German with a tolerable amount of proficiency.
When his university course is at an end the Prince of Wales will set off on a tour of the British empire, accompanied by his brother, Prince Albert. The precedent of the similar tour undertaken by the present king, and the late Duke of Clarence and Avondale in the cruiser Bacchante will be very closely followed. Since that time, however, the empire has expanded to an extent hardly to be conceived, and it is estimated that at least twelve months will be necessary for the prince to gain even the most cursory knowledge of the great dominions over which his father rules.
Therefore, when the prince returns from their tour round the world the Prince of Wales will at once be gazetted to one of the regiments of cavalry of the line then stationed in this country.
The life of the Prince of Wales in the army will be that of any other subaltern. He will have his own quarters and his own servants, and that is all.
The great wish of the queen is that the Prince of Wales may remain a boy as long as possible. Consequently, he is not to be allowed to undertake any public duties whatever, until after he has attained the age of eighteen.

Jury Gave Her $15,000 Balm.
Vicksburg, Miss., Feb. 17.—Miss Pearl Morris has been awarded $15,000 damages by a jury against the Alabama and Vicksburg railroad because she was compelled to ride from this city to New York last November in the same Pullman car with three negro bishops.
Miss Morris says she was publicly humiliated and suffered from an attack of hysterics that left her a nervous wreck. The plaintiff, who is prominent socially, was fifty miles on her way before she discovered that the negro ministers were in adjacent berths.
Patronage to-day is something like the potage of the olden time.

OBSTINATE OPEN SORES.
They are Healed by Zam-Buk in Short Time.
For sores which defy all ordinary remedies, Zam-Buk should be tried. Old wounds, varicose ulcers, cold cracks, blood-poisoning and chronic skin diseases cannot resist the healing influence of this great herbal balm.
Miss Alma Bourgeois, of Notre Dame, Kent Co., N.B., gives the following account of what Zam-Buk did for her after various other ointments and salves had failed. She writes:
"For months I suffered with a running sore on my leg. I tried several ointments and salves, but none of them could bring about a cure. The sore would just heal over, and then break out again. I read in a newspaper, one day, of the good Zam-Buk had done, and so I determined to try it and see what this balm would do for me. I also purchased some Zam-Buk Soap.
"I washed the sore night and morning with the soap, and then applied the balm. I continued with this treatment, and after using Zam-Buk for a few weeks the sore was completely healed. I have recommended Zam-Buk to one or two of my friends for sores, and in their cases it has been equally effective."
All druggists and stores sell Zam-Buk at 50c. box or may be had post free from Zam-Buk Co., for price. It is a sure cure for scalds, inflamed places, cuts, burns, sores, chapped hands, ulcers, eczema, scalp sores, and all similar diseases and injuries. Refuse harmful imitations.

PLAYS AT THE GRAND.
"The Final Settlement," Saturday Matinee and Night.
Portraying the grave consequences that sometimes follow the sudden acquisition of wealth and power, "The Final Settlement" will be the attraction at the Grand on Saturday, February 18th, Matinee and night. Many problems of great social interest are contained in the production and a strong moral lesson is pointed out, depicting as it does the rise of a young mechanic, who, though humble, is both brilliant and ambitious. From this position of obscurity he rises through his own efforts to the presidency of a great iron trust.
In this exalted position of opulence and power the allurements of the social life in which he moves prove too much for him, and he divorces his wife, a woman of conservative, homely tastes, who, despite her husband's position, still retains her orthodox conceptions of life. The man, after securing his divorce, marries a beautiful actress, thinking that her talents and charms will enable him to obtain the social leadership he so much desires. This ambition proves fruitless, and his subsequent disgrace and ruin, and ultimate rescue in which his former wife takes an active part, form the basis of the drama.

Wives' Pay Fixed by Law.
Switzerland is the first country which has fixed by law the compensation which a married woman may rightly claim for keeping her husband's home. Not only may she claim under this new law one-third of the husband's earnings, but she may also dispose of one-third of his fortune or property in any way she may think fit.
It is, of course, only in rare cases that a wife goes to law to demand her rights in a matter of this kind, and most Swiss married couples are content to keep to the ordinary domestic arrangements in the distribution of household funds, but economists have been trying to figure out whether one-third of a married man's income is a fair proposition to surrender to the unrestricted jurisdiction of the wife.
A Knock to the Croakers.
The announcement by Premier Assolant that the reciprocity agreement has been made with the full knowledge of the British government, and that it has been informed fully as to its character by Ambassador Bryce before it was signed, rather took the ground from beneath the feet of the unionist loyalty shouters.
A Great Gain Surely.
Hon. Mr. King estimates that probably $16,000,000 has been saved to the country in four years by the operation of the Lemieux act, nearly $6,000,000 of which represented wages. The Lemieux act has amply justified itself.
The dead beat does not seek for a companion the man with moneyless pockets.

You Can Cure Chest Colds
And Bronchitis by Using Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine If You Get the Genuine.
The mere mention of pneumonia and consumption causes a person to shudder, but a cold is such a common thing that it is too often left alone until these other ailments develop from it.
You can readily cure throat and chest colds, croup and bronchitis, by using Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. This medicine is both thorough and far-reaching in its influence on the system. For this reason its merits are well-known and its sales enormous.
But there are at least four imitations of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. And imitations are always a little cheaper, how else would they sell. They are never sold on their own merit, but on the merit of the article they imitate.
Their likeness is in name only, and when you are in need of medicine you don't want to depend on a name or imitation. Every bottle of the genuine bears the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author, 25 cents a bottle, family size 60 cents, all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Toronto.
