DEATH OF FELIX SHAW EDWARDS ON FENCE

A WELL-KNOWN CITIZEN HAS PASSED AWAY.

Deceased Was Formerly a Leading Dry Goods Merchant—Retired to Private Life Many Years Ago—Was an Alderman and a School Trustee.

There passed to rest at 3.30 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, one of Kingston's oldest and most widely-known citizens, in the person of Felix Shaw, who died at his residence, on Bagot street, after an illness extending over some months. In the prime of health till a year ago, and most active, Mr. Shaw began suddenly to fail. Since last autumn he had been confined to his home. He grew rapidly weaker a month ago, and finally steadily till death came. So another familiar figure of the old days in the Limestone city has been called hence.

The late Mr. Shaw was born in Kingston. In his younger days he was a clerk in the wholesale dry goods house of Macnee & Waddell (now Macnee & Minnes). Afterwards he bought the retail dry goods business conducted at the corner of Wellington and Princess streets, by the late Robert Waddell, and known as the Glasgow Warehouse. Here he remained for many years.

Those who knew him best can tell of his liberality, his kindness and his attachment to family and home. He was a successful business man, and in middle life was able to retire, and since then had travelled a good deal. He was a true friend—one of that kind who never fail when needed most. He served his city both in the city council and the board of education. He was an alderman, representing Sydenham ward in 1883 and 1884, and a school trustee for the same ward in 1907 and 1908. In church affairs he was also active, being a trustee of Chalmers Presbyterian church for years. He was interested in charitable work, and for many years was a co-treasurer of the Kingston general hospital. He was also an active member of the Kingston Yacht Club, and for several years enjoyed motor boat sailing. In politics he was a pronounced liberal. He was a member of the Masonic order, being attached to Cataract lodge. He was also a member of the Frontenac Club.

Mr. Shaw responded to the call to arms in 1866, when the Fenians threatened Canada, and joined the 14th Princess of Wales Own Rifles of Kingston, with which he served at Cornwall. He is survived by his wife (formerly Miss Alice Taylor, of Perth) and three children; also by three sisters, Mrs. Hare, Mrs. Swales and Mrs. Bell, Gore street.

The funeral will take place from his late residence, on Tuesday afternoon. The flags on the city buildings are flying at half-mast, out of respect to the memory of the deceased ex-alderman.

IN-CROWDED STREET.

Exciting Runaway on Saturday Afternoon.

A runaway on Princess street when the thoroughfare was crowded with people, caused a great deal of excitement, Saturday afternoon. A horse driven by Dr. Keyes was the cause of all the trouble. The animal made a lively sprint, colliding with A. Chown's hardware rig, and then went out Princess street on a mad gallop. The road was well filled with farmers on their way home, and they had a busy time keeping clear of the animal. The shafts were broken off the cutter, and additional damage was prevented by the horse taking to a lane, after going several blocks. The horse on the hardware rig ran out to Williamsville at a lively rate, and was captured on the York road. It was one of the most exciting runaway accidents in the city for some time.

Laymen's Banquet Tonight.

The Laymen's banquet, for the male members of the Church of England in Kingston, to be held in St. George's hall, at 6.30 to-night, promises to be a great success. Canon Gould, a medical man, has a live message, and R. W. Allen, M.A., also a man who appeals to men to the feast of reason will be hountiful.

Has Changed Hands.

The Princess theatre has again changed hands. This time it is a Kingston man who has control of it. James Carey, who until a short time ago was proprietor of the Albion hotel, is the new owner, having purchased it from the Toronto owner.

FRONTENAC'S MEMBER HAS NOT YET DECIDED

Whether to Vote for Reciprocity or Not—Meeting of County Conservative Association on Saturday Afternoon.

There was a very large attendance at the annual meeting of the Liberal-Conservative Association for the county of Frontenac, held on Saturday afternoon, in the court house, and after officers had been elected, addresses were given by T. W. Crothers, K.C., M.P. for West Elgin; J. S. Gallagher, M.P.P., Frontenac county; Dr. Edwards, M.P.P., Frontenac county; W. F. Nickle, M.P.P. for Kingston, and J. S. Carstairs, conservative organizer, Toronto.

Dr. Edwards, in his address, dealt with the reciprocity question, but did not place himself on record as being for or against it, stating that he had not, as yet, had ample time to study every phase of the question. However, when he had given the matter every consideration, and if it came to a question in the house, he would vote according to his own convictions, in spite of who it might hurt. Mr. Crothers and Mr. Nickle opposed reciprocity, and Mr. Crothers also dealt with the Farmers' bank case, claiming that the government at Ottawa had been responsible for the trouble, at the same time placing the bulk of the blame at the door of the finance minister.

At the opening of the meeting the first order of business was the consideration of a new constitution, and it was suggested that some changes be made. Then the election of officers was proceeded with, and the reading of the usual reports of the auditor, treasurer, etc.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, James Martin, Cushman; first vice-president, Thomas Fawcett, Wolfe Island; second vice-president, John Taylor, Storrington; secretary, William McNeilly, Sunbury (re-elected); treasurer, John Corkehill, Perth Road; auditors, Hugh Creighton, Sydenham, and Roy Leonard, Hartington.

