

RAGING HEADACHE STOPPED AT ONCE

When He Took "Fruit-a-tives"

SMALL'S OYST., Sept. 2nd, 1910.
"You certainly have the Greatest Headache Cure in the world. Before 'Fruit-a-tives' came before the public, I suffered from Headaches caused by Bilious Disorders.

"One of your travellers called on me when I had one of my raging headaches and had my head almost drawn from external applications.

"I hated to see any person coming into the store (which was a commercial traveller) and I told him very curtly that I had a headache but he insisted on my trying 'Fruit-a-tives'.

"I did so, with what I would call amazing results. They completely cured me and since then (nearly six years ago) it is only necessary for me to take one occasionally to preserve me in my present good health. I was 65 years old yesterday and have been a general store keeper at the above address for twenty-five years."

WM. PITT

A POPULAR LAMENT.

Where Would Society be if One Was Judged for the Sins of Others?
"Oh, I tried one of those hair tonics some time ago and it never did me a bit of good.
That's what many people are saying to-day when they refuse Herpicide a trial.
"It would be as sensible to say 'I never travel on a railroad because I often see collisions mentioned in the papers.'
Newbro's Herpicide is specially made to destroy the germ that is living on the roots of your hair.
That is why it is so exceedingly efficacious. It is there for the sole purpose of ridding the hair of this parasitic growth, after which the hair grows as nature intended.
Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. 21 bottles guaranteed. James B. McLeod, druggist, special agent, Kingston, Ont.

HAS MIMIC COURT

PORTUGUESE COLONY ESTABLISHES ITSELF.

Ignored by Reporters—Daily Life in Somewhat That of an Ordinary English Gentleman.

Although she called King Manuel and Queen Amelie have been at Hillsborough only a fortnight, the people of the royal borough are already talking their presence quite as a matter of course.

Now that the photographers have ceased from troubling and newspaper reporters have turned their attentions to fresher topics, King Manuel and his mother are able to enjoy the same seclusion which they seek. They leave and return to the mansion in King's road unnoticed, except by the policeman on duty at the gate.

KING MANUEL

The solo advertisement that Aberdeen is not as other houses on the hill. And the going and coming are pretty constant, because both the young King and Queen Amelie love to open their eyes and find constant delight in exploring Richmond Park. The queen knows it and the surrounding country well, for she passed much of her youth in the house of the Comte de Paris at Boisbucourt, only a mile or two distant. And the king is rapidly acquiring a knowledge of the most desirable excursions for walking or riding or motoring.

It takes a great deal of walking exercise, generally in the morning after the café complete, which is served in continental style about 8.30 at Aberdeen. A stroll of the Robin Hood Gate in the park by Hill's Cross and back, about 10 miles, is his favorite route, which he indulges in nearly every morning. Sometimes he is accompanied by Senor Koraguch, his late tutor, sometimes by the Misses de Alameda, the private secretary, who "lives nearby" at Sussex House.

He disdains the protection of an overcoat during these walks. Dressed in blue serge or tweed, and wearing a soft felt hat, he apparently finds the climate of Richmond quite congenial.

He is a pretty constant visitor to London, where he calls on his loyal adherents, including the Marquis de Soveral and the Marquis de Marquis de Faval. Both ex-King Manuel and his mother have been seen riding at Richmond Park, attended by a single groom. The stables attached to Aberdeen, which lie about 100 yards from the house, to which they are connected by telephone, now contain some half dozen horses for the use of the royal party.

The interior of Aberdeen has been repaired and the walls discoloured, for ex-King Manuel dislikes wallpaper. Some half dozen smaller houses in the neighborhood have been taken by friends of his exile. At present, the lord chamberlain and the lady-in-waiting, are staying with their majesties, but when "Crow's Nest," in the queen's road, has been reconstructed they will remove there. It is expected that before long quite a colony of Portuguese nobles will be formed in Richmond, and they will have no difficulty in finding homes.

Each Sunday, since their arrival the king and his mother, with the ladies and gentlemen of the household, have attended mass at St. Francis's Roman Catholic church.

Poser for the Preacher.
A clergyman who enjoyed the substantial benefits of a fine farm was slightly taken down, on one occasion by his Irish plowman, who was sitting on his plow in the wheat field. The reverend gentleman, being an optimist, said with great seriousness: "John, wouldn't it be a good plan for you to have a pair of pruning shears here and be cutting a few bushes along the fence while the horses are resting a short time?"