The following township chairmen were elected: Loughboro, Richard Joyce, Sydenham; George Stewart, Erie; Portland, L. H. Rutan, Harrowsmith; Kennebec, G. A. Miller, Arden; Wolfe Island, R. McCready, Garden Island; S. Calvin, Olden; D. W. Cronk, Long Lake; Hinchinbrooke, R. A. Hamilton, Godfrey, Howe Island, M. Cox; Palmerston, James Alles, Donaldson post office; Bedford, John A. Kennedy, Tichbourne; Barrie, Charles McGreggor, Myers' Cave; Oso, S. G. Birch, Cole Lake.

The president and the members of parliament were appointed to select the chairman for the places not represented at the meeting.

After the election of officers, the new president, who has been in the ranks of the conservatives for forty-five years, took the chair.

J. S. Gallagher as the first speaker. "The present government, in my opinion," he said, "is working in the interests of the people of this province. There are some people who say that the government is all right, but that they are spending too much money. I am only sorry that we have not got more money to spend, so long as it is spent honestly. It is money well spent." Reference was made to an increase in the revenue since the present government had taken control. There had been an increase from five million dollars in 1905, to nine millions in 1910. He claimed that when the present administration came into power, all the institutions were in a deplorable condition and now they were in the best of condition. Reference was made to the new railroads being built in New Ontario; and the big revenue which is being derived from them.

The speaker referred to the present appointment of fishery overseers in this county, by the Ottawa government. These appointments were a mystery to him. This department had been well managed and he did not see why these appointments should be made. He was of the opinion that the men were appointed so as to report certain things to the government.

Mr. Crothers, after referring to the wealth of the natural resources of the county, referred to the Farmers' bank and reciprocity.

"The existence of the Farmers' bank," he said, "and the wreck which followed, are attributed to the negligence of the government at Ottawa, and to the gentleman who is at the head of the finance department, Hon. Mr. Fielding—the gentleman who, a short time ago, received a present of $120,000 and refused to tell the people of Canada who contributed that handsome present."

The speaker referred to the banking act, and claimed that it had been violated in the case of the Farmers' Bank. It was necessary that there shall be at least $200,000 of stock subscribed. Those who make bona fide subscriptions, must pay in cash at least $250,000. In this case an affidavit from the manager of the bank had been taken which was fraudulent, and the finance minister should have investigated.

Turning to the reciprocity question.

Mr. Crothers said it was the most important question since confederation. He considered that it was too large a question and too broad, to speak of it in a dogmatic manner. The question could be looked at from many view points. Every man, no matter how patriotic, might differ on the question. Considerable could be said on both sides. It would become any man to speak in a dogmatic manner concerning it. It was a question which should receive serious consideration.

"Canada is not a peanut stand, and the people of Canada are not a nation of hucksters," said the speaker. "The country extends from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and we must look upon the question four thousand miles long, and two thousand miles broad." The question was one which should be well thought out.

The speaker in taking up the agreement, said that if it were adopted, we pledged ourselves to permit twelve other countries to send their products into this country, but that we did not have the privilege of sending into any one of these twelve countries. Was this a fair proposition? The speaker held that many had a wrong idea about the reciprocity agreement of 1854. They were on the opinion that the reciprocity agreement was the reason for the farmers being prosperous. It was due to fact that England and Russia were at war at the time, and that higher prices were paid for products. After the war, the prices dropped again.

Dr. James F. Gibson made a few remarks at the close of Mr. Crothers' address, stating that he favored reciprocity for the sale of poultry.

Dr. Edwards said that he had several letters addressed to him, through the press recently, on the reciprocity agreement, and he had been asked to express his opinion before even some of the members on the liberal side of the house.

"There are some men I cannot satisfy, no matter what I do," said Dr. Edwards. "It is a question which has engaged the attention of some of the ablest men on both sides of the house. There are only two or three men who could settle the question, off hand, and they live in Glenburnie and Pittsburgh."

Dr. Edwards said Mr. Crothers had dealt with the reciprocity question from a national standpoint; he wished to deal with it not only from a general standpoint, but from the standpoint of the county of Frontenac. Frontenac county was the only county which had not an incorporated village or town. This must be taken into consideration, and he could see but the one market that in the city.

"I will give my vote in accordance with my views on the matter," said Dr. Edwards. "Let it displease who it may, I will at least be honest. I do not expect to suit everyone in my vote, and I do not intend to tell you just what position I am going to take. The reason I do not tell you, is because I have not carefully considered every phase of this agreement, in so far as it relates to this county, but I intend to do so, before I arrive at a conclusion."

There was a great difference between this agreement and the one the conservatives, when in power, wished to have passed. As stated by Mr. Crothers, twelve other countries were to benefit by the agreement.

Farmers were of the opinion that they would derive a great benefit from the agreement, but the benefits would not be as great as they thought.

Dr. Edwards made an attack upon the government, stating that it did not care for the people. This had been shown when the navy bill had been brought up. This trade agreement had been brought in to cover up the mistake made in introducing the navy bill. In the reciprocity question, he believed that the only way to decide the matter was to sum up all the benefits on one side, the evils on the other side, and then to balance them off and vote accordingly. He believed that there was no necessity for the agreement. He believed that an agreement with the states would have been secured very soon, and without Canada making the sacrifices.