John considered a moment and then said: "Look here! Wouldn't it be well, for you to have a tub of potatoes in the pulpit and while the congregation was singing to feel em to be ready for the pot?"

Our aspirations should be the kind to reach up for, not down. He who sets for dead men's shoes is liable to get cold feet.

It Rested With Him.
Upton Sinclair, discussing the fasting cure that he has done so much to advance, said in New York: "Fasting has become as popular as apple pie. I hope, though, it won't fall into the same disrepute."
"It's currently believed, you know, that a leading surgeon said to his wife one day:
"I operated on Mrs. Goshaw Goble for appendicitis, last night."
"Goodness," said the lady. "I wonder who'll have it next?"
"I don't know," the surgeon answered absently. "I haven't decided yet."

ROYAL LADY BOUNTIFUL.

A Woman of Large Heart, Ever Trying to Help the Poor.

In the cause of charity Queen Mary is most generous. She is ever thinking how she can best render help to the poor and to the needy. But large as her heart is, she does not waste her energy or give way to mere sentiment. No letter asking for assistance in any form is ever allowed to be turned up without full consideration being given to the object and in every instance a reply is sent. Each case is thoroughly investigated and none but the deserving are ever assisted. In the task of aiding her majesty always helps, and long acquaintance with work of this kind enables her quickly to detect the true from the counterfeit. The yearly reports of charitable societies with which the queen's name is in any way associated are examined by her personally before being placed away for future reference, and she often asks pertinent questions about the management.

A charity in which the queen takes much personal interest is the holiday hope for governesses, founded by herself and which bears her name. Her majesty frequently motored down into Surrey, where the home is situated, and spends an hour or so talking with the governesses and inquiring into the arrangements made for their comfort. Another charity which owes its origin to the queen is the Home of Rest for Working Women of London, founded as a national memorial to her mother, herself an industrious worker. The queen is ever anxious to see that proper attention is given to sewing in her schools, and in many varied ways she has assisted in promoting and encouraging the art of needlework. As Duchess of York she provided the means for building a room at the village homes for little girls at Addlestone, where the rescued children as they grow up, are taught to make their own outfits for service. In the progress of the Needlework Guild, which owes its early success, if not its origin, to the late Duchess of Teck, the queen has always taken a special interest. For years she assisted her mother in the collection and distribution of the articles, and when the duchess passed away the queen herself became the head of the guild. All the parcels are directed to her personally, and year by year it has been her custom to attend at the imperial institute, and see them unpacked and the articles sorted. In this way thousands of poor people are supplied annually with warm garments for the winter.

The queen makes crochets, woolens for the poor children at the extent of sixty a year. And on being asked how she could possibly make so large a number replied: "I have always one of the little petticoats on hand in each of my sitting-rooms, and I take it up whenever I have a few spare minutes, then in the evenings my husband reads to me and I work and get through a great deal." Some of the garments find their way to mothers' meetings, and the youngest baby present is the happy possessor of the royal gift, which is usually placed in a glass showcase or cupboard and shown by the proud mother to admiring friends and neighbors.

The father of one of these fortunate babies was unexpectedly driving a carriage in which the king, then Prince of Wales, was seated. On turning home the man said to his wife: "As I was driving my royal highness I said to myself: 'Ah, sir, you little know that my wife has a portrait of your wife and a petticoat for our baby if her own making hanging up in our parlor showcase. The royal children are trained by their mother in the same habits of thrift, frugality and self-forgetfulness, to the last year Princess Mary sent into the London section of the Needlework Guild one hundred articles of her own making and collecting—North American Review.

Uses of White Grape.
The uses of the white grape are endless. It makes a pretty addition to fruit cocktails, salads and desserts of all kinds. A few bunches of white grapes buried in the heart of a salt green lemon jelly is a thing of beauty when turned out on a crystal dessert platter, and a bunch of purple grapes looks equally well in a pale purple jelly prepared from fermented grape juice, water, sugar and gelatine.

QUEEN MARY MAY SLEEP

In the Bedroom of Mary Stuart at Holyrood.
King George, who is in excellent health and spirits, reads this week as virtually the first in the pre-coronation season; and on all sides is heard the earnest wish that nothing unpleasant will occur to mar the ceremonies in June.

A wave of popular enthusiasm for the royal party is rolling over the kingdom, gathering volume as it goes, and it promises to reach giant proportions. Paragraphs in society journals, though some of them show a black eye as the result of recent disclosures regarding their methods of getting "inside information," are telling of arrangements which many of the great families are making for non-private functions accompanying the court programme. Stress is laid upon the "ceremonies" that trans-Atlantic ladies who have married into our noble houses will, as usual, be prominent; if, forsooth, in the list of entertainers, writing American splendor to British staterooms.

Every Londoner has familiarized himself with the route of the procession on the day of the coronation, June 22nd, and of the royal progress through London on the day following. All points of vantage are being taken up.

Scotchmen are elated over the decision of the king and queen to reside in Holyrood palace during their stay in Edinburgh for the Levee and the court after the coronation.

Many decades have passed since a British sovereign slept in Holyrood. Queen Mary is urged to occupy the bedchamber of Mary Stuart, and quite likely will comply as a matter of sentiment.

It Rested With Him.
Upton Sinclair, discussing the fasting cure that he has done so much to advance, said in New York: "Fasting has become as popular as apple pie. I hope, though, it won't fall into the same disrepute."
"It's currently believed, you know, that a leading surgeon said to his wife one day:

STANDARD TIME.

France's Change and Reasons for Making It.

The interesting fact was mentioned some time ago in these columns that a movement was on foot in France whereby the purpose was the co-ordination of the time of day in that country with the time of day in England. Now the French estate has passed a bill changing the legal time in France and Algeria, which is now nine minutes twenty-one seconds slower, so as to make it correspond with the English legal time. Belgium, Holland and Spain have already set their clocks and watches by the time fixed for London by the Greenwich observatory.

On the face of it, this seems like a very small matter, but the difference of time between London and Paris has kept a source of complaint in both capitals. London and Paris are in very close commercial and financial touch and a uniform time system will eliminate many little annoyances now arising from the difference of nine minutes twenty-one seconds in the arrival and departure of trains, in the opening and closing of exchanges, in the dating of telegrams and such matters.

There used to be a great deal of confusion resulting from time differences in this country up to 1883, when the standard time system was adopted. Communities removed by any considerable distance, east and west, not only had different time astronomically, but in most western towns and cities the method of measuring time prevailed, one depending upon the movement of the sun, the other upon the movement of railroad trains. In such communities it was necessary to explain when talking business in respect whether you wanted local or railroad time. The establishment of the United States standard time, extending from sixty-five degrees to 125 degrees west longitude, is divided into four time sections, each of fifteen degrees of longitude exactly equivalent to one hour (75 degrees or 30 minutes on each side of a meridian), commencing with the seventy-fifth meridian, reckoned all this.

With the change pending in France, Europe will have practically a standard time system similar to that of this country and of Canada, Middle European time, one hour faster than Greenwich time, is used on the railways in Sweden, Germany, Austria, Hungary, Serbia and western Turkey, Eastern European time, two hours faster than Greenwich, is used by the railways of eastern Turkey, Bulgaria and Roumania. In Australia standard time is two hours ahead of Greenwich time in Sydney and Brisbane, while it is nine, eight and seven hours ahead of Greenwich in Adelaide, Perth, and Wellington, respectively. In the time zone that includes Great Britain, Ireland still stand out independently by Dublin time, regulated from Greenwich, prevails in that country.

In both France and England the fact that the co-ordination of time takes place in a period when the relations of the two countries have reached a stage of friendliness beyond that of any previous period of their history is not lost sight of. Rather is it taken as an assurance that the sentiment, which means peace, is to be permanent.

Family Cured of Eczema

By Cuticura Remedies.
"The Cuticura treatment has absolutely cured me and family of eczema which I, my wife and two-year-old child had for eight months. It started with small pimples on the head of my child which gradually broke out in sores, and it was not long before I and my wife got the same. Our heads were one mass of sores, we could not sleep and the itching was terrible. We suffered for eight months. We tried different kinds of ointments and medicine but it did us no good and soon it began to break out on our bodies until a friend who had the same trouble told me about Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Resolvent, and I was surprised. After the first few days our heads began to heal and in two months we were absolutely cured of this terrible eczema."

Family Cured of Eczema

By Cuticura Remedies.
"The Cuticura treatment has absolutely cured me and family of eczema which I, my wife and two-year-old child had for eight months. It started with small pimples on the head of my child which gradually broke out in sores, and it was not long before I and my wife got the same. Our heads were one mass of sores, we could not sleep and the itching was terrible. We suffered for eight months. We tried different kinds of ointments and medicine but it did us no good and soon it began to break out on our bodies until a friend who had the same trouble told me about Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Resolvent, and I was surprised. After the first few days our heads began to heal and in two months we were absolutely cured of this terrible eczema."