W. F. Nickle did not favor reciprocity, and said that such an agreement would never have been heard of, had it not been for the navy bill. Something had to be done, to cover up this scheme. He held that the heritage handed down must be preserved, and that no agreement should be entered into which would in any way break the cords binding England and Canada together.

Mr. Carstairs, the organizer, spoke briefly, and the meeting was closed with cheers for the king, and conservative party, after a vote of thanks had been tendered to the speakers.

The next United States congress will likely meet on April 12th. McIntosh Bros. sale of English ties. See window.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

The Productions That Are Billed for This Week.

"A Stubborn Cinderella" company numbers sixty people, including a number of prominent artists; the chorus is composed of attractive, prepossessing and capable young ladies. Charles A. Goettler has equipped the production with magnificent scenery and gorgeous costumes. "A Stubborn Cinderella" comes to the Grand on Wednesday, March 1st.

The story of "A Stubborn Cinderella" is divided into three scenes, the first showing the campus of Columbia University, the second a railroad wreck, with the third a view of the Natatorium of Coronado Beach hotel, California.

"The Prince of Pilsen."

Beyond doubt, melody is the backbone of "The Prince of Pilsen," which comes to the Grand on Thursday, March 2nd. "The Message of the Violets," "The Stein Song," "Pictures in the Smoke," "The Song of the Cities," and "The Tale of the Sea Shell," any one of which would give consequence to the ordinary musical comedy, were all composed by Mr. Laiders for the single score of "The Prince of Pilsen." "The Prince of Pilsen" has a special orchestra under no less a director than Gu tav Hinch.

Saturday's Production.

"My Cinderella Girl" was produced at the grand on Saturday matinee and night and was enjoyed by goosie-sized houses. It is something unique in the way of a musical farce. The comedy is bright and the singing very good. The baseball game scene in the last act was decidedly good.

OPENING OF NAVIGATION.

Pierrepont at Cape Vincent March 20th Last Year.

It will soon be time now for the veteran ice breaker, the steamer Pierrepont, to make her first trip of the season. Last season she made her first trip to Cape Vincent, on March 20th, and it was one to be remembered by the crew, as they had some very big icebergs to encounter. The steamer left here on the morning of the 26th and returned in the evening. From present indications, there is no chance of there being such an early opening of navigation.

The official opening of navigation last year was March 21th, the steamer Wolfe Islander making her first trip of the season over from the island, on that day.

It is reported that the steamer City of New York, which is laid up at Cobourg, may be taken to the steamer Sharples, wrecked off the Galloup Islands, to take off the cargo.

Invention as Applied to Foods.

It is interesting to reflect that the supersession of the tinder box by the match, and the messenger by the telephone is simply an illustration of the manner in which invention changes the ways of the world and produces greater comfort in daily life.

Oxo Cubes are probably the greatest advance in food and dietetics which has taken place in fifty years. In the early times Liebig's Extract was unknown and the pot au feu reigned supreme. Since that day one invention has followed another until we get the perfection of concentration and ingenuity in the best extract and best fibrins cubes called—Oxo Cubes.

The process of preparation known only to the makers of Oxo is so intricate and delicate that it ensures the nourishing and stimulating properties of Oxo being equally distributed in each single cube. The cube is gauged to the exact size of a cupful, and five striking advantages are that they do away with the troublesome handling of corks, jars, and bottles, and the trouble of gauging and measuring. Ladies realize what an immense saving this means.

If one goes into almost any house in Canada, to-day, a box of Oxo Cubes will be found in the sideboard or on the mantelpiece.

HOSPITAL GETS MONKY.

Trust Fund of $10,000 to Brockville Hospital Allocated.

Toronto, Feb. 27.—Justice Falconbridge, in the case of the estate of the late Hon. G. T. Fulford, held that a bequest of $10,000 to the Brockville general hospital was legal, and directed that the money be paid over. His lordship held that a valid trust had been created in favor of the hospital. Leave was given the executors to deduct $600 from the amount which had been paid, as succession dues. The money is to be used by the hospital for the erection of a nurses' home.

At the Police Court.

There was but one drunk in police court this morning and he was a young man, scarcely out of his teens. He admitted his guilt and stated that he did not remember being arrested. As it was his second appearance, he was fined $2 and costs, or twenty days.

Worked on the Sabbath.

The weather man was responsible for some of the city corporation men working on Sunday. Several complaints were received about drains being blocked, and the engineer had to get his men out to prevent some serious floods. The cooler weather of Sunday night was welcomed by the engineer's department.

It Looked Rather Strange.

The Frontenac Conservative Association met, on Saturday afternoon, but did not pass a resolution against reciprocity, for the good reason that the Frontenac farmers are in favor of it. It is whispered that the "machine fellows" arranged beforehand that no resolution should be put on the subject.

Arthur H. N. Bruce, C.E., Ottawa, has been appointed chief engineer of the Quebec and Saguenay railway.
